Richard Butler Is Pelted With Flour And Eggs

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 21 (AP) — Jeering students pelted Dep. Prime Minister Richard Butler with flour, soot and eggs today in a Glasgow University rite that turned into a near-riot.

Police reinforcements were rushed to St. Andrews Hall to restore order after the mild-mannered Butler, plugging away at a speech, was soaked to the skin, covered with flour and wreathed with rolls of toilet tissue.

Four bugle-blowing students were arrested in wild scenes unprecedented even in the riotous past history of similar ceremonies installing the annual lord rector of Glasgow University.

An univited jazz band blared throughout Butler's speech accepting the honorary post. A photographer was knocked out by a flying cabbage. Firecrackers exploded. Rotten fruit deluged the stage.

Egg Yolk

Butler, a garish white figure with egg yolk and flour forming a paste on his face, just kept on talking — even when sprayed with fire extinguishers.

The ordeal experienced by the No. 2 man in Prime Minister Macmillan's government came only 24 hours after another semi-riot when an actor was installed as lord rector at Edinburgh University. One of the targets there was Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II.

Such installation ceremonies traditionally are an excuse for a display of high spirits. But the fun got out of hand while Butler was trying to speak inside the huge Glasgow hall.

"By 1970," he told the shouting students, "Britain can expect to increase her wealth by no less than 41 per cent."

Two tomatoes struck him in the chest. A soot bomb burst alongside. Somebody blew a deafening blast on a trumpet.

Butler smiled a wintry smile, and went on: "We stand on the threshold of an expansion of wealth unprecedented in history . . ." His words died as a bag of flour burst full in his face.

University officials sitting beside Butler were pelted and drenched as well. Some walked off the stage.

Fighting broke out in one section of the hall. Balloons suddenly shot into the air all over the auditorium. The jazz band was just getting into its stride.

Students battled with police outside the hall after the ceremony. One constable was hurled through the plate glass window of an automobile showroom.

Much interest was shown in the listing of postmasters names in Monroe since the first post office was established. It appeared in this column yesterday. Some readers were surprised to learn that the name first given was "Washita," but soon after the spelling was corrected to the name Ouachita. The only Washita today is the name of a county in Oklahoma.

Older residents here recall the time when the post office was in the building on St. John Street immediately opposite Hotel Virginia. This building has no cornerstone but it is believed to have been erected about 1890.

It was replaced by the present office which was erected in 1932. The old post office building was sold to the City of Monroe for $25,000 with understanding that it not be resold and must not be used for other than official city and parish uses. The price was made exceptionally low, especially as the site of Hotel Virginia, immediately opposite, was sold for $75,000.

Gibbs Slams Report From Official

Lashes Out At Mary E. Parker Welfare Views

"I think she just slapped the old folks in the face," he said.

The report earlier this week called for a hard look at causes of welfare dependency and added, "we believe the citizens of Louisiana share our concern over the fact that in these prosperous times so many must seek our help."

The Ouachita Parish legislator, an administration supporter, urged Gov. Earl Long to ignore the report.

"Unfortunately," Gibbs wrote Long, "we are not enjoying prosperous times as Mrs. Parker asserts. All of us are fully aware of the fact that the economic clock has turned back during recent months.

"We cannot permit our old people to suffer because of this unfortunate situation, but we should devote our greatest efforts and abilities to care for those who are unable to care for themselves.

". . . I strongly urge you as governor. . . to continue to assist and help the needy as you have done in the past and not be guided by the commissioner's report."

Gibbs renewed his suggestion, made last year, to "take the money wasted on administration and put it into welfare payments and you could provide a $75 old age pension."

Mrs. Parker has flatly denied this was possible, but Gibbs said red tape would be sliced enormously if pensions were provided for everyone over 65 years of age.

Maximum old age assistance currently is about $68 per person, given on the basis of need.

Gibbs told the Associated Press, "we've got more people needing jobs in the Monroe area than we've had in years.

"I know of one family that has seven children. Three haven't been to school in three weeks because they don't have any shoes.

"I pointed out to Gov. Long last June we were headed for this setback up here. The farmers are in bad shape. They had one of their worst years in history in 1957.

"The weather has been so bad the contractors can't afford to hire anybody on their construction jobs, it's either raining or freezing cold."

Quail Hunting For President Tabbed Circus

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP) — President Eisenhower embarked today on another quail shooting expedition that bore more resemblance to the movement of a circus than to a hunting party.

The President, looking a bit pale but in a cheerful mood, set out on the vast property of former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

The White House doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, riding horseback.

The rear of one of the wagons piled high with two medical bags for the doctor, two carbines and a Thompson submachine gun for the Secret Service.

One Secret Service man on horseback, and three others clinging to the rear of the second wagon.

Two Negro dog handlers on horses and four dogs to point and retrieve the quail that abound on the Humphrey property.

Ideal Weather

The President could not have had more ideal hunting weather—bright sun and a temperature reading of 50 degrees.

The President, cardling a .20-gauge double-barreled shotgun in his arms, chatted amiably with reporters and photographers as he started out. He said he felt "pretty good" but shook his head

Reds Say Rhee Can Negotiate Plane Return

TOKYO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Communist North Korea said today the crew and passengers of a captured airliner will be allowed to return if President Syngman Rhee of South Korea will negotiate for their release.

The broadcast from the North Korean capital of Pyongyang thus put the pressure on the aged Rhee who has steadfastly refused to recognize the Red regime or negotiate with it.

The Communists have claimed the Korean National Airline plane with its two U.S. pilots and 32 other persons flew voluntarily to North Korea Sunday. KNA said Red agents aboard the plane kidnaped it.

The Pyongyang broadcast admitted that there are some who desire to return.

After saying those who wanted to would be allowed to go back to South Korea, Pyongyang hedged this way: "Our side has already made it clear if the South Korean authorities really want to realize the hope of those desiring to return home it is proper that they should directly approach the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for this."

Rhee In Forces

The fate of those who want to return to the South, the broadcast said, hinges entirely upon the attitude of Syngman Rhee.

North Korea's demand for negotiations aroused speculation that the Communists would use any conference to press their proposal for withdrawal of U.N. troops

Hula girls danced, the Pacific Fleet band played, fireboats spewed water and a helicopter dropped flower leis as Lt. Cmdr. Thomas A. Bryce, of Wichita Falls, Tex., seven officers and 75 crewmen returned.

The crew spent Christmas in Athens, Greece, New Year's Day in Naples, Italy. Other ports of call included Yokosuka, the Philippines, Colombo, Karachi, Cannes, Barcelona, Lisbon and Colon in the Panama Canal Zone.

Army Sergeant Draws Five Year Prison Term For Conspiracy To Spy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—An Army courtmartial convicted M. Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes of conspiring to spy for Russia today and sentenced him to five years imprisonment at hard labor.

Rhodes received the sentence, as he had the verdict, with outward calm. But his wife and sister broke into tears.

The five-year term compared with a possible maximum of life imprisonment. In addition to the charge of conspiracy to commit espionage, Rhodes also was convicted on a charge of falsifying a loyalty certificate. The maximum provided for this was one year in jail, plus dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

The five-year sentence imposed by the military court of 10 officers covered both charges.

Before he left in custody of a military policeman, Rhodes said at first he had no comment on whether he would continue the legal fight. But then he thought a minute and said, "I intend to fight."

Mrs. Ola Rhodes, still in tears, said she had no comment. With her in the court room was Rhodes' sister, Mrs. Arlene Brown of Radium, Colo.

Appreciation

The sergeant turned to his chief counsel, Lt. Col. John F. Hummel, and remarked: "I certainly appreciate everything you have done for me."

Rhodes, a native of Oilton, Okla., whose home is in Eatontown, N.J., stood erect to hear the verdict. Then he slumped in his chair.

The court required 4¾ hours to reach its verdict.

Before sentence was passed, Lt. Col. Hummel asked the court-martial to consider that the sergeant had been a good soldier. He reviewed briefly the sergeant's military record, which includes battle decorations and citations for efficiency.

The verdict and sentence go automatically to Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten, commander of the military district of Washington, for review. He can approve the verdict and sentence, throw out the verdict, or reduce the sentence.

The main charge against Rhodes was that he joined a So-

Navy Plans New Try At Shooting Satellite Soon

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Navy hopes to make a third attempt to launch a test satellite next Tuesday or Wednesday, informed sources said Friday.

If successful, the attempt would hurl a third man-made moon into orbit around the earth less than a month after the launching of the U. S. satellite Explorer—America's first.

At present, the Army's 30.8-pound Explorer and the half-ton Soviet Sputnik II are circling the earth. Russia's Sputnik I has fallen.

The new attempt appeared to mean the Navy was trying to get back on its original timetable which called for launching a 20-inch instrument-crammed satellite next month. Both previous Vanguard tests ended in failure.

The Navy remained mum about its plans in accordance with government policy of disclosing satellite launching information only after the event.

In Syracuse, N.Y., Chairman John Moss (D - Calif.) of the House Information subcommittee attacked the policy of silence as "censorship."

He told a Syracuse University audience that "a large segment of the press condoned — even participated in — an informal censorship of non-military information" at Cape Canaveral.

He said "no one knows" whether the public would have been told if the Explorer launching had been a failure.

There was no indication of the size of the satellite that the Navy's slim Vanguard rocket would attempt to hurl into space next week. But it presumably would be another of the Navy's grapefruit-size test models.

URGE RESIGNATION

Republicans Rap Secretary Benson

WASHINGTON (UP) — Farm state Republicans all but told Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to his face Friday that he should resign for the good of the party. Benson flatly refused to step down.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.), who relayed the sentiments of the alarmed farm state congressmen to Benson, promptly announced plans to go over Benson's head directly to President Eisenhower.

He said he would advise his colleagues to "take a group of three to five and get an appointment with the President as soon as possible." He said the President would be told that keeping Benson in office might cause the defeat of 10 to 25 GOP House members this year.

Call Benson Liability

The virtual demand for Benson's resignation was relayed to the secretary by Miller and Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), who spoke for a group of about 25 House Republicans from farm states.

The visit followed a secret meeting of the group Thursday, which was prompted by the narrow GOP victory in the special House election last Tuesday in Minnesota's traditionally - Republican first district. Benson's farm policies were key issues in the campaign.

Miller said they told Benson that, rightly or wrongly, he had "become the symbol of low prices for farmers" and consequently was a serious political liability to his party."

Miller said Benson also was told that Democrats were "using him as a weapon to beat Republicans."

But Benson quickly issued a formal statement saying he intended to stay on the job and fight for the President's program of flexible price supports.

"I will continue to pursue a course which I believe is best for our farmers and fair to all our people," he said. "As long as God gives me strength, I shall

Admits Aid To Official For FCC Job

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A self-styled "cheap politician" — Democratic National Committeeman Jerry W. Carter — testified today he pulled all the wires he could to get Richard A. Mack appointed to the Federal Communications Commission.

And the 70-year-old Carter said that when Mack got the job he tried to tell Mack what stand to take in a row over who was to get the license for Miami's Channel 10, one of the nation's most valuable television properties.

As it turned out, Mack disregarded the advice and voted with the FCC majority. The result was that the license went to a National Airlines subsidiary and not to Carter's friend, A. Frank Katzentine.

Carter's testimony, crackling with cracker-barrel wit and shot through with astonishing frankness, frequently reduced the hearing to helpless, side-splitting laughter.

But there was a grim undertone to the merriment.

Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark) told Carter that his testimony pointed up "one of the most tragic examples of undue influence and high pressure tactics" in the history of any federal regulatory commission.

Pressure

Harris and other committeemen have indicated they felt there was terrific pressure both in behalf of Katzentine and the successful applicant.

"I think it is one of the most disgraceful things that has ever been called to my attention," Harris said.

Carter is a smallish, plump man with thin white hair. Facially, with a beaklike nose, compressed lips and outthrust chin, he bears a marked resemblance to Harry S. Truman. But spoke of himself in terms the former President would never use.

"I've told the people of Florida repeatedly that I'm an ordinary cheap politician," said Carter cheerfully. "The people I represent in Tallahassee can't afford an expensive one."

Carter is a member and former chairman of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, the body Mack headed at the time of his appointment to FCC in 1955.

Mack, although a Democrat, was named to FCC by President Eisenhower. Carter said he worked hard to get the post for Mack—"but I didn't," he said, "let Mr. Eisenhower or the other Republicans know Jerry—Carter himself—was as active as he was."

"The only thing I done," the national committeeman related, "was pull, under cover, all the wires I could."

In Touch

Carter said he got in touch with Mack twice in connection with the Channel 10 case while on trips to Washington. He said he didn't recall who paid his expenses but supposed it was the State of Florida.

"I very seldom pay my own way," he added offhandedly, evoking another burst of laughter. As if to drive home this point,

Sir Winston Is 'Improved' In Word Yesterday

ROQUEBRUNE, Cap Martin, France (UP) — Sir Winston Churchill Friday showed "very definite improvement" in his battle against pneumonia and pleurisy and was demanding the right to sit up in bed and paint.

The 83-year-old statesman's wife, Lady Clarissa, said her husband was "very well, thank you." She was laughing and gay. No one in the household at Churchill's vacation villa in this Riviera hamlet appeared upset or disturbed.

Churchill was permitted to work on a "considerable volume" of his corrsepondence. He argued with his personal physician, Lord Moran, that he wanted to paint in bed. The view of the Mediterranean is superb from the window of his flower-banked bedroom. But Lord Moran apparently had the last word. No painting.

Churchill edited the medical bulletins himself to prevent too many details from being made public. The wartime British leader was reported to have been shocked at the biological detail released during President Eisenhower's illnesses.

Text of the Bulletin:

Soda Is Warmish And So Are Boys

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—An argument over a bottle of warm soda pop fizzed into violence today.

Before it was over, police said, a grocer was slugged and a customer stabbed to death.

James Chase, 48, the grocer who showed a cut on his forehead, told police he grabbed a butcher knife after James Kuptz, 25, complained of the warm pop and then bashed him with the bottle.

Kuptz was taken to Illinois Masonic Hospital where he was pronounced dead of a stab wound in his back. Chase was held without charge.

FOR INTERSECTION

Traffic Light Setup Gets Approval Here

Approval of an approximately $17,500 traffic light system for the Louisville intersection has been granted, according to District Engineer Wayne H. Huckaby.

Huckaby said he hopes the system would be completed by June 1st.

The new system, which Huckaby described as an original one, will call for the installation of 13 traffic lights that will afford 16 signals.

It was designed to handle traffic to the intersection from Louisville Avenue, U. S. 80, U. S. 165, DeSiard Street and Powell Avenue.

According to Huckaby, traffic will be channeled into lanes and directed through the intersection by the lights. Seven concrete islands will be constructed.

The intersection at Louisville has been of major concern to state and local officials for several years and Huckaby said its problems called for an original design on the light system.

He explained that special wiring for the lights would be used and that the intersection would be widened to the limits of the right-of-way. The Central Construction Co. will handle the widening project.

According to Huckaby, surveys were conducted at the intersection by specialists of the Traffic and Planning Engineers division of the highway department.

State engineers will install the lights and Huckaby said district personnel would be used to construct the islands. He said the plan was designed to channel traffic through the intersection faster and safer.

Huckaby said funds for the project have already been called for in the highway budget.

It will be the second project on Louisville conducted by the highway department recently. A traffic light system for the street was installed at a cost of approximately $17,000.

Huckaby said the new system is carrying traffic as planned and that the department has had no complaints.

IN TWIN CITIES AREA

Road Designers Get 'Go-Ahead' On Work

Pavlo and Associates, designers of the elevated federal highway through the Twin Cities, have received instructions to proceed with plans on the project, District Engineer Wayne H. Huckaby disclosed yesterday.

Huckaby said the move to proceed was "tantamount to approval" of the elevated structure.

"Otherwise, Pavlo wouldn't have been authorized to proceed," Huckaby stated.

The State Department of Highways authorized Pavlo to proceed to the second phase of the project, which is the preparation of a definite report on plans.

It also includes surveys of property involved in the path of the highway. Monroe engineer Al Huey has been contracted to make the property surveys.

Actual appraisals of property damaged by the highway will begin after Huey has completed the surveys, according to Huckaby.

Huckaby explained that the preliminary studies made on the project merely led the way for the public hearing, which was held here last month.

However, he explained that in making the preliminary studies, the ground work was laid for the second phase of the program. Huckaby said applications are being received for the appraisals' positions.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said after the public hearing here that actual construction on the highway would begin in two to three years.

Spring-Like Touch May Continue Here

The touch of near spring-like weather which visited the Monroe area yesterday is expected to continue at least two more days.

Outlook for the weekend calls for partly cloudy skies with mild temperatures. Yesterday's high and low were 64 and 39, compared with Thursday's readings of 50 and 31.

Partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures are also forecast for Arkansas today and tomorrow.

Rhee In Forces

The fate of those who want to return to the South, the broadcast said, hinges entirely upon the attitude of Syngman Rhee.

North Korea's demand for negotiations aroused speculation that the Communists would use any conference to press their proposal for withdrawal of U.N. troops

'Around The World' Cruise Made By Sub

The Gudgeon, flagship of the Pacific Fleet submarine force, put in at the port she left nearly eight months ago.

Hula girls danced, the Pacific Fleet band played, fireboats spewed water and a helicopter dropped flower leis as Lt. Cmdr. Thomas A. Bryce, of Wichita Falls, Tex., seven officers and 75 crewmen returned.

The crew spent Christmas in Athens, Greece, New Year's Day in Naples, Italy. Other ports of call included Yokosuka, the Philippines, Colombo, Karachi, Cannes, Barcelona, Lisbon and Colon in the Panama Canal Zone.

Army Sergeant Draws Five Year Prison Term For Conspiracy To Spy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—An Army courtmartial convicted M. Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes of conspiring to spy for Russia today and sentenced him to five years imprisonment at hard labor.

Rhodes received the sentence, as he had the verdict, with outward calm. But his wife and sister broke into tears.

The five-year term compared with a possible maximum of life imprisonment. In addition to the charge of conspiracy to commit espionage, Rhodes also was convicted on a charge of falsifying a loyalty certificate. The maximum provided for this was one year in jail, plus dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

The five-year sentence imposed by the military court of 10 officers covered both charges.

Before he left in custody of a military policeman, Rhodes said at first he had no comment on whether he would continue the legal fight. But then he thought a minute and said, "I intend to fight."

Mrs. Ola Rhodes, still in tears, said she had no comment. With her in the court room was Rhodes' sister, Mrs. Arlene Brown of Radium, Colo.

Appreciation

The sergeant turned to his chief counsel, Lt. Col. John F. Hummel, and remarked: "I certainly appreciate everything you have done for me."

Rhodes, a native of Oilton, Okla., whose home is in Eatontown, N.J., stood erect to hear the verdict. Then he slumped in his chair.

The court required 4¾ hours to reach its verdict.

Before sentence was passed, Lt. Col. Hummel asked the courtmartial to consider that the sergeant had been a good soldier. He reviewed briefly the sergeant's military record, which includes battle decorations and citations for efficiency.

The verdict and sentence go automatically to Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten, commander of the military district of Washington, for review. He can approve the verdict and sentence, throw out the verdict, or reduce the sentence.

The main charge against Rhodes was that he joined a So-

Navy Plans New Try At Shooting Satellite Soon

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Navy hopes to make a third attempt to launch a test satellite next Tuesday or Wednesday, informed sources said Friday.

If successful, the attempt would hurl a third man-made moon into orbit around the earth less than a month after the launching of the U. S. satellite Explorer—America's first.

At present, the Army's 30.8-pound Explorer and the half-ton Soviet Sputnik II are circling the earth. Russia's Sputnik I has fallen.

The new attempt appeared to mean the Navy was trying to get back on its original timetable which called for launching a 20-inch instrument-crammed satellite next month. Both previous Vanguard tests ended in failure.

The Navy remained mum about its plans in accordance with government policy of disclosing satellite launching information only after the event.

In Syracuse, N.Y., Chairman John Moss (D - Calif.) of the House Information subcommittee attacked the policy of silence as "censorship."

He told a Syracuse University audience that "a large segment of the press condoned — even participated in — an informal censorship of non-military information" at Cape Canaveral.

He said "no one knows" whether the public would have been told if the Explorer launching had been a failure.

There was no indication of the size of the satellite that the Navy's slim Vanguard rocket would attempt to hurl into space next week. But it presumably would be another of the Navy's grapefruit-size test models.

URGE RESIGNATION

Republicans Rap Secretary Benson

WASHINGTON (UP) — Farm state Republicans all but told Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to his face Friday that he should resign for the good of the party. Benson flatly refused to step down.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.), who relayed the sentiments of the alarmed farm state congressmen to Benson, promptly announced plans to go over Benson's head directly to President Eisenhower.

He said he would advise his colleagues to "take a group of three to five and get an appointment with the President as soon as possible." He said the President would be told that keeping Benson in office might cause the defeat of 10 to 25 GOP House members this year.

Call Benson Liability

The virtual demand for Benson's resignation was relayed to the secretary by Miller and Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), who spoke for a group of about 25 House Republicans from farm states.

The visit followed a secret meeting of the group Thursday, which was prompted by the narrow GOP victory in the special House election last Tuesday in Minnesota's traditionally - Republican first district. Benson's farm policies were key issues in the campaign.

Miller said they told Benson that, rightly or wrongly, he had "become the symbol of low prices for farmers" and consequently was a serious political liability to his party."

Miller said Benson also was told that Democrats were "using him as a weapon to beat Republicans."

But Benson quickly issued a formal statement saying he intended to stay on the job and fight for the President's program of flexible price supports.

"I will continue to pursue a course which I believe is best for our farmers and fair to all our people," he said. "As long as God gives me strength, I shall

IN TWIN CITIES AREA

Road Designers Get 'Go-Ahead' On Work

Pavlo and Associates, designers of the elevated federal highway through the Twin Cities, have received instructions to proceed with plans on the project, District Engineer Wayne H. Huckaby disclosed yesterday.

Huckaby said the move to proceed was "tantamount to approval" of the elevated structure.

"Otherwise, Pavlo wouldn't have been authorized to proceed," Huckaby stated.

The State Department of Highways authorized Pavlo to proceed to the second phase of the project, which is the preparation of a definite report on plans.

It also includes surveys of property involved in the path of the highway. Monroe engineer Al Huey has been contracted to make the property surveys.

Actual appraisals of property damaged by the highway will begin after Huey has completed the surveys, according to Huckaby.

Huckaby explained that the preliminary studies made on the project merely led the way for the public hearing, which was held here last month.

However, he explained that in making the preliminary studies, the ground work was laid for the second phase of the program. Huckaby said applications are being received for the appraisals' positions.

Highway Director R. B. Richardson said after the public hearing here that actual construction on the highway would begin in two to three years.

Admits Aid To Official For FCC Job

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—A self-styled "cheap politician" — Democratic National Committeeman Jerry W. Carter — testified today he pulled all the wires he could to get Richard A. Mack appointed to the Federal Communications Commission.

And the 70-year-old Carter said that when Mack got the job he tried to tell Mack what stand to take in a row over who was to get the license for Miami's Channel 10, one of the nation's most valuable television properties.

As it turned out, Mack disregarded the advice and voted with the FCC majority. The result was that the license went to a National Airlines subsidiary and not to Carter's friend, A. Frank Katzentine.

Carter's testimony, crackling with cracker-barrel wit and shot through with astonishing frankness, frequently reduced the hearing to helpless, side-splitting laughter.

But there was a grim undertone to the merriment.

Subcommittee Chairman Harris (D-Ark) told Carter that his testimony pointed up "one of the most tragic examples of undue influence and high pressure tactics" in the history of any federal regulatory commission.

Pressure

Harris and other committeemen have indicated they felt there was terrific pressure both in behalf of Katzentine and the successful applicant.

"I think it is one of the most disgraceful things that has ever been called to my attention," Harris said.

Carter is a smallish, plump man with thin white hair. Facially, with a beaklike nose, compressed lips and outthrust chin, he bears a marked resemblance to Harry S. Truman. But spoke of himself in terms the former President would never use.

"I've told the people of Florida repeatedly that I'm an ordinary cheap politician," said Carter cheerfully. "The people I represent in Tallahassee can't afford an expensive one."

Carter is a member and former chairman of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, the body Mack headed at the time of his appointment to FCC in 1955.

Mack, although a Democrat, was named to FCC by President Eisenhower. Carter said he worked hard to get the post for Mack—"but I didn't," he said, "let Mr. Eisenhower or the other Republicans know Jerry—Carter himself—was as active as he was."

"The only thing I done," the national committeeman related, "was pull, under cover, all the wires I could."

In Touch

Carter said he got in touch with Mack twice in connection with the Channel 10 case while on trips to Washington. He said he didn't recall who paid his expenses but supposed it was the State of Florida.

"I very seldom pay my own way," he added offhandedly, evoking another burst of laughter. As if to drive home this point,

Sir Winston Is 'Improved' In Word Yesterday

ROQUEBRUNE, Cap Martin, France (UP) — Sir Winston Churchill Friday showed "very definite improvement" in his battle against pneumonia and pleurisy and was demanding the right to sit up in bed and paint.

The 83-year-old statesman's wife, Lady Clarissa, said her husband was "very well, thank you." She was laughing and gay. No one in the household at Churchill's vacation villa in this Riviera hamlet appeared upset or disturbed.

Churchill was permitted to work on a "considerable volume" of his corrsepondence. He argued with his personal physician, Lord Moran, that he wanted to paint in bed. The view of the Mediterranean is superb from the window of his flower-banked bedroom. But Lord Moran apparently had the last word. No painting.

Churchill edited the medical bulletins himself to prevent too many details from being made public. The wartime British leader was reported to have been shocked at the biological detail released during President Eisenhower's illnesses.

Text of the Bulletin:

"There is a very definite

Soda Is Warmish And So Are Boys

CHICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—An argument over a bottle of warm soda pop fizzed into violence today.

Before it was over, police said, a grocer was slugged and a customer stabbed to death.

James Chase, 48, the grocer who showed a cut on his forehead, told police he grabbed a butcher knife after James Kuptz, 25, complained of the warm pop and then bashed him with the bottle.

Kuptz was taken to Illinois Masonic Hospital where he was pronounced dead of a stab wound in his back. Chase was held without charge.

Traffic Light Setup Gets Approval Here

Approval of an approximately $17,500 traffic light system for the Louisville intersection has been granted, according to District Engineer Wayne H. Huckaby.

Huckaby said he hopes the system would be completed by June 1st.

The new system, which Huckaby described as an original one, will call for the installation of 13 traffic lights that will afford 16 signals.

It was designed to handle traffic to the intersection from Louisville Avenue, U. S. 80, U. S. 165, DeSiard Street and Powell Avenue.

According to Huckaby, traffic will be channeled into lanes and directed through the intersection by the lights. Seven concrete islands will be constructed.

The intersection at Louisville has been of major concern to state and local officials for several years and Huckaby said its problems called for an original design on the light system.

He explained that special wiring for the lights would be used and that the intersection would be widened to the limits of the right-of-way. The Central Construction Co. will handle the widening project.

According to Huckaby, surveys were conducted at the intersection by specialists of the Traffic and Planning Engineers division of the highway department.

State engineers will install the lights and Huckaby said district personnel would be used to construct the islands. He said the plan was designed to channel traffic through the intersection faster and safer.

Huckaby said funds for the project have already been called for in the highway budget.

It will be the second project on Louisville conducted by the highway department recently. A traffic light system for the street was installed at a cost of approximately $17,000.

Huckaby said the new system is carrying traffic as planned and that the department has had no complaints.

In the final summations Rhodes was alternately pictured as "a native-born American soldier who sold out his country to the Soviets for $3,000," and as the victim of a turncoat Russian spy.

It was testimony by the latter, Reino Hayhanen, that formed much of the prosecution's case against Rhodes. For the defense, Hummel said Hayhanen pictured himself from the witness stand as "a liar, a thief, and an adulterer."

Rhodes was accused by the prosecution of falling under the influence of Russian agents while serving as head of the U.S. Embassy motor pool in Moscow in 1951-53.

Evidence

There was evidence, including signed statements by Rhodes himself, that the sergeant attended drunken parties with Russian women in the Soviet capital. In a statement he made to the FBI last fall, and in parallel testimony in a Brooklyn trial last fall, Rhodes told of giving information to the Russians, receiving upwards of $3,000 in rubles from them, and finding himself involved "up to my neck."

He could not be tried for what happened in Moscow, because of a one-day break in his service after he returned to this country. The prosecution based its case on the contention that he had agreed while in Moscow to cooperate with the Russians after his return to the United States.

he said he imagined the congressmen, too, knew how to travel at government expense.

Carter said he gave a father-to-son type talk to the much younger Mack, suggesting the commissioner disqualify himself from voting in the case in view of all the conflicting interests involving Florida friends of both men.

But Mack didn't indicate what he would do, Carter related. And he said the commissioner likewise was noncommittal when warned of possible trouble ahead.

"I told Mack," Carter said, "that if even one-third of the rumors I had heard — about pressure being brought on behalf of rival applicants — were true there would be a scandal about this."

Carter said he saw Mack a second time at the request of Katzentine. He said he urged Mack to "follow the dictates of his own conscience" in the matter. But he said there was no doubt in anybody's mind that he himself wanted Katzentine to get the license.

"I didn't get any commitment —from Mack—one way or the other," Carter added.

Carter turned out to be as remarkable—and hilarious a witness as Capitol Hill has seen in many a year.

He was perfectly willing, even eager, to talk about everything including the story of his life—from the time he arrived in Florida as a youth, with "one dollar, one wife, one trunk, one suitcase and one child."

"I still have the wife and the trunk," Carter said, beaming through spectacles. 'The suitcase and the trunk are all shot full of holes and I have seven sons and 21 grandchildren the last time I counted."

He went on to say he's been elected or appointed to office—and, for that matter, fired from office —more often than any other official in Florida's history.

Carter said he became very fond of Mack when they served together on the State Utilities Commission even though they didn't always see eye to eye.

In fact, said Carter, all the Florida people fighting each other over the TV license are honorable men—"compared with the standards we live up to at the present time," he added quickly.

Carter said one reason he went to bat for Katzentine was that opponents were casting aspersions on the man.

"They carried that besmirching campaign so far," Carter said, in a how-can-people do-these-things tone, "that they accused him of being a Republican."

"That is hitting below the belt," agreed the Democratic chairman of the committee. More laughter.

In earlier testimony the committee was given a 1951 letter in which Carter told the FCC that Katzentine was a lifelong Democrat and was entitled to "every consideration."

Carter said today he'd forgotten all about that letter. He said his secretary is all the time writing letters and signing his name to them.

Carter was asked at another point if Whiteside was a Democrat.

"Well, he's always led me to believe he is," replied Carter, adding reflectively: "I've never heard anything derogatory about the man."

Intrigued members of the subcommittee pressed for more details about the political views of the witness, who wore a donkey emblem on his tie-clasp. Rep. Mack (D-Ill) wondered aloud if he and Carter belonged to the same party.

Carter said he didn't know that there was such a thing as a Democratic party. He said he viewed the Democrats as an assortment of liberals, conservatives, sentimentalists, soreheads and others who "get together and fight each other until the common enemy i. ives in sight."

Carter said, too, he's the only politician he knows who made only one promise to the voters and kept it. That promise:

"I'll be there on payday."

Carter said at the outset he has a poor memory, and Rep John Bell Williams (D-Miss) told him that was one of the most convenient disabilities a witness ever pleaded.

"Thank you, sir," replied Carter gravely.

He added that he has always tried to be honest.

"I been tryin' to quit lyin' all my life," he said.

South America is to be a combination of sightseeing and business which Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Johnson of the Clover Leaf Products 1801 Louisville avenue, are to initiate today. The trip, requiring 31 days, is being made by persons interested in Guernsey livestock. The trip, Johnson admits, is to some degree promotional. The party will number approximately 50 both men and some women.

The Monroyans will go equipped with plenty of cameras and motion picture outfits and special entertainment will be accorded the group at a number of places where they will stop.

The local pair will leave Monroe by American Airlines at 7 a.m. from Selman airport. An overnight stop is planned in New Orleans and the real foreign travel will be initiated over Pan-American Airlines leaving the Crescent City at 7 a.m. Sunday.

The first stop slated is on February 23 at Managua, Nicaragua. The Grand hotel will house the party overnight and on February 24, Costa Rica will be reached and stop made at Balmoral hotel. On February 25 Panama City is to be visited with night stop in Hotel Panama.

On February 27 the group will halt in Medellin, Colombia in Hotel Medellin. Next day Bogota in Colombia is to be visited, the night being spent at Hotel Telquendama.

Hotel Homboldt, Guyaquil, will next have a night stop and Hotel Bolivar in Venezuela will be host to the party. Santiago Chile and Hotel Canera will entertain the part overnight.

The final points of visitation will be Buenos Aires, largest city in South America, and the party has reservations in Hotel Plaza. March 14, Hotel Victoria in Montevideo is to get a visit.

The trips' end will come after Sao Paulo, Brazil, called the Chicago of South America, will be given a once over. The night will be spent in the Orthon Palace while on March 19, Rio de Janiaro, Brazil will be the final stop on the more than a month's trip.

A cross-roads representation of Louisiana chambers is present for the convention and Williams said last night that one of the primary objectives of the event was for chamber managers to exchange ideas and discuss problems.

Heading today's panel discussions will be Lamar L. Walters, president, of Alexandria, Frank Walshe, Louisiana Department of Public Works, and Williams.

Wives of the managers will be treated to a tea and luncheon at the Lotus Club at noon today. Mrs. Williams will serve as hostess. Williams and George Wylie, manager of the West Monroe chamber, are serving as co-hosts for the entire convention.

Entertainment at the Party House will highlight tonight's program and Benton M. Wakefield, Jr., president of the Monroe chamber, will address the presidents Sunday morning.

An address by Wallace M. Davis, president of the Hibernia National Bank, of New Orleans will end the event Sunday afternoon.

Says Distorting Loyalty

In announcing plans to take the issue directly to the White House, Miller noted that Benson said in his statement that he was a loyal Republican.

"His loyalty may cause the defeat of Republicans," Miller said. "That's distorting loyalty."

The President told a Republican meeting only last month that he felt that Benson and all his other cabinet officers were doing a good job and that he had no plans for replacing any of them.

Former President Truman, here for a Democratic fund - raising dinner Saturday night, told newsmen the farm state lawmakers did not really believe Benson would comply with any plea that he resign.

"You know what they were trying to do?" he asked. "They were trying to make votes back home. They knew he wouldn't resign and didn't expect him to."

South Korea, the United States and other allies in Korea have rejected this plan. They say North Korea will insist on such "'neutrals" as Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia among the inspectors.

The plane, which was on a flight from Pusan to Seoul, was piloted by Willis P. Hobbs, Vallejo Calif. The copilot was Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan, Buchanan, Mich. Others aboard were a West German couple and 30 Koreans.

South Korean police said investigation indicates a 34-year-old man named Kim Taik Sun gave the pilot orders at gunpoint while two or three armed companions guarded the passengers.

One of Kim's suitcases reportedly was found at the KNA office at Pusan. It was said to contain a piece of paper on which threatening English phrases were written.

The President Thursday reiterated his confidence that the nation's economy is basically vigorous and will make full recovery if Americans maintain a "tough-minded confidence in the future." viet espionage conspiracy while on duty at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow from 1951 to 1953 and never severed his connections with it after his return to this country.

In the final summations Rhodes was alternately pictured as "a native-born American soldier who sold out his country to the Soviets for $3,000," and as the victim of a turncoat Russian spy.

It was testimony by the latter, Reino Hayhanen, that formed much of the prosecution's case against Rhodes. For the defense, Hummel said Hayhanen pictured himself from the witness stand as "a liar, a thief, and an adulterer."

Rhodes was accused by the prosecution of falling under the influence of Russian agents while serving as head of the U.S. Embassy motor pool in Moscow in 1951-53.

Evidence

There was evidence, including signed statements by Rhodes himself, that the sergeant attended drunken parties with Russian women in the Soviet capital. In a statement he made to the FBI last fall, and in parallel testimony in a Brooklyn trial last fall, Rhodes told of giving information to the Russians, receiving upwards of $3,000 in rubles from them, and finding himself involved "up to my neck."

He could not be tried for what happened in Moscow, because of a one-day break in his service after he returned to this country. The prosecution based its case on the contention that he had agreed while in Moscow to cooperate with the Russians after his return to the United States.

Admits Aid To Official For FCC Job

he said he imagined the congressmen, too, knew how to travel at government expense.

Carter said he gave a father-to-son type talk to the much younger Mack, suggesting the commissioner disqualify himself from voting in the case in view of all the conflicting interests involving Florida friends of both men.

But Mack didn't indicate what he would do, Carter related. And he said the commissioner likewise was noncommittal when warned of possible trouble ahead.

"I told Mack," Carter said, "that if even one-third of the rumors I had heard — about pressure being brought on behalf of rival applicants — were true there would be a scandal about this."

Carter said he saw Mack a second time at the request of Katzentine. He said he urged Mack to "follow the dictates of his own conscience" in the matter. But he said there was no doubt in anybody's mind that he himself wanted Katzentine to get the license.

"I didn't get any commitment —from Mack—one way or the other," Carter added.

Carter turned out to be as remarkable—and hilarious a witness as Capitol Hill has seen in many a year.

He was perfectly willing, even eager, to talk about everything including the story of his life—from the time he arrived in Florida as a youth, with "one dollar, one wife, one trunk, one suitcase and one child."

"I still have the wife and the trunk," Carter said, beaming through spectacles. The suitcase and the trunk are all shot full of holes and I have seven sons and 21 grandchildren the last time I counted."

He went on to say he's been elected or appointed to office—and, for that matter, fired from office —more often than any other official in Florida's history.

Carter said he became very fond of Mack when they served together on the State Utilities Commission even though they didn't always see eye to eye.

In fact, said Carter, all the Florida people fighting each other over the TV license are honorable men—"compared with the standards we live up to at the present time," he added quickly.

Carter said one reason he went to bat for Katzentine was that opponents were casting aspersions on the man.

"They carried that besmirching campaign so far," Carter said, in a how-can-people do-these-things tone, "that they accused him of being a Republican."

"That is hitting below the belt," agreed the Democratic chairman of the committee. More laughter.

In earlier testimony the committee was given a 1951 letter in which Carter told the FCC that Katzentine was a lifelong Democrat and was entitled to "every consideration."

Carter said today he'd forgotten all about that letter. He said his secretary is all the time writing letters and signing his name to them.

Carter was asked at another point if Whiteside was a Democrat.

"Well, he's always led me to believe he is," replied Carter, adding reflectively: "I've never heard anything derogatory about the man."

Intrigued members of the subcommittee pressed for more details about the political views of the witness, who wore a donkey emblem on his tie-clasp. Rep. Mack (D-Ill) wondered aloud if he and Carter belonged to the same party.

Carter said he didn't know that there was such a thing as a Democratic party. He said he viewed the Democrats as an assortment of liberals, conservatives, sentimentalists, soreheads and others who "get together and fight each other until the common enemy leaves in sight."

Carter said, too, he's the only politician he knows who made only one promise to the voters and kept it. That promise:

"I'll be there on payday."

Carter said at the outset he has a poor memory, and Rep John Bell Williams (D-Miss) told him that was one of the most convenient disabilities a witness ever pleaded.

"Thank you, sir," replied Carter gravely.

He added that he has always tried to be honest.

"I been tryin' to quit lyin' all my life," he said.

NEGRO JAILED

City Police jailed a Monroe Negro last night on charges of possessing obscene literature, and using a bottle as a weapon. Authorities identified the man as Roosevelt Williams, who gave his address as Booker T. No report of anyone having been injured was disclosed.

South America is to be a combination of sightseeing and business which Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Johnson of the Clover Leaf Products 1801 Louisville avenue, are to initiate today. The trip, requiring 31 days, is being made by persons interested in Guernsey livestock. The trip, Johnson admits, is to some degree promotional. The party will number approximately 50 both men and some women.

The Monroyans will go equipped with plenty of cameras and motion picture outfits and special entertainment will be accorded the group at a number of places where they will stop.

The local pair will leave Monroe by American Airlines at 7 a.m. from Selman airport. An overnight stop is planned in New Orleans and the real foreign travel will be initiated over Pan-American Airlines leaving the Crescent City at 7 a.m. Sunday.

The first stop slated is on February 23 at Managua, Nicaragua. The Grand hotel will house the party overnight and on February 24, Costa Rica will be reached and stop made at Balmoral hotel. On February 25 Panama City is to be visited with night stop in Hotel Panama.

On February 27 the group will halt in Medellin, Colombia in Hotel Medellin. Next day Bogota in Colombia is to be visited, the night being spent at Hotel Telquendama.

Hotel Homboldt, Guyaquil, will next have a night stop and Hotel Bolivar in Venezuela will be host to the party. Santiago Chile and Hotel Canera will entertain the part overnight.

The final points of visitation will be Buenos Aires, largest city in South America, and the party has reservations in Hotel Plaza. March 14, Hotel Victoria in Montevideo is to get a visit.

The trips' end will come after Sao Paulo, Brazil, called the Chicago of South America, will be given a once over. The night will be spent in the Orthon Palace while on March 19, Rio de Janiaro, Brazil will be the final stop on the more than a month's trip.

cutive secretary of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, the program will include several business sessions as well as entertainment.

A cross-roads representation of Louisiana chambers is present for the convention and Williams said last night that one of the primary objectives of the event was for chamber managers to exchange ideas and discuss problems.

Heading today's panel discussions will be Lamar L. Walters, president, of Alexandria, Frank Walshe, Louisiana Department of Public Works, and Williams.

Wives of the managers will be treated to a tea and luncheon at the Lotus Club at noon today. Mrs. Williams will serve as hostess. Williams and George Wylie, manager of the West Monroe chamber, are serving as co-hosts for the entire convention.

Entertainment at the Party House will highlight tonight's program and Benton M. Wakefield, Jr., president of the Monroe chamber, will address the presidents Sunday morning.

An address by Wallace M. Davis, president of the Hibernia National Bank, of New Orleans will end the event Sunday afternoon.

Republicans Rap Secretary Benson

Says Distorting Loyalty

In announcing plans to take the issue directly to the White House, Miller noted that Benson said in his statement that he was a loyal Republican.

"His loyalty may cause the defeat of Republicans," Miller said. "That's distorting loyalty."

The President told a Republican meeting only last month that he felt that Benson and all his other cabinet officers were doing a good job and that he had no plans for replacing any of them.

Former President Truman, here for a Democratic fund - raising dinner Saturday night, told newsmen the farm state lawmakers did not really believe Benson would comply with any plea that he resign.

"You know what they were trying to do?" he asked. "They were trying to make votes back home. They knew he wouldn't resign and didn't expect him to."

South Korea, the United States and other allies in Korea have rejected this plan. They say North Korea will insist on such "'neutrals" as Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia among the inspectors.

The plane, which was on a flight from Pusan to Seoul, was piloted by Willis P. Hobbs, Vallejo Calif. The copilot was Lt. Col. Howard W. McClellan, Buchanan, Mich. Others aboard were a West German couple and 30 Koreans.

South Korean police said investigation indicates a 34-year-old man named Kim Taik Sun gave the pilot orders at gunpoint while two or three armed companions guarded the passengers.

One of Kim's suitcases reportedly was found at the KNA office at Pusan. It was said to contain a piece of paper on which threatening English phrases were written.

The President still planned to be back in Washington by Monday morning.

The President Thursday reiterated his confidence that the nation's economy is basically vigorous and will make full recovery if Americans maintain a "tough-minded confidence in the future." He sent a message to Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who with 10 other governors recently sent a report on economic views to him.

TO 'PLOW HIM UNDER'

Reps. Move On Secy. Benson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP) — A bloc of House Republicans, rebuffed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson in their demands for a new farm policy, threatened today to plow him under.

"Benson should resign," Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) declared a few minutes after Benson announced he had no intention of abandoning his program of lower price supports.

Immediate arrangements were made to go over Benson's head to President Eisenhower. The bloc contends the administration's farm policy must be changed if Republicans are to win the November elections.

Rep. Miller (R-Neb) announced he would seek an appointment with the President as soon as possible for five or six GOP House members.

If Benson remains in office, Miller asserted, it will mean the loss of 20 to 25 Republican House seats in the Midwest. "He's the best weapon the Democrats have," Miller said.

Miller and Rep. Judd (R-Minn) laid it on the line at a conference in Benson's office. Miller said they didn't ask for the secretary's resignation.

"We left it up to him after weighing all the pros and cons," Miller said.

Benson, who has received stonewall support from Eisenhower in his previous fights with Congress, promptly issued a statement saying he was convinced the American people want programs based on sound principles in agriculture.

"And for that reason I shall continue to fight for what I feel to be right," he declared.

As a Republican and a Cabinet member, Benson added, he is naturally interested and concerned in attempting to give the American people the best government possible.

"But concern for political fortunes of individuals cannot transcend the very function of government, which is to protect and to help its citizens," he added.

Benson's attitude infuriated some of the corn belt congressmen.

Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis) told a reporter there was "no question about it," that the group would go over Benson's head to the President."

Solons Agree On Measures For Charges

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—Proposed legislative re-apportionment cleared its first hurdle today for the first time in decades when it received overwhelming approval in the Senate.

The measure — which does not re-apportion the House of Representatives by population—was approved on third reading and sent to the House for three readings there.

Constitutional amendments must be approved three times in each house and ratified by the people to become effective. The three Senate votes were 42-1, 38-5, and two dissenting votes today.

There was no discussion or debate on today's reading. Some senators did not know the measure was being considered on final reading.

During the heated debate on the first reading Wednesday, senators argued the resolution should remain as a House-Senate committee drafted it or it would be killed in the House.

The measure would boost the Senate from 49 to 82 seats by giving each county one senator and boost the House from 140 to 143 and re-arrange nine seats to help compensate the larger counties for their population growth.

Impasse Results

Meanwhile, an impasse sprang up between the House and the Senate over House riders in appropriations bills to prevent legislators from holding state jobs.

The House inserted the riders; the Senate removed them; and a conference was called to iron out the difference. But the House instructed its conferees not to compromise.

Today, Sen. William Burgin of Columbus, Finance Committee chairman, asked that the Senate conferees be discharged, saying agreement could not be reached.

Some House members opposed the double-dip riders on grounds they were an indirect method of accomplishing what should be done directly.

Bills passed by the Senate today would:

Raise from 45 to 50 miles per hour the speed limit of trucks on highways; authorize counties and school districts to dispose of school property abandoned under the minimum foundation program; and remove a 200-pound limit on merchandise carried on passenger buses to permit delivery of newspapers to rural areas.

Bills passed by the House today would:

Authorize Mississippi insurance companies to invest in post offices and federal building projects; authorize all municipalities to adopt zoning ordinances; and authorize Bay St. Louis and McComb to tax suburban property within the municipal separate school district.

Flight Plans Set For LSU Senior Cadets

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A flight instruction program for senior Air Force ROTC cadets has been inaugurated at Louisiana State University, in conjunction with the U. S. Air Force, it was announced today.

The first class in the program is now being conducted at Baton Rouge's Ryan Airport under the supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

"The purpose of the program is to generate interest in flying and to determine the flight aptitude of cadets before they embark on their Air Force careers," said Col. Herbert O. Wangeman, Commandant of Cadets at LSU. About 40 other universities have similar programs, Colonel Wangeman added.

The cadets will be given up to 36 hours of instruction by civilian pilots,and may qualify for a pilot's license upon completion of the training.

The non-credit program is fitted into a student's regular school schedule. The flying lessons are of about an hour duration and are given in a single engine plane.

Colonel Wangeman said the student pilots have been prepared for the program by flight theory instruction already received in air science classes at the University, this to be supplemented prior to their CAA examination.

Negro Group Asks Drive To Boost Voter Numbers

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—A Negro religious group representing some 800,000 members, today called for an accelerated drive to register Negro voters in every state.

The Brotherhood of the African Methodist Episcopal Church adopted a resolution calling upon every member "within the next 12 months to register and vote regularly."

"The brotherhood urges every AME minister to assist in his community leadership in this drive, working toward a first class citizenship and dynamic race relations," the resolution said.

The meeting, attended by some 1,000 delegates, condemned the use of Negro spirituals by secular artists and agencies.

"One of the unnecessary and most shameful acts which has ever been perpetrated by the music world is the misuse of the Negro spiritual for commercial secular jazz purposes," the denouncement said.

"The commercialization of such songs as 'Over My Head,' and "When The Saints Go Marching In" for purely secular entertainment both blasphemous and sacrilegious . . . ."

Yesterday, the meeting heard reports from chairmen of 33 study commissions on church reform and redevelopment and an address by the Rt. Rev. R. R. Wright Jr., presiding bishop of the Fifth Episcopal district.

Man Pardoned Aftes 9 Mos. On Bad Check

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 21 (AP) — A man who served nine months in prison on a bad check charge was pardoned today after the state Pardon-Parole Board declared him innocent of the crime.

The board said another man from Mississippi, admitted he gave the bad check and he is now in prison.

Pardoned by the board was Bevard Cecil Whitside, a former resident of Gadsden, Ala., who was arrested in Fairhope, Ala., and sentenced to 12 months and fined $100 plus $73.05 in court plus $73.05 in court costs last May 6.

Secretary L. B. Stephens said parole board records show Whiteside, was charged with buying an automobile liability insurance policy from the Huffman Insurance Agency in Fairhope, paying the premium with a $56.13 check and taking $22.13 change in cash.

He was arrested several days later while in Fairhope looking for a job.

Claims Innocent

Whiteside protested his innocence, but an employe of the agency, Mrs. Betty Clark, identified him as the man who gave her the check and endorsed it in her presence, the board records show.

Later, a man booked as William T. Smith of Waynesboro, Miss., was arrested on another bad check charge, and, the board said, admitted he instead of Whiteside was the one who cashed the check at the Huffman agency.

Baldwin County Judge W. R. Stuart and Fairhope Police Chief Mickey Johnson reopened the investigation and Stuart wrote the Pardon-Parole Board last month saying he was certain Whiteside was innocent.

Attached Affidavit

The judge attached an affidavit from Mrs. Clark saying she was mistaken in her identification of Whiteside, and another from Smith saying it was he who gave the Huffman agency the check.

The board called in state toxicologist C. J. Rehking for a handwriting comparison and he reported it was Smith who signed and endorsed the check.

The check was made out to W. T. Smith and endorsed in that name, but bore the signature of "M. M. Peirce." Stephens said Smith admitted he wrote the check to himself and signed it with a fictitious name.

Smith meanwhile was convicted in Baldwin County on the check on which he was arrested and sentenced to three years in prison last Dec. 12.

Under Alabama law, Whiteside can ask the State Board of Adjustment to compensate him for his prison term, or a member of the Legislature can introduce a bill to pay him.

Annual Hearing Conference Set On LSU Campus

BATON ROUGE (Special) —The fifth annual conference on speech and hearing therapy has been scheduled to open March 6, in the Music and Dramatic Arts Building on the LSU campus, it was announced today.

The one-day meeting is sponsored by the clinic faculty and students at LSU, and is directed toward college students and high school juniors and seniors interested in the curriculum, it was stated.

The program will follow the same framework established in previous years, with a series of films during the opening hours depicting various areas of speech correction and hearing. The afternoon sessions will deal primarily with hearing.

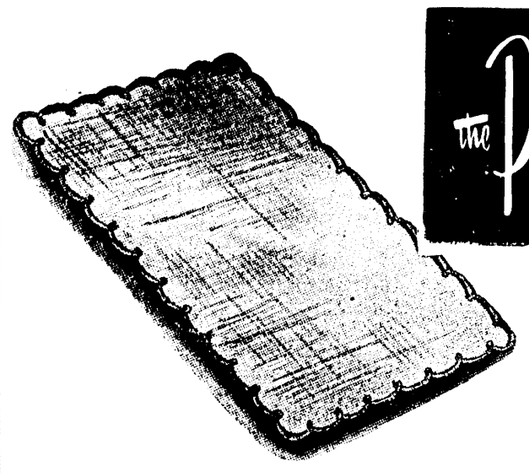

Sponsors of the conference noted speech correction was a comparitively new field, but the State Department of Health had already made a number of advances with its hearing conservation program. The urgent need for speech therapists in the state was stressed.

It was pointed out by a spokesman of the clinic faculty at LSU there were approximately 75 in the state, including those in public schools and in various specialized programs such as cerebral palsy and rehabilitation centers as well as those in college clinics.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—Proposed legislative re-apportionment cleared its first hurdle today for the first time in decades when it received overwhelming approval in the Senate.

The measure — which does not re-apportion the House of Representatives by population—was approved on third reading and sent to the House for three readings there.

Constitutional amendments must be approved three times in each house and ratified by the people to become effective. The three Senate votes were 42-1, 38-5, and two dissenting votes today.

There was no discussion or debate on today's reading. Some senators did not know the measure was being considered on final reading.

During the heated debate on the first reading Wednesday, senators argued the resolution should remain as a House-Senate committee drafted it or it would be killed in the House.

The measure would boost the Senate from 49 to 82 seats by giving each county one senator and boost the House from 140 to 143 and re-arrange nine seats to help compensate the larger counties for their population growth.

Impasse Results

Meanwhile, an impasse sprang up between the House and the Senate over House riders in appropriations bills to prevent legislators from holding state jobs.

The House inserted the riders; the Senate removed them; and a conference was called to iron out the difference. But the House instructed its conferees not to compromise.

Today, Sen. William Burgin of Columbus, Finance Committee chairman, asked that the Senate conferees be discharged, saying agreement could not be reached.

Some House members opposed the double-dip riders on grounds they were an indirect method of accomplishing what should be done directly.

Bills passed by the Senate today would:

Raise from 45 to 50 miles per hour the speed limit of trucks on highways; authorize counties and school districts to dispose of school property abandoned under the minimum foundation program; and remove a 200-pound limit on merchandise carried on passenger buses to permit delivery of newspapers to rural areas.

Bills passed by the House today would:

Authorize Mississippi insurance companies to invest in post offices and federal building projects; authorize all municipalities to adopt zoning ordinances; and authorize Bay St. Louis and McComb to tax suburban property within the municipal separate school district.

Flight Plans Set For LSU Senior Cadets

BATON ROUGE (Special) — A flight instruction program for senior Air Force ROTC cadets has been inaugurated at Louisiana State University, in conjunction with the U. S. Air Force, it was announced today.

The first class in the program is now being conducted at Baton Rouge's Ryan Airport under the supervision of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

"The purpose of the program is to generate interest in flying and to determine the flight aptitude of cadets before they embark on their Air Force careers," said Col. Herbert O. Wangeman, Commandant of Cadets at LSU. About 40 other universities have similar programs, Colonel Wangeman added.

The cadets will be given up to 36 hours of instruction by civilian pilots,and may qualify for a pilot's license upon completion of the training.

The non-credit program is fitted into a student's regular school schedule. The flying lessons are of about an hour duration and are given in a single engine plane.

Colonel Wangeman said the student pilots have been prepared for the program by flight theory instruction already received in air science classes at the University, this to be supplemented prior to their CAA examination.

Negro Group Asks Drive To Boost Voter Numbers

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—A Negro religious group representing some 800,000 members, today called for an accelerated drive to register Negro voters in every state.

The Brotherhood of the African Methodist Episcopal Church adopted a resolution calling upon every member "within the next 12 months to register and vote regularly."

"The brotherhood urges every AME minister to assist in his community leadership in this drive, working toward a first class citizenship and dynamic race relations," the resolution said.

The meeting, attended by some 1,000 delegates, condemned the use of Negro spirituals by secular artists and agencies.

"One of the unnecessary and most shameful acts which has ever been perpetrated by the music world is the misuse of the Negro spiritual for commercial secular jazz purposes," the denouncement said.

"The commercialization of such songs as 'Over My Head,' and "When The Saints Go Marching In" for purely secular entertainment both blasphemous and sacrilegious . . . ."

Yesterday, the meeting heard reports from chairmen of 33 study commissions on church reform and redevelopment and an address by the Rt. Rev. R. R. Wright Jr., presiding bishop of the Fifth Episcopal district.

Man Pardoned Aftes 9 Mos. On Bad Check

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 21 (AP) — A man who served nine months in prison on a bad check charge was pardoned today after the state Pardon-Parole Board declared him innocent of the crime.

The board said another man from Mississippi, admitted he gave the bad check and he is now in prison.

Pardoned by the board was Bevard Cecil Whitside, a former resident of Gadsden, Ala., who was arrested in Fairhope, Ala., and sentenced to 12 months and fined $100 plus $73.05 in court plus $73.05 in court costs last May 6.

Secretary L. B. Stephens said parole board records show Whiteside, was charged with buying an automobile liability insurance policy from the Huffman Insurance Agency in Fairhope, paying the premium with a $56.13 check and taking $22.13 change in cash.

He was arrested several days later while in Fairhope looking for a job.

Claims Innocent

Whiteside protested his innocence, but an employe of the agency, Mrs. Betty Clark, identified him as the man who gave her the check and endorsed it in her presence, the board records show.

Later, a man booked as William T. Smith of Waynesboro, Miss., was arrested on another bad check charge, and, the board said, admitted he instead of Whiteside was the one who cashed the check at the Huffman agency.

Baldwin County Judge W. R. Stuart and Fairhope Police Chief Mickey Johnson reopened the investigation and Stuart wrote the Pardon-Parole Board last month saying he was certain Whiteside was innocent.

Attached Affidavit

The judge attached an affidavit from Mrs. Clark saying she was mistaken in her identification of Whiteside, and another from Smith saying it was he who gave the Huffman agency the check.

The board called in state toxicologist C. J. Rehking for a handwriting comparison and he reported it was Smith who signed and endorsed the check.

The check was made out to W. T. Smith and endorsed in that name, but bore the signature of "M. M. Peirce." Stephens said Smith admitted he wrote the check to himself and signed it with a fictitious name.

Smith meanwhile was convicted in Baldwin County on the check on which he was arrested and sentenced to three years in prison last Dec. 12.

Under Alabama law, Whiteside can ask the State Board of Adjustment to compensate him for his prison term, or a member of the Legislature can introduce a bill to pay him.

Annual Hearing Conference Set On LSU Campus

BATON ROUGE (Special) —The fifth annual conference on speech and hearing therapy has been scheduled to open March 6, in the Music and Dramatic Arts Building on the LSU campus, it was announced today.

The one-day meeting is sponsored by the clinic faculty and students at LSU, and is directed toward college students and high school juniors and seniors interested in the curriculum, it was stated.

The program will follow the same framework established in previous years, with a series of films during the opening hours depicting various areas of speech correction and hearing. The afternoon sessions will deal primarily with hearing.

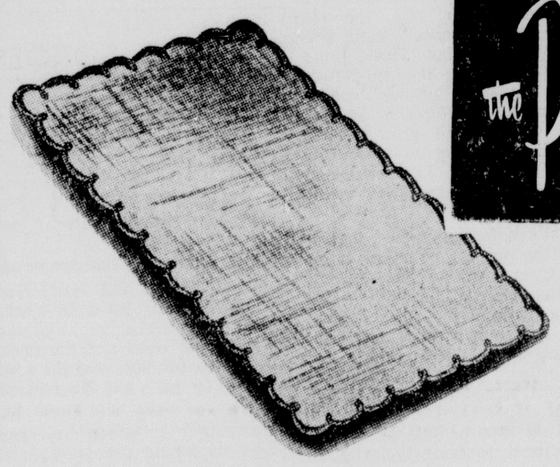

Sponsors of the conference noted speech correction was a comparitively new field, but the State Department of Health had already made a number of advances with its hearing conservation program. The urgent need for speech therapists in the state was stressed.

It was pointed out by a spokesman of the clinic faculty at LSU there were approximately 75 in the state, including those in public schools and in various specialized programs such as cerebral palsy and rehabilitation centers as well as those in college clinics.

Flood Of Gold

The federal government of the United States is getting ready to release a veritable flood of gold in order to turn the tide away from an economic recession that has been building up for a good many months. Both congress and the national administration are willing to go all out if necessary.

Here are some of the things that have already been set in motion or will be on their way soon:

The government has released up to three billion new dollars to U. S. banks to enable them to take steps necessary to uphold the economy.

Vast highway construction projects will be speeded up as much as possible.

Small businessmen in Louisiana, the lower Mississippi valley and throughout the nation will soon be in a position to receive "some effective financial assistance" through the Small Business administration.

More money for the farmers will be available, either through loans or soil bank payments.

Persons who have lost or will lose their jobs as a result of lay-offs caused by the recession and who, as a result, are unable to meet payments on loans at banks, will be able to work out arrangements with the banks whereby payment on the loans can be postponed until the workers have returned to their jobs or have found new employment.

The federal "tight money" policy has been abandoned and federal reserve requirements of the 6,400 member banks have been cut by $500 million.

The structure of the American banking system will permit the banks to multiply the dollars freed by the reserve board as many as six times in new loans. This means that up to three billion dollars in new money will be available by the end of February for businessmen who want to start new ventures or build new factories or for families who want to buy or build new homes.

Credit of all kinds will be far easier, thus making it easier to buy automobiles, farm equipment, household entertainment and musical facilities and home appliances of all kinds.

Bankers, with government support, are committed to a policy of easing the burdens of any borrower who falls into a financial trap because of sudden misfortune, through the loss of a job, staggering medical bills and other kinds of disasters. The bankers have emphasized that the era of quick repossessions when loan payments are overdue has been abandoned.

Financial burdens of all kinds suffered by reliable, responsible people who have met with misfortune for which they are not to blame will find their predicament less desperate than they expected.

Bankers, economists, congressmen, the national administration and businessmen believe the program will be effective and that within three months the economic swing will be upward and that another long period of prosperity will be assured.

Healthy Monroe Area

Unusually cold weather for almost two weeks has been accompanied by the usual number of cases of colds and various forms of influenza in the Monroe trade area but a weekly report issued by the Louisiana state department of public health showed the 16-parish area to be almost entirely free of new cases of the 19 diseases listed in the report. This is gratifying in that it indicates that northeast Louisiana may be one of the healthiest areas of the state.

In the whole state of Louisiana there were 78 new cases of cancer during the week, compared to 58 the week before and 464 for the year. There were 24 new cases of tuberculosis, compared with 26 the week before and 146 for the year. In the state, there were no new cases of polio for the week, compared with one for the week before and four for the year.

In the 16 northeast Louisiana parishes, there were no new cases of cancer, tuberculosis or polio. In fact, the only new case of any kind listed in this entire area was one case of typhoid fever in Richland parish. Parishes included in the area are Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union and West Carroll.

Several things shown in the report seem to be worthy of comment.

Although this is the time of year when polio is usually at a low level, it is nevertheless gratifying that not a single case was reported in the state for the week. This seems to indicate that the Salk vaccine is still proving effective in helping to stamp out this disease.

Heart trouble is not included in the list, since it is considered more of a condition than a disease. This leaves cancer, with 464 cases for the year, and tuberculosis, with 146 cases, far out ahead of any other ailments in number of cases reported.

Tuberculosis is now largely curable or "arrestable" and this leaves cancer as the paramount menace to the health and lives of the people of this state, as well as other states. The significance of this report points up the great need for a specific cure for cancer and gives all the more reason to hope that long-prophesied cures may soon materialize.

Senator Russell Reported Considering Retirement

RUSSELL MAY RETIRE — Friends of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia say he is serious! considering following his strong conservative friend, Senator Harry F. Byrd into retirement. Russell who proceeded Byrd into the Senate by only seven weeks in 1933, will finish his present term on January, 1961.

DISCONSOLATE BROODING — Republican Washington bigwigs who fared forth to address party Lincoln Day dinners faced audiences which displayed a lack of fighting spirit and a general resignation to defeat in November, which could be a rout. A concensus was that discouragement in G. O. P. would be a lift in business — and feeling was that it would have to be a big lift.

TEXAS GAS FIASCO — Longest faces in Washington were around the Republican National Committee when it became convinced it should not accept the $100,000 raised at the Houston dinner Monday because of the gas bill letter written by Texas National Committeeman Jack Porter. With prospects of electing candidates in November dark, G. O. P. is hard put to get necessary funds. Not only did it lose the $100,000 already in hand; it is being told that it can expect no help from its erstwhile fertile Texas money field this fall, or in 1960.

CAN TEXANS AND EX-TEXANS AGREE? — Any general Republican program to fight the recession will, in the final analysis, be decided by two ex-Texans, President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson. The Democratic program will be the handiwork of Texans Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. Any Republican program would have to make concessions to obtain Congressional approval and any Democratic plan would have to yield to Administration wishes on some points to escape a presidential veto.

TROOPS TO STAY ON — White House is just about reconciled that it can find no way of getting off the hook at Little Rock and will have to keep troops there the more than three months remaining of this school term. What to do about the new term in September? General feeling in administration is that if there are more incidents there may be another court order and then a presidential decision on sending troops again. And that would be just two months before important off - year elections.

SENATE WON'T TACKLE IT— You can put it down as final that the Senate will not take up the investigation of the Federal Communications Commission, which is now fated to fizzle in the House of Representatives, House will continue pretense of investigation until too late for Senate to act, even if a majority of that body wanted to, which it does not. Best rags to riches story in nation, the bonanza of tree television channel grants, will remain untold.

ALASKA MAY DIVIDE — Democrats are not so certain as they once were that they can elect both Senators from Alaska if it becomes the newest and largest (in area) of the States. Each party may elect one. Furthermore, there is a bi - partisan agreement not to recognize the Tennessee plan (election of Senators before statehood) for Alaska if it becomes the 49th State.

IVES MAY QUIT — New York Republicans would not now be surprised if Senator Irving M. Ives who has blown hot and cold on running for his third term were to bow out. If he does they will make a strong and probably futile effort to get former Governor Thomas E. Dewey to become their Senatorial candidate.

LEN WANTS SHOWDOWN — Friends of Leonord W. Hall, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, say that Eisenhower Republicans in New York state are treating him as the party's forgotten man despite the fact that President Eisenhower said a year ago he would like to see Hall governor of New York. Hall is described as wanting a quick show down, believing that if the Republican gubernatorial situation continues to drift no G. O. P. candidate will be able to head off Harriman in November.

The Weather Seems About The Same All Over

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Peace By Surrender Is Not Objective Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The late Senator Robert Taft once pointed out that American liberty, and not the fugitive butterfly called international "peace," is the proper concern of United States foreign policy.

Isn't that what so many statesmen are saying now?

Secretary Dulles came, three weeks ago, to make a luncheon speech at the National Press Club, the Waterloo of many a would-be Napoleon over world affairs. But Mr. Dulles stuck to his knife and fork, keeping his foot firmly out of his mouth, and many newsmen who had come to jeer remained to praise. The gist of the Secretary's remarks on the all-important Summit Conference question was: "Get thee behind me, Khrushchev." The Secretary was not seeking "peace," he told us, at the price of surrender.

Senator Bridges a week or so afterwards went to the defense of Mr. Dulles whom Senate Democrats were taunting as "inflexible" and "unimaginative" in the business of peace-mongering with the Kremlin Senator Bridges, Senior Republican of the upper chamber and a bearer of the Taft tradition, pommeled the Democrats and lauded Mr. Dulles "because he insists on safeguards that will protect this nation's survival and because he refuses to be caught in any Russian bear traps."

Practically every Republican on the floor congratulated the Bridges' speech, which was to be expected; but the Acting Democratic floor-leader, Senator Mike Mansfield, also got in on the act, saying:

"I wish to commend the distinguished Senator from New Hampshire on his position in relation to meetings held at the Summit. I think he is absolutely right."

Today there is, in almost every place except the White House, a determination to give the old cliches about "peace" some second, sober thinking. Three times in this century we have made war in the name of "peace," and at the Geneva Conference in 1955 there was enough grinning and cocktail - toasting to make life forever beautiful in technicolor. There is this re-evaluation taking place:

What's a foreign policy for? Is it for the purpose of trying to bestow upon mankind the heavenly blessing called "peace" — the goal and promise of all religions? Or is it primarily to preserve the sovereignty of the USA? The search for "peace" is primarily one that is undertaken by saints and Messiahs, and it pertains to life after death. But the matter of national sovereignty, with all the freedoms guaranteed in the American Constitution, is something for the living generations — ourselves and our posterity.

The White House, not being a place where ideas are so freely exchanged and debated, is still optimistically inclined toward a Summit meeting. Mr. Eisenhower's well-known preoccupation with peacemaking has become a sense of dedication, not to say of destiny. He would not want his Presidential term — much less his mortal life — to end without exhausting every possibility of getting a net over the elusive gleam called international "peace."

In truth, the President is out of harmony with his party leaders. But this opinional tug o' war is not necessarily a bad thing. We have had Presidents, like Wilson and the two Roosevelts, who made foreign policy and then demanded that the rest of the nation fall in line with it. Mr. Eisenhower, although a military man, is not the kind of President that is admiringly called "strong" meaning bull-headed. He is going to try for "peace." He could very well bring off some sort of closely-supervised world - armistice. But if he does, he will find the Congressional leaders determined as never before to check the final decisions.

The Taft influence cannot be overlooked. Senator Taft's last speech of any consequence was written from a Cincinnati hospital bed and delivered for the Senator by his son to a home-town audience. It was the speech which many newspapers boiled down to three words — "Go it alone." The Senator did not use those words, but the idea of giving a priority of purpose to American sovereignty and of withdrawing our misplaced faith in "peace" through collective security was at the heart of it.

This same idea is at the heart of Congressional thinking today. And perhaps it can be said, in all respect to both the living and the dead, that if President Eisenhower does go to the Summit, his "prime minister" will be at his elbow to see that things do not go wholly wrong.

Revives Argument On Wearing Shoes

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FEET AND ALCOHOL

A 65 YEAR OLD Palos Park, Ill., man has revived an old argument on shoes.

"We were a million years developing our feet before some jerk put his feet into those heeled, hard - soled abominations and now the rest of us think we have to imitate him and ruin our feet."

This man believes he has avoided corns, calluses, bunions, and fallen arches by buying shoes about two sizes larger, leaving his feet free to move around, and giving the muscles a chance to do some work. He can't wait to get out of his shoes at night and get into moccasins, or go barefooted.

He is a slight man accustomed to walking long distances, usually in the country. He has kept his feet strong and cannot be blamed for wanting to walk barefooted or in moccasins. But the majority of adults do not have such excellent feet and make no attempt to strengthen the arches. Many have worn shoes that fit too tightly and most of us need the protection of shoes against hard floors, not to mention cold weather.

A constant reader from Winnetka, Ill., read our question and answer about the use of brandy for a cold. "By a strange coincidence, I soon contracted a honey of a cold and thought at once of brandy. I must admit it did not effect a cure but I didn't mind the cold nearly as much."

For the record, I did not recommend brandy for colds but said some persons use the infection as an alibi for taking a nip or two. Alcohol increases nasal congestion but improves the feeling of well-being, especially when the individual feels chilly or is too miserable to relax or sleep.

Another reader has something to say about alcohol.

"If you refer in your article to Dr. B.'s paper on cigarettes, alcohol, and longevity, note that the drinker who took just a couple a day was in better physical condition than the nondrinker and outlived him."

Look hard enough and you can find approval for anything you want to do. The article in question neither condemned nor praised the ordinary drinker. It told what happened to those who overindulged.

TOMORROW: Emotional maturity.

GERMAN MEASLES

Mrs. L. K. writes: Is there any vaccine that can be given a pregnant woman who has been exposed to German measles? She never had this disease.

REPLY

Gamma globulin or small amounts of pooled adult serum, given within the first seven or eight days after exposure, may offer complete protection or modify the disease should it develop.

CORONARY AND CHOLESTEROL

J. H. writes: Can a heart attack be induced deliberately by raising the cholesterol level of the blood?

REPLY

No. Many individuals who have had a coronary attack have an elevated cholesterol content of the blood. Other victims have had a normal level of this fatty substance. In this respect, cholesterol is not the answer to the coronary problem.

NAILS AND HEREDITY

C. S. Writes: My father had horny toenails and now I'm getting them. Are they inherited?

REPLY

The only horns that are inherited are those that develop on deer, goats, gnus, and allied animals. Thickened and horny toenails usually come with age, more so when the circulation to the lower extremities is not what it used to be. The condition can be controled with care.

OVARIAN CYST

F. D. writes: What is a chocolate tumor?

REPLY

BEST FOOT FORWARD

STAVELY, England (UP) — There's no telling what kind of a performance star soccer center-forward Arthur Griffiths would have given if he had been properly shod at a youth club soccer match here. Even wearing two left boots, which he brought by mistake to the locker room, he scored seven goals.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Tragic Mistake Narrowly Missed

Nora wants to know how to distinguish between mad infatuation and true love, since both give you heart throbs and butterflies in your stomach. So use the yardstick below. For true love is noble and angelic, whereas infatuation is selfish and demanding.

Case X-336: Nora N., aged 18, is now a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane, a year ago you helped me through a crisis," she began, as I met her following an address I had delivered before her college connocation.

"You saved my happiness by showing me the hazards of letting my high school boy friend persuade me into indulging in an illicit affair.

"Afterwards, he apologized and we became friends once more I even had a few more dates with him before graduation.

"But since then our paths have parted, for I came on to this college and he went to another.

"Now I do not feel romantic about him at all. So I narrowly missed making a tragic mistake.

"But how can a person who is romantically intoxicated, as I was at that time, be sure whether it is true love or just a passing infatuation?"

True Love or Infatuation

Nora has asked a very good question, for you get palpitations and goose pimples and butterflies in your stomach with BOTH true love, as well as temporary infatuation.

"Dr. Crane, I just KNOW it is true love," many infatuated girls have protested to me, although their friends and parents could plainly see that it was NOT a matter of true love.

King David's son Amnon also vowed he loved Tamar, but it turned out to be nothing but a selfish sexual infatuation (II Samuel, Ch. 13).

When you are apparently head over heels in love, therefore, how can you test yourself and be sure?

Well, true love is basically unselfish. In it, the lovers are so concerned with the future happiness of the other party that they will actually step out of the picture if it definitely looks best for their sweetheart's ultimate good.

Dickens depicts such a case of true love in Sidney Carlton, who finally realized that his sweetheart was not in love with him. So Sidney Carlton even disguised himself and went to the guillotine to save the man whom his girl friend really wanted to marry.

True love thus has an element of nobility and self-sacrifice in it. To this degree, it partakes of God and is a divine emotion.

But infatuation is mainly a selfish and largely sexual attraction. It is a devilish emotion, and produces much of the tears and heart ache in the world.

Test Your Love

All the external yardsticks of human experience show that premarital sexual affairs are disastrous, for they definitely violate the inexorable yardstick of moral goodness, which states:

"That which does the most good for the most people for the longest period of time," is right and just.

Please remember that final "For the longest period of time." Russia decided in 1917 that looting the Czar's palace and taking all the possessions of the white collar classes, would do the most good for the most people.

But soon it was apparent that Russia couldn't be strong without doctors and engineers and scientists and business executives to direct the illiterate masses of the Soviet Union.

Belatedly, therefore, Russia bribed American engineers and executives to come back into Russia to help rebuild her industry.

And so it is in love affairs. Under a romantic moon, and with some liquor in your stomach, you may foolishly confuse sex with love.

But look far ahead and avoid succumbing to selfish sexual infatuation that breaks the hearts of your doting parents and launches your baby into life with an unwed mother.

So send for my frank boklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return enveloped, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Rebellious Youth Real U.S. Issue

The real news of the day is our children. Jordan and Iraq, Nasser and Yeme. Khruschev and Zhukov may make the headlines, but the gang wars and the duck-tail hairdos for boys and the sloppy shoes for girls and other manifestations of rebellious youth are our immediate problem.

Why do young people organize into gangs? They always did, whether you call them gangs, groups, cliques, teams. The name does not change the fact that children do not like to be alone unless there is something wrong with them. There is warmth and security in group play and group associations. Also children like to do things. They dislike doing nothing. Organize a school band and there is a combination of being in a crowd and doing something. Organize a debating club, a glee club, any kind of group with something to do and youngsters will flock to it, particularly if they can run the show themselves. An adult adviser or consultant or moderator or whatever you call him has to be careful not to become a papa to the boys and girls; they have enough of papa at home.

The gangs of a city like New York are brilliantly organized. They are attempts at self-government. They are protected by self-imposed discipline and the boys and girls make an ideal of personal physical heroism. They could become socially useful organizations if properly directed. Children are lacking in restraints; they say more than they mean; they go too far, as the expression is. They could be diverted into fine play organizations if there were proper guidance and proper facilities. I say this from experience, because in my childhood we, on the East Side of New York, went through exactly the same situations that now face the Negro and Puerto Rican children of New York. Society has excluded them; they make their own society.

The public school is an insufficient agency to assimilate this new population into existent society. The public school cannot even recognize that it faces a racial problem without having all the bleeding-hearts and pressure groups fighting against acknowledging a racial discrimination which is real because it exists, just as religious discrimination is real wherever it exists.

The teen-age gangs that are discussed with so much fear in the large cities are mainly gangs of Negro and Puerto Rican children. However, the basic problem is not racial, but the broken home. The broken home presents a myriad of problems for the child who needs to build itself around some rallying post other than parents. Where there are two sets of parents, or three sets, where children are the products of multimarriages, so that three or four half sisters and half brothers or stepsisters and stepbrothers are living under one roof, no child quite understands all the complex relationships. This is particularly so when visiting time comes and the child has to spend a number of days, specified by a court, with another set of parents, a different environment. The child makes comparisons, most of which end up as unfavorable to all parents.

A child does not need to be poor to feel friendless. The poor, in fact, are better off than the rich because they gang up and if the gang does not go in for heroin or marijuana and does not get into murderous fights, they can have fun without going to jail. The rich kid is protected by artificial devices such as governesses, nurses, boarding schools, none of which answer the longing for love, to be wanted, to be included.

It is too easy to say that the kid is a rotten egg. Who made the child a rotten egg? What did it? What are the forces that turn an ordinary boy into a murderer? What are the disillusionments that make a girl a tough, mean-spoken gangster's moll? One does not need to be a bleeding-heart to recognize that the poison is in the loveless home, the quarrelsome home, the brutal home.

It is a problem which is not too easy to approach, almost impossible to solve. It involves more than education; it involves assimilation, an absorption of unwanted but not necessarily undesirable elements in a society which has set up barriers, no matter how disguised, against these elements.

Flood Of Gold

The federal government of the United States is getting ready to release a veritable flood of gold in order to turn the tide away from an economic recession that has been building up for a good many months. Both congress and the national administration are willing to go all out if necessary.

Here are some of the things that have already been set in motion or will be on their way soon:

The government has released up to three billion new dollars to U. S. banks to enable them to take steps necessary to uphold the economy.

Vast highway construction projects will be speeded up as much as possible.

Small businessmen in Louisiana, the lower Mississippi valley and throughout the nation will soon be in a position to receive "some effective financial assistance" through the Small Business administration.

More money for the farmers will be available, either through loans or soil bank payments.

Persons who have lost or will lose their jobs as a result of lay-offs caused by the recession and who, as a result, are unable to meet payments on loans at banks, will be able to work out arrangements with the banks whereby payment on the loans can be postponed until the workers have returned to their jobs or have found new employment.

The federal "tight money" policy has been abandoned and federal reserve requirements of the 6,400 member banks have been cut by $500 million.

The structure of the American banking system will permit the banks to multiply the dollars freed by the reserve board as many as six times in new loans. This means that up to three billion dollars in new money will be available by the end of February for businessmen who want to start new ventures or build new factories or for families who want to buy or build new homes.

Credit of all kinds will be far easier, thus making it easier to buy automobiles, farm equipment, household entertainment and musical facilities and home appliances of all kinds.

Bankers, with government support, are committed to a policy of easing the burdens of any borrower who falls into a financial trap because of sudden misfortune, through the loss of a job, staggering medical bills and other kinds of disasters. The bankers have emphasized that the era of quick repossessions when loan payments are overdue has been abandoned.

Financial burdens of all kinds suffered by reliable, responsible people who have met with misfortune for which they are not to blame will find their predicament less desperate than they expected.

Bankers, economists, congressmen, the national administration and businessmen believe the program will be effective and that within three months the economic swing will be upward and that another long period of prosperity will be assured.

Healthy Monroe Area

Unusually cold weather for almost two weeks has been accompanied by the usual number of cases of colds and various forms of influenza in the Monroe trade area but a weekly report issued by the Louisiana state department of public health showed the 16-parish area to be almost entirely free of new cases of the 19 diseases listed in the report. This is gratifying in that it indicates that northeast Louisiana may be one of the healthiest areas of the state.

In the whole state of Louisiana there were 78 new cases of cancer during the week, compared to 58 the week before and 464 for the year. There were 24 new cases of tuberculosis, compared with 26 the week before and 146 for the year. In the state, there were no new cases of polio for the week, compared with one for the week before and four for the year.

In the 16 northeast Louisiana parishes, there were no new cases of cancer, tuberculosis or polio. In fact, the only new case of any kind listed in this entire area was one case of typhoid fever in Richland parish. Parishes included in the area are Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union and West Carroll.

Several things shown in the report seem to be worthy of comment.

Although this is the time of year when polio is usually at a low level, it is nevertheless gratifying that not a single case was reported in the state for the week. This seems to indicate that the Salk vaccine is still proving effective in helping to stamp out this disease.

Heart trouble is not included in the list, since it is considered more of a condition than a disease. This leaves cancer, with 464 cases for the year, and tuberculosis, with 146 cases, far out ahead of any other ailments in number of cases reported.

Tuberculosis is now largely curable or "arrestable" and this leaves cancer as the paramount menace to the health and lives of the people of this state, as well as other states. The significance of this report points up the great need for a specific cure for cancer and gives all the more reason to hope that long-prophesied cures may soon materialize.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Senator Russell Reported Considering Retirement

RUSSELL MAY RETIRE — Friends of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia say he is seriously considering following his strong conservative friend, Senator Harry F. Byrd into retirement. Russell who proceeded Byrd into the Senate by only seven weeks in 1933, will finish his present term on January, 1961.

DISCONSOLATE BROODING — Republican Washington bigwigs who fared forth to address party Lincoln Day dinners faced audiences which displayed a lack of fighting spirit and a general resignation to defeat in November, which could be a rout. A concensus was that discouragement in G. O. P. would be a lift in business — and feeling was that it would have to be a big lift.

TEXAS GAS FIASCO — Longest faces in Washington were around the Republican National Committee when it became convinced it should not accept the $100,000 raised at the Houston dinner Monday because of the gas bill letter written by Texas National Committeeman Jack Porter. With prospects of electing candidates in November dark, G. O. P. is hard put to get necessary funds. Not only did it lose the $100,000 already in hand; it is being told that it can expect no help from its erstwhile fertile Texas money field this fall, or in 1960.

CAN TEXANS AND EX-TEXANS AGREE? — Any general Republican program to fight the recession will, in the final analysis, be decided by two ex-Texans, President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson. The Democratic program will be the handiwork of Texans Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. Any Republican program would have to make concessions to obtain Congressional approval and any Democratic plan would have to yield to Administration wishes on some points to escape a presidential veto.

TROOPS TO STAY ON — White House is just about reconciled that it can find no way of getting off the hook at Little Rock and will have to keep troops there the more than three months remaining of this school term. What to do about the new term in September? General feeling in administration is that if there are more incidents there may be another court order and then a presidential decision on sending troops again. And that would be just two months before important off - year elections.

SENATE WON'T TACKLE IT— You can put it down as final that the Senate will not take up the investigation of the Federal Communications Commission, which is now fated to fizzle in the House of Representatives, House will continue pretense of investigation until too late for Senate to act, even if a majority of that body wanted to, which it does not. Best rags to riches story in nation, the bonanza of tree television channel grants, will remain untold.

ALASKA MAY DIVIDE — Democrats are not so certain as they once were that they can elect both Senators from Alaska if it becomes the newest and largest (in area) of the States. Each party may elect one. Furthermore, there is a bi - partisan agreement not to recognize the Tennessee plan (election of Senators before statehood) for Alaska if it becomes the 49th State.

IVES MAY QUIT — New York Republicans would not now be surprised if Senator Irving M. Ives who has blown hot and cold on running for his third term were to bow out. If he does they will make a strong and probably futile effort to get former Governor Thomas E. Dewey to become their Senatorial candidate.

LEN WANTS SHOWDOWN — Friends of Leonord W. Hall, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, say that Eisenhower Republicans in New York state are treating him as the party's forgotten man despite the fact that President Eisenhower said a year ago he would like to see Hall governor of New York. Hall is described as wanting a quick show down, believing that if the Republican gubernatorial situation continues to drift no G. O. P. candidate will be able to head off Harriman in November.

The Weather Seems About The Same All Over

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Peace By Surrender Is Not Objective Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The late Senator Robert Taft once pointed out that American liberty, and not the fugitive butterfly called international "peace," is the proper concern of United States foreign policy.

Isn't that what so many statesmen are saying now?

Secretary Dulles came, three weeks ago, to make a luncheon speech at the National Press Club, the Waterloo of many a would-be Napoleon over world affairs. But Mr. Dulles stuck to his knife and fork, keeping his foot firmly out of his mouth, and many newsmen who had come to jeer remained to praise. The gist of the Secretary's remarks on the all-important Summit Conference question was: "Get thee behind me, Khrushchev." The Secretary was not seeking "peace," he told us, at the price of surrender.

Senator Bridges a week or so afterwards went to the defense of Mr. Dulles whom Senate Democrats were taunting as "inflexible" and "unimaginative" in the business of peace-mongering with the Kremlin Senator Bridges, Senior Republican of the upper chamber and a bearer of the Taft tradition, pommeled the Democrats and lauded Mr. Dulles "because he insists on safeguards that will protect this nation's survival and because he refuses to be caught in any Russian bear traps."

Practically every Republican on the floor congratulated the Bridges' speech, which was to be expected; but the Acting Democratic floor-leader, Senator Mike Mansfield, also got in on the act, saying:

"I wish to commend the distinguished Senator from New Hampshire on his position in relation to meetings held at the Summit. I think he is absolutely right."

Today there is, in almost every place except the White House, a determination to give the old cliches about "peace" some second, sober thinking. Three times in this century we have made war in the name of "peace," and at the Geneva Conference in 1955 there was enough grinning and cocktail - toasting to make life forever beautiful in technicolor. There is this re-evaluation taking place:

What's a foreign policy for? Is it for the purpose of trying to bestow upon mankind the heavenly blessing called "peace" — the goal and promise of all religions? Or is it primarily to preserve the sovereignty of the USA? The search for "peace" is primarily one that is undertaken by saints and Messiahs, and it pertains to life after death. But the matter of national sovereignty, with all the freedoms guaranteed in the American Constitution, is something for the living generations — ourselves and our posterity.

The White House, not being a place where ideas are so freely exchanged and debated, is still optimistically inclined toward a Summit meeting. Mr. Eisenhower's well-known preoccupation with peacemaking has become a sense of dedication, not to say of destiny. He would not want his Presidential term — much less his mortal life — to end without exhausting every possibility of getting a net over the elusive gleam called international "peace."

In truth, the President is out of harmony with his party leaders. But this opinional tug o' war is not necessarily a bad thing. We have had Presidents, like Wilson and the two Roosevelts, who made foreign policy and then demanded that the rest of the nation fall in line with it. Mr. Eisenhower, although a military man, is not the kind of President that is admiringly called "strong" meaning bull-headed. He is going to try for "peace." He could very well bring off some sort of closely-supervised world - armistice. But if he does, he will find the Congressional leaders determined as never before to check the final decisions.

The Taft influence cannot be overlooked. Senator Taft's last speech of any consequence was written from a Cincinnati hospital bed and delivered for the Senator by his son to a home-town audience. It was the speech which many newspapers boiled down to three words — "Go it alone." The Senator did not use those words, but the idea of giving a priority of purpose to American sovereignty and of withdrawing our misplaced faith in "peace" through collective security was at the heart of it.

This same idea is at the heart of Congressional thinking today. And perhaps it can be said, in all respect to both the living and the dead, that if President Eisenhower does go to the Summit, his "prime minister" will be at his elbow to see that things do not go wholly wrong.

Revives Argument On Wearing Shoes

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FEET AND ALCOHOL

A 65 YEAR OLD Palos Park, Ill., man has revived an old argument on shoes.

"We were a million years developing our feet before some jerk put his feet into those heeled, hard - soled abominations and now the rest of us think we have to imitate him and ruin our feet."

This man believes he has avoided corns, calluses, bunions, and fallen arches by buying shoes about two sizes larger, leaving his feet free to move around, and giving the muscles a chance to do some work. He can't wait to get out of his shoes at night and get into moccasins, or go barefooted.

He is a slight man accustomed to walking long distances, usually in the country. He has kept his feet strong and cannot be blamed for wanting to walk barefooted or in moccasins. But the majority of adults do not have such excellent feet and make no attempt to strengthen the arches. Many have worn shoes that fit too tightly and most of us need the protection of shoes against hard floors, not to mention cold weather.

A constant reader from Winnetka, Ill., read our question and answer about the use of brandy for a cold. "By a strange coincidence, I soon contracted a honey of a cold and thought at once of brandy. I must admit it did not effect a cure but I didn't mind the cold nearly as much."

For the record, I did not recommend brandy for colds but said some persons use the infection as an alibi for taking a nip or two. Alcohol increases nasal congestion but improves the feeling of well-being, especially when the individual feels chilly or is too miserable to relax or sleep.

Another reader has something to say about alcohol.

"If you refer in your article to Dr. B.'s paper on cigarettes, alcohol, and longevity, note that the drinker who took just a couple a day was in better physical condition than the nondrinker and outlived him."

Look hard enough and you can find approval for anything you want to do. The article in question neither condemned nor praised the ordinary drinker. It told what happened to those who overindulged.

TOMORROW: Emotional maturity.

GERMAN MEASLES

Mrs. L. K. writes: Is there any vaccine that can be given a pregnant woman who has been exposed to German measles? She never had this disease.

REPLY

Gamma globulin or small amounts of pooled adult serum, given within the first seven or eight days after exposure, may offer complete protection or modify the disease should it develop.

CORONARY AND CHOLESTEROL

J. H. writes: Can a heart attack be induced deliberately by raising the cholesterol level of the blood?

REPLY

No. Many individuals who have had a coronary attack have an elevated cholesterol content of the blood. Other victims have had a normal level of this fatty substance. In this respect, cholesterol is not the answer to the coronary problem.

NAILS AND HEREDITY

C. S. Writes: My father had horny toenails and now I'm getting them. Are they inherited?

REPLY

The only horns that are inherited are those that develop on deer, goats, gnus, and allied animals. Thickened and horny toenails usually come with age, more so when the circulation to the lower extremities is not what it used to be. The condition can be controled with care.

OVARIAN CYST

F. D. writes: What is a chocolate tumor?

REPLY

Today's Health Hint—
Laziness is a hopeless disease.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

STAVELY, England (UP) — There's no telling what kind of a performance star soccer centerforward Arthur Griffiths would have given if he had been properly shod at a youth club soccer match here. Even wearing two left boots, which he brought by mistake to the locker room, he scored seven goals.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Tragic Mistake Narrowly Missed

Nora wants to know how to distinguish between mad infatuation and true love, since both give you heart throbs and butterflies in your stomach. So use the yardstick below. For true love is noble and angelic, whereas infatuation is selfish and demanding.

Case X-336: Nora N., aged 18, is now a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane, a year ago you helped me through a crisis," she began, as I met her following an address I had delivered before her college connocation.

"You saved my happiness by showing me the hazards of letting my high school boy friend persuade me into indulging in an illicit affair.

"Afterwards, he apologized and we became friends once more. I even had a few more dates with him before graduation.

"But since then our paths have parted, for I came on to this college and he went to another.

"Now I do not feel romantic about him at all. So I narrowly missed making a tragic mistake.

"But how can a person who is romantically intoxicated, as I was at that time, be sure whether it is true love or just a passing infatuation?"

True Love or Infatuation

Nora has asked a very good question, for you get palpitations and goose pimples and butterflies in your stomach with BOTH true love, as well as temporary infatuation.

"Dr. Crane, I just KNOW it is true love," many infatuated girls have protested to me, although their friends and parents could plainly see that it was NOT a matter of true love.

King David's son Amnon also vowed he loved Tamar, but it turned out to be nothing but a selfish sexual infatuation (II Samuel, Ch. 13).

When you are apparently head over heels in love, therefore, how can you test yourself and be sure?

Well, true love is basically unselfish. In it, the lovers are so concerned with the future happiness of the other party that they will actually step out of the picture if it definitely looks best for their sweeheart's ultimate good.

Dickens depicts such a case of true love in Sidney Carlton, who finally realized that his sweetheart was not in love with him. So Sidney Carlton even disguised himself and went to the guillotine to save the man whom his girl friend really wanted to marry.

True love thus has an element of nobility and self-sacrifice in it. To this degree, it partakes of God and is a divine emotion.

But infatuation is mainly a selfish and largely sexual attraction. It is a devilish emotion, and produces much of the tears and heart ache in the world.

Test Your Love

All the external yardsticks of human experience show that premarital sexual affairs are disastrous, for they definitely violate the inexorable yardstick of moral goodness, which states:

"That which does the most good for the most people for the longest period of time," is right and just.

Please remember that final "For the longest period of time." Russia decided in 1917 that looting the Czar's palace and taking all the possessions of the white collar classes, would do the most good for the most people.

But soon it was apparent that Russia couldn't be strong without doctors and engineers and scientists and business executives to direct the illiterate masses of the Soviet Union.

Belatedly, therefore, Russia bribed American engineers and executives to come back into Russia to help rebuild her industry.

And so it is in love affairs. Under a romantic moon, and with some liquor in your stomach, you may foolishly confuse sex with love.

But look far ahead and avoid succumbing to selfish sexual infatuation that breaks the hearts of your doting parents and launches your baby into life with an unwed mother.

So send for my frank boklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return enveloped, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Rebellious Youth Real U.S. Issue

The real news of the day is our children. Jordan and Iraq, Nasser and Yeme. Khruschev and Zhukov may make the headlines, but the gang wars and the ducktail hairdos for boys and the sloppy shoes for girls and other manifestations of rebellious youth are our immediate problem.

Why do young people organize into gangs? They always did, whether you call them gangs, groups, cliques, teams. The name does not change the fact that children do not like to be alone unless there is something wrong with them. There is warmth and security in group play and group associations. Also children like to do things. They dislike doing nothing. Organize a school band and there is a combination of being in a crowd and doing something. Organize a debating club, a glee club, any kind of group with something to do and youngsters will flock to it, particularly if they can run the show themselves. An adult adviser or consultant or moderator or whatever you call him has to be careful not to become a papa to the boys and girls; they have enough of papa at home.

The gangs of a city like New York are brilliantly organized. They are attempts at self-government. They are protected by self-imposed discipline and the boys and girls make an ideal of personal physical heroism. They could become socially useful organizations if properly directed. Children are lacking in restraints; they say more than they mean; they go too far, as the expression is. They could be diverted into fine play organizations if there were proper guidance and proper facilities. I say this from experience, because in my childhood we, on the East Side of New York, went through exactly the same situations that now face the Negro and Puerto Rican children of New York. Society has excluded them; they make their own society.

The public school is an insufficient agency to assimilate this new population into existent society. The public school cannot even recognize that it faces a racial problem without having all the bleeding-hearts and pressure groups fighting against acknowledging a racial discrimination which is real because it exists, just as religious discrimination is real wherever it exists.

The teen-age gangs that are discussed with so much fear in the large cities are mainly gangs of Negro and Puerto Rican children. However, the basic problem is not racial, but the broken home. The broken home presents a myriad of problems for the child who needs to build itself around some rallying post other than parents. Where there are two sets of parents, or three sets, where children are the products of multimarriages, so that three or four half sisters and half brothers or stepsisters and stepbrothers are living under one roof, no child quite understands all the complex relationships. This is particularly so when visiting time comes and the child has to spend a number of days, specified by a court, with another set of parents, a different environment. The child makes comparisons, most of which end up as unfavorable to all parents.

A child does not need to be poor to feel friendless. The poor, in fact, are better off than the rich because they gang up and if the gang does not go in for heroin or marijuana and does not get into murderous fights, they can have fun without going to jail. The rich kid is protected by artificial devices such as governesses, nurses, boarding schools, none of which answer the longing for love, to be wanted, to be included.

It is too easy to say that the kid is a rotten egg. Who made the child a rotten egg? What did it? What are the forces that turn an ordinary boy into a murderer? What are the disillusionments that make a girl a tough, mean-spoken gangster's moll? One does not need to be a bleeding-heart to recognize that the poison is in the loveless home, the quarrelsome home, the brutal home.

It is a problem which is not too easy to approach, almost impossible to solve. It involves more than education; it involves assimilation, an absorption of unwanted but not necessarily undesirable elements in a society which has set up barriers, no matter how disguised, against these elements.

CALLED 'HOOVER-LIKE'

Ike's Economy Approach Hit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Democrats whipped up an attack today on what they called President Eisenhower's "Hoover-like approach" to unemployment and other recession problems.

With former President Truman assailing Eisenhower in two speeches elsewhere in Washington, the Democratic National Committee unanimously adopted a resolution condemning what it called the administration's delay in moving to combat "the depression now gripping the country."

"We condemn the Hoover-like approach of the President to this problem," the resolution said. "It is a disgrace to a free society to follow a policy which tells the five million involuntary recruits in the Eisenhower-Nixon army of the unemployed to wait six months and things may be better —and that prosperity is just around the corner.

First-Hand Knowledge

"We members of the Democratic National Committee can testify from first-hand knowledge to the depressed economic conditions in our states. And we herewith assure our elected Democratic officials in the states and in the Congress of our wholehearted support in their fearless efforts to relieve the suffering of our unemployed, our farmers, our consumers and our small businessmen."

Truman, warming up for a "give 'em hell" speech at a party rally here tomorrow night, unloosed several shafts at Eisenhower in two appearances.

He told a luncheon of the Reserve Officers Assn. there isn't room in the Defense Department for rivalry which permits the individual armed services to "cut each other's throats."

"They'll cooperate to a certain extent when they have a commander in chief who will make them do it," he said.

Truman said he favors a unified command under a central authority in the Pentagon one of the proposals before Eisenhower in his current study of Defense Department reorganization plans.

Truman told the Electric Consumers Information Committee that he could talk for hours "about the things that haven't been done" by his GOP successor in the White House. Recalling that he had predicted in 1952 that Montana's Hungry Horse Dam would be "the last one you'll see" if the Republicans won control of the government, he said that prophecy "absolutely came true."

OFF TO THE HUNT—President Eisenhower and his host, George Humphrey, left, look out back of hunting surrey as they head into the field yesterday morning. This was the second time out for the President because of the cold weather since he arrived in the south eight days ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Heart Drive Will Climax Here Sunday

Climaxing the 1958 Heart Fund campaign, more than 700 men and women volunteers in Ouachita parish will call on their neighbors tomorrow for contributions to advance the state and nationwide fight against diseases of the heart and circulation.

Dean William Smith, Heart Fund chairman, and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, in charge of Heart Sunday, said that Heart Fund volunteers wearing special identification badges will stop at homes between 2 and 4 p.m.

Each family will receive an envelope in which the contribution can be sealed. Envelopes will be left for those not at home, and may be mailed to the Ouachita Parish Heart Fund at 124 N. Grand St.

"We are asking the public on Heart Sunday to 'give for every heart you love'," Dean Smith and Mrs. Turpin stated.

More than fifteen thousand volunteers in Louisiana will be included in the million and a half persons throughout the nation who participate in the one-afternoon drive.

This is the fourth year for Monroe to observe Heart Sunday and the third in which the state has participated in the attack against the disease which recently has caused over 47 per cent of all deaths in Louisiana.

Fingerprints Trip Suspect Held Here

Fingerprints checked in Washington by the Federal Bureau of Investigation have revealed a man jailed here on Feb. 5, is wanted in Alabama for grand larceny, City Police said yesterday.

Chief of Police James C. Kelly Jr., identified the man as Kelly Moore Jr., 42, of Jasper, Ala. Kelly said Moore's fingerprints were sent to the FBI as a matter of usual procedure after he was booked here on a vagrancy charge.

The wanted man was lodged in the parish jail to await return to Birmingham.

Nine Are Held In Probe Here

Nine Negro men were arrested here yesterday and police said they recovered a deck of cards during an investigation at 606 Adam St., concerning suspicion of gambling.

All nine of the men were booked for disturbing the peace and placed under $150 bonds, authorities said.

Investigators said that the door to the house was locked and said when the men realized a raid was in process, all tried to escape. Some were routed from under beds and from behind doors, police said.

Seven Negroes were booked for gambling here Sunday night but reported released because of insufficient evidence.

Identified in the 5:25 p.m. arrests were Joseph Loud, 52, 405 Magnolia St.; Alf Meadows, 50, of 207 N. 21st St.; Grant Brackens, 42, of 700 Adams St.; Jay Goldsmith, 59, of 701 Pine St. Mack Hatten, 59, of 505 N. 11th St.; Willie Jackson, 48, of 515 N. 18th St.; Ruben Jenkins, 37, of 716 Breard St.; Percy Lewis, 62, of 606 Adams St. and Floyd York, 36, of 603 Adams St.

Continued Rains Cause Flood And Disaster In Tex.

Several cars were abandoned in San Antonio when they stalled in the high water. The rain slackened Friday, however, after almost 2 inches had fallen in the previous 24 hours.

The international Falcon Dam, between Texas and Mexico, held back more water Friday than at any time since last sumer.

Storage had reached 1,983,000-acre feet and the depth at the dam was 115.15 feet. The Lake Falcon area covers 67,895 acres.

Torrential downpours in South Texas, which unleashed as much as five inches of rain, sent rivers on a rampage and posed flood threats Friday.

The U. S. weather bureau warned of flooding in low areas along the San Miguel and Atascosa Rivers through Saturday. Considerable flooding was expected on the Nueces River below Cotulla to Calallen and on the lower Frio below Derby, Tex.

Ranchers were advised to remove their livestock from lowlands.

Five inches of rain was reported to have fallen in 24 hours seven miles south of Los Angeles, near Cotulla in La Salle county.

Los Angeles itself had 3 inches; Cross 3; Charlotte 3.50; Utopia 1.40; Sabinal 1.22; and Concan 1.50. All are in South Texas.

Miss. Woman Is Free Of Charges

HAZLEHURST, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—Circuit Judge Tom Brady today dismissed charges of murder against Mrs. Theresa Daisy, accused of talking her 11-year-old son into shooting his father to death last summer.

Brady dismissed the charge after defense attorneys objected to testimony by the boy, Leo Daisy.

Defense Atty. W. M. Broome of Crystal Springs objected to Leo's testifying, saying he wanted the boy to plead the fifth amendment.

Last summer, Leo told officers he and his mother waited for Alex Daisy to return home one night.

When Daisy opened the front door to his Crystal Spring home, Leo said, his mother told him to shoot. He did, he said, killing his father.

Hawaii's Mount Waialeale has an average of 489 inches rainfall every year, although the total is only 20 inches a few miles distant.

Junior Hi-Y Council Sets Spring Plans

The Junior Hi-Y Council of the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. has announced plans for special events to be held during the spring season.

A total of seven Junior Hi-Y clubs with a total enrollment of 109 throughout Ouachita Parish were represented at the meeting.

Plans formulated included a trip to Shreveport March 1 to participate in the Louisiana - Mississippi Y. M. C. A. sports festival.

March 22 will mark the annual athletic achievement testing day to be held at Forsythe Park. March 28-29 a camping trip is to be held at Camp Alabama and the Junior Hi-Y clubs are planning a "clean speech" campaign in the schools for the week of April 21-25.

Baton Rouge Fire

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 21 (AP)—A fire in the linen room caused extensive damage at the Alamo Motel early today. Firemen had the blaze under control 18 minutes after it was discovered.

The fire was confined to the linen room and adjoining carport. The cause was undetermined. No injuries were reported.

Services Set For Victim Of Auto Accident

Services for a 47-year-old Fairbanks mother of five who died in an auto crash near here yesterday, are scheduled to be held in the Sterlington Baptist Church tomorrow.

Mrs. Esca Lee Colvin apparently died instantly when her car collided with a vehicle carrying four members of a Negro family, at the intersection of U.S. 165 and State Route 134.

Elbert Stevens, Negro of 911 S. 14th Street Monroe was driving the other car, State Police who investigated said. Stevens was hospitalized here but described his injuries as "minor, just bruises," at St. Francis Hospital last night. He said that his three children were not injured.

Allen Colvin, 18, found the lifeless form of his mother some 40 feet from the point of impact when he arrived on the scene at 7:30 a.m. yesterday. He was returning from an all night job and recognized his mother's car as one he had recently bought, before he noticed his mother.

Enroute to Station

Mrs. Colvin was enroute to United Gas Company's compressor station near Sterlington to inform the men there that her husband was ill and would not be able to report for work. The family had just moved into their present home and telephone service had not been installed.

Mrs. Colvin was a native of Dubach and a member of the Sterlington Baptist Church. For the last five years she was a mem-monstration Club.

ber of the Sterlington Home De-

The Rev. Nelson will officiate at services at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Sterlington Baptist Church, with interment following in the Hamilton Memorial Cemetery at Dubach under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Mrs. Colvin is survived by her husband, Rome Colvin, Sterlington; five children, Roger, with the Air Force in Minnesota; Mrs. Bonnie Kasin, Moorehouse, Minn.; Miss Laree Colvin, Sterlington; Mrs. Letha Cooper, Monroe; Allen Colvin, Sterlington; two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Hardwich, Rayville; Mrs. Eva Green, Shreveport; her mother, Mrs. Essie Horton, Dubach; two brothers, Robert Horton, Dubach; Felix Horton, Shreveport, and two grandchildren.

Leopold Gets Set To Leave

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 21 (AP)—Nathan Leopold will end 33 years of prison life in a few weeks to face this future: He will come into an inheritance, receive annual income from a trust fund and possibly royalties from a book about his life. But he will be bound by stiff parole conditions.

Leopold's relatives set up a $50,000 trust fund for him in 1953. It was created from insurance payments on the death of an older brother. The income, running about $2,000 a year, is to be used for his "general welfare." However, his attorney, Elmer Gertz, says Leopold has no control over the principal or interest.

Leopold, the paroled thrill slayer of young Bobby Franks, also has a legacy from an aunt who died in 1948. It totals between $10,000 and $11,000.

His own story of his life, "Life Plus Ninety-Nine Years" is to be published soon in book form.

No Marriage

But under terms of his five-year parole, Leopold can't get married or own or drive a car, without permission of the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board.

He will be forbidden to drink liquor, carry weapons or associate with persons with criminal records.

He cannot remain away from his home later than 10:30 p.m. without permission.

He also will be required to submit written monthly reports, stating the number of days he worked and the amount of money earned.

Leopold was granted a five-year parole yesterday from original sentences of life and 99 years for his part in the 1924 kidnaping and slaying of the 14-year-old Franks boy.

Five Job Offers

Leopold has five offers of employment. He has expressed preference for a job offered as laboratory technician in a rural hospital operated by the Church of the Brethern in Castaper, Puerto Rico. The job pays $10 a month, plus room and board.

The other offers came from a Chicago book store, a clothing manufacturing firm in New York City and medical laboratories in California and Honolulu. Parole Board members did not identify the prospective employers further.

Members of the five-man parole board will make the choice of his job, after investigation. He will be released when this is done.

Illinois has a parole agreement with Puerto Rico. If he is permitted to take the hospital job there, he will be under direct supervision of Puerto Rican parole authorities, who in turn would keep th Illinois board informed.

Leopold worked without pay as a prison teacher and administrative clerk during his 33 years in the state penitentiary. He passed up a prison industrial job that would have paid him a small salary.

Leopold has expressed a desire to devote his remaining years to "a life of service" to his fellow man.

Negro Sentenced On Charge

T. J. Franklin, 31 - year - old Negro was sentenced to a year in city jail here yesterday for illegal use of weapons after being acquitted by jury trial of attempted murder here Monday.

Franklin, of 1011½ Rear Washington St., appeared in Fourth District Court here for the alleged shooting of Levi Gilliam here on last November 9, but was acquitted. City authorities booked Franklin Monday on the weapon charge shortly after the jury found him not guilty.

City Court

WEST MONROE

Two persons forfeited bond yesterday when West Monroe City Court met.

One person forfeited $5.50 on a charge of running a red light, and the other forfeited $20.50 on a speeding charge.

MONROE

The following cases were heard in Monroe City Court here yesterday with Judge W. M. Harper, presiding.

Jimmie Goodjoint, 38, of 509 N. 12th St. was fined $350 for illegal use of weapons, records showed.

In other action five persons paid $172.50 in fines on charges of reckless driving, drunkenness, or disregarding stop signs. Six persons drew sentences of $25 or 25 days on charges of drunkenness or reckless driving.

Whaling is Antarctica's only industry, the National Geographic Magazine says. Whales and a few species of seals abound in the polar waters. The fur seal, however, is practically extinct due to man's relentless slaughter.

CALLED 'HOOVER-LIKE'

Ike's Economy Approach Hit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Democrats whipped up an attack today on what they called President Eisenhower's "Hoover-like approach" to unemployment and other recession problems.

With former President Truman assailing Eisenhower in two speeches elsewhere in Washington, the Democratic National Committee unanimously adopted a resolution condemning what it called the administration's delay in moving to combat "the depression now gripping the country."

"We condemn the Hoover-like approach of the President to this problem," the resolution said. "It is a disgrace to a free society to follow a policy which tells the five million involuntary recruits in the Eisenhower-Nixon army of the unemployed to wait six months and things may be better —and that prosperity is just around the corner.

First-Hand Knowledge

"We members of the Democratic National Committee can testify from first-hand knowledge to the depressed economic conditions in our states. And we herewith assure our elected Democratic officials in the states and in the Congress of our wholehearted support in their fearless efforts to relieve the suffering of our unemployed, our farmers, our consumers and our small businessmen."

Truman, warming up for a "give 'em hell" speech at a party rally here tomorrow night, unloosed several shafts at Eisenhower in two appearances.

He told a luncheon of the Reserve Officers Assn. there isn't room in the Defense Department for rivalry which permits the individual armed services to "cut each other's throats."

"They'll cooperate to a certain extent when they have a commander in chief who will make them do it," he said.

Truman said he favors a unified command under a central authority in the Pentagon one of the proposals before Eisenhower in his current study of Defense Department reorganization plans.

Truman told the Electric Consumers Information Committee that he could talk for hours "about the things that haven't been done" by his GOP successor in the White House. Recalling that he had predicted in 1952 that Montana's Hungry Horse Dam would be "the last one you'll see" if the Republicans won control of the government, he said that prophecy "absolutely came true."

OFF TO THE HUNT—President Eisenhower and his host, George Humphrey, left, look out back of hunting surrey as they head into the field yesterday morning. This was the second time out for the President because of the cold weather since he arrived in the south eight days ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Heart Drive Will Climax Here Sunday

Climaxing the 1958 Heart Fund campaign, more than 700 men and women volunteers in Ouachita parish will call on their neighbors tomorrow for contributions to advance the state and nationwide fight against diseases of the heart and circulation.

Dean William Smith, Heart Fund chairman, and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, in charge of Heart Sunday, said that Heart Fund volunteers wearing special identification badges will stop at homes between 2 and 4 p.m.

Each family will receive an envelope in which the contribution can be sealed. Envelopes will be left for those not at home, and may be mailed to the Ouachita Parish Heart Fund at 124 N. Grand St.

"We are asking the public on Heart Sunday to 'give for every heart you love'," Dean Smith and Mrs. Turpin stated.

More than fifteen thousand volunteers in Louisiana will be included in the million and a half persons throughout the nation who participate in the one-afternoon drive.

This is the fourth year for Monroe to observe Heart Sunday and the third in which the state has participated in the attack against the disease which recently has caused over 47 per cent of all deaths in Louisiana.

Fingerprints Trip Suspect Held Here

Fingerprints checked in Washington by the Federal Bureau of Investigation have revealed a man jailed here on Feb. 5, is wanted in Alabama for grand larceny, City Police said yesterday.

Chief of Police James C. Kelly Jr., identified the man as Kelly Moore Jr., 42, of Jasper, Ala. Kelly said Moore's fingerprints were sent to the FBI as a matter of usual procedure after he was booked here on a vagrancy charge.

The wanted man was lodged in the parish jail to await return to Birmingham.

Continued Rains Cause Flood And Disaster In Tex.

Several cars were abandoned in San Antonio when they stalled in the high water. The rain slackened Friday, however, after almost 2 inches had fallen in the previous 24 hours.

The international Falcon Dam, between Texas and Mexico, held back more water Friday than at any time since last sumer.

Storage had reached 1,983,000-acre feet and the depth at the dam was 115.15 feet. The Lake Falcon area covers 67,895 acres.

Torrential downpours in South Texas, which unleashed as much as five inches of rain, sent rivers on a rampage and posed flood threats Friday.

Los Angeles itself had 3 inches; Cross 3; Charlotte 3.50; Utopia 1.40; Sabinal 1.22; and Concan 1.50. All are in South Texas.

Nine Are Held In Probe Here

Nine Negro men were arrested here yesterday and police said they recovered a deck of cards during an investigation at 606 Adam St., concerning suspicion of gambling.

All nine of the men were booked for disturbing the peace and placed under $150 bonds, authorities said.

Investigators said that the door to the house was locked and said when the men realized a raid was in process, all tried to escape. Some were routed from under beds and from behind doors, police said.

Seven Negroes were booked for gambling here Sunday night but reported released because of insufficient evidence.

Identified in the 5:25 p.m. arrests were Joseph Loud, 52, 405 Magnolia St.; Alf Meadows, 50, of 207 N. 21st St.; Grant Brackens, 42, of 700 Adams St.; Jay Goldsmith, 59, of 701 Pine St. Mack Hatten, 59, of 505 N. 11th St.; Willie Jackson, 48, of 515 N. 18th St.; Ruben Jenkins, 37, of 716 Breard St.; Percy Lewis, 62, of 606 Adams St. and Floyd York, 36, of 603 Adams St.

Flood Of Gold

The federal government of the United States is getting ready to release a veritable flood of gold in order to turn the tide away from an economic recession that has been building up for a good many months. Both congress and the national administration are willing to go all out if necessary.

Here are some of the things that have already been set in motion or will be on their way soon:

The government has released up to three billion new dollars to U. S. banks to enable them to take steps necessary to uphold the economy.

Vast highway construction projects will be speeded up as much as possible.

Small businessmen in Louisiana, the lower Mississippi valley and throughout the nation will soon be in a position to receive "some effective financial assistance" through the Small Business administration.

More money for the farmers will be available, either through loans or soil bank payments.

Persons who have lost or will lose their jobs as a result of lay-offs caused by the recession and who, as a result, are unable to meet payments on loans at banks, will be able to work out arrangements with the banks whereby payment on the loans can be postponed until the workers have returned to their jobs or have found new employment.

The federal "tight money" policy has been abandoned and federal reserve requirements of the 6,400 member banks have been cut by $500 million.

The structure of the American banking system will permit the banks to multiply the dollars freed by the reserve board as many as six times in new loans. This means that up to three billion dollars in new money will be available by the end of February for businessmen who want to start new ventures or build new factories or for families who want to buy or build new homes.

Credit of all kinds will be far easier, thus making it easier to buy automobiles, farm equipment, household entertainment and musical facilities and home appliances of all kinds.

Bankers, with government support, are committed to a policy of easing the burdens of any borrower who falls into a financial trap because of sudden misfortune, through the loss of a job, staggering medical bills and other kinds of disasters. The bankers have emphasized that the era of quick repossessions when loan payments are overdue has been abandoned.

Financial burdens of all kinds suffered by reliable, responsible people who have met with misfortune for which they are not to blame will find their predicament less desperate than they expected.

Bankers, economists, congressmen, the national administration and businessmen believe the program will be effective and that within three months the economic swing will be upward and that another long period of prosperity will be assured.

Healthy Monroe Area

Unusually cold weather for almost two weeks has been accompanied by the usual number of cases of colds and various forms of influenza in the Monroe trade area but a weekly report issued by the Louisiana state department of public health showed the 16-parish area to be almost entirely free of new cases of the 19 diseases listed in the report. This is gratifying in that it indicates that northeast Louisiana may be one of the healthiest areas of the state.

In the whole state of Louisiana there were 78 new cases of cancer during the week, compared to 58 the week before and 464 for the year. There were 24 new cases of tuberculosis, compared with 26 the week before and 146 for the year. In the state, there were no new cases of polio for the week, compared with one for the week before and four for the year.

In the 16 northeast Louisiana parishes, there were no new cases of cancer, tuberculosis or polio. In fact, the only new case of any kind listed in this entire area was one case of typhoid fever in Richland parish. Parishes included in the area are Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, East Carroll, Franklin, Grant, Jackson, LaSalle, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, Union and West Carroll.

Several things shown in the report seem to be worthy of comment.

Although this is the time of year when polio is usually at a low level, it is nevertheless gratifying that not a single case was reported in the state for the week. This seems to indicate that the Salk vaccine is still proving effective in helping to stamp out this disease.

Heart trouble is not included in the list, since it is considered more of a condition than a disease. This leaves cancer, with 464 cases for the year, and tuberculosis, with 146 cases, far out ahead of any other ailments in number of cases reported.

Tuberculosis is now largely curable or "arrestable" and this leaves cancer as the paramount menace to the health and lives of the people of this state, as well as other states. The significance of this report points up the great need for a specific cure for cancer and gives all the more reason to hope that long-prophesied cures may soon materialize.

Senator Russell Reported Considering Retirement

RUSSELL MAY RETIRE — Friends of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia say he is seriously considering following his strong conservative friend, Senator Harry F. Byrd into retirement. Russell who proceeded Byrd into the Senate by only seven weeks in 1933, will finish his present term on January, 1961.

DISCONSOLATE BROODING — Republican Washington bigwigs who fared forth to address party Lincoln Day dinners faced audiences which displayed a lack of fighting spirit and a general resignation to defeat in November, which could be a rout. A concensus was that discouragement in G. O. P. would be a lift in business — and feeling was that it would have to be a big lift.

TEXAS GAS FIASCO — Longest faces in Washington were around the Republican National Committee when it became convinced it should not accept the $100,000 raised at the Houston dinner Monday because of the gas bill letter written by Texas National Committeeman Jack Porter. With prospects of electing candidates in November dark, G. O. P. is hard put to get necessary funds. Not only did it lose the $100,000 already in hand; it is being told that it can expect no help from its erstwhile fertile Texas money field this fall, or in 1960.

CAN TEXANS AND EX-TEXANS AGREE? — Any general Republican program to fight the recession will, in the final analysis, be decided by two ex-Texans, President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson. The Democratic program will be the handiwork of Texans Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn. Any Republican program would have to make concessions to obtain Congressional approval and any Democratic plan would have to yield to Administration wishes on some points to escape a presidential veto.

TROOPS TO STAY ON — White House is just about reconciled that it can find no way of getting off the hook at Little Rock and will have to keep troops there the more than three months remaining of this school term. What to do about the new term in September? General feeling in administration is that if there are more incidents there may be another court order and then a presidential decision on sending troops again. And that would be just two months before important off - year elections.

SENATE WON'T TACKLE IT— You can put it down as final that the Senate will not take up the investigation of the Federal Communications Commission, which is now fated to fizzle in the House of Representatives, House will continue pretense of investigation until too late for Senate to act, even if a majority of that body wanted to, which it does not. Best rags to riches story in nation, the bonanza of tree television channel grants, will remain untold.

ALASKA MAY DIVIDE — Democrats are not so certain as they once were that they can elect both Senators from Alaska if it becomes the newest and largest (in area) of the States. Each party may elect one. Furthermore, there is a bi - partisan agreement not to recognize the Tennessee plan (election of Senators before statehood) for Alaska if it becomes the 49th State.

IVES MAY QUIT — New York Republicans would not now be surprised if Senator Irving M. Ives who has blown hot and cold on running for his third term were to bow out. If he does they will make a strong and probably futile effort to get former Governor Thomas E. Dewey to become their Senatorial candidate.

LEN WANTS SHOWDOWN — Friends of Leonord W. Hall, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, say that Eisenhower Republicans in New York state are treating him as the party's forgotten man despite the fact that President Eisenhower said a year ago he would like to see Hall governor of New York. Hall is described as wanting a quick show down, believing that if the Republican gubernatorial situation continues to drift no G. O. P. candidate will be able to head off Harriman in November.

The Weather Seems About The Same All Over

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Peace By Surrender Is Not Objective Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The late Senator Robert Taft once pointed out that American liberty, and not the fugitive butterfly called international "peace," is the proper concern of United States foreign policy.

Isn't that what so many statesmen are saying now?

Secretary Dulles came, three weeks ago, to make a luncheon speech at the National Press Club, the Waterloo of many a would-be Napoleon over world affairs. But Mr. Dulles stuck to his knife and fork, keeping his foot firmly out of his mouth, and many newsmen who had come to jeer remained to praise. The gist of the Secretary's remarks on the all-important Summit Conference question was: "Get thee behind me, Khrushchev." The Secretary was not seeking "peace," he told us, at the price of surrender.

Senator Bridges a week or so afterwards went to the defense of Mr. Dulles whom Senate Democrats were taunting as "inflexible" and "unimaginative" in the business of peace-mongering with the Kremlin Senator Bridges, Senior Republican of the upper chamber and a bearer of the Taft tradition, pommeled the Democrats and lauded Mr. Dulles "because he insists on safeguards that will protect this nation's survival and because he refuses to be caught in any Russian bear traps."

Practically every Republican on the floor congratulated the Bridges' speech, which was to be expected; but the Acting Democratic floor-leader, Senator Mike Mansfield, also got in on the act, saying:

"I wish to commend the distinguished Senator from New Hampshire on his position in relation to meetings held at the Summit. I think he is absolutely right."

Today there is, in almost every place except the White House, a determination to give the old cliches about "peace" some second, sober thinking. Three times in this century we have made war in the name of "peace," and at the Geneva Conference in 1955 there was enough grinning and cocktail - toasting to make life forever beautiful in technicolor. There is this re-evaluation taking place:

What's a foreign policy for? Is it for the purpose of trying to bestow upon mankind the heavenly blessing called "peace" — the goal and promise of all religions? Or is it primarily to preserve the sovereignty of the USA? The search for "peace" is primarily one that is undertaken by saints and Messiahs, and it pertains to life after death. But the matter of national sovereignty, with all the freedoms guaranteed in the American Constitution, is something for the living generations — ourselves and our posterity.

The White House, not being a place where ideas are so freely exchanged and debated, is still optimistically inclined toward a Summit meeting. Mr. Eisenhower's well-known preoccupation with peacemaking has become a sense of dedication, not to say of destiny. He would not want his Presidential term — much less his mortal life — to end without exhausting every possibility of getting a net over the elusive gleam called international "peace."

In truth, the President is out of harmony with his party leaders. But this opinional tug o' war is not necessarily a bad thing. We have had Presidents, like Wilson and the two Roosevelts, who made foreign policy and then demanded that the rest of the nation fall in line with it. Mr. Eisenhower, although a military man, is not the kind of President that is admiringly called "strong" meaning bull-headed. He is going to try for "peace." He could very well bring off some sort of closely-supervised world - armistice. But if he does, he will find the Congressional leaders determined as never before to check the final decisions.

The Taft influence cannot be overlooked. Senator Taft's last speech of any consequence was written from a Cincinnati hospital bed and delivered for the Senator by his son to a home-town audience. It was the speech which many newspapers boiled down to three words — "Go it alone." The Senator did not use those words, but the idea of giving a priority of purpose to American sovereignty and of withdrawing our misplaced faith in "peace" through collective security was at the heart of it.

This same idea is at the heart of Congressional thinking today. And perhaps it can be said, in all respect to both the living and the dead, that if President Eisenhower does go to the Summit, his "prime minister" will be at his elbow to see that things do not go wholly wrong.

Revives Argument On Wearing Shoes

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FEET AND ALCOHOL

A 65 YEAR OLD Palos Park, Ill., man has revived an old argument on shoes.

"We were a million years developing our feet before some jerk put his feet into those heeled, hard - soled abominations and now the rest of us think we have to imitate him and ruin our feet."

This man believes he has avoided corns, calluses, bunions, and fallen arches by buying shoes about two sizes larger, leaving his feet free to move around, and giving the muscles a chance to do some work. He can't wait to get out of his shoes at night and get into moccasins, or go barefooted.

He is a slight man accustomed to walking long distances, usually in the country. He has kept his feet strong and cannot be blamed for wanting to walk barefooted or in moccasins. But the majority of adults do not have such excellent feet and make no attempt to strengthen the arches. Many have worn shoes that fit too tightly and most of us need the protection of shoes against hard floors, not to mention cold weather.

A constant reader from Winnetka, Ill., read our question and answer about the use of brandy for a cold. "By a strange coincidence, I soon contracted a honey of a cold and thought at once of brandy. I must admit it did not effect a cure but I didn't mind the cold nearly as much."

For the record, I did not recommend brandy for colds but said some persons use the infection as an alibi for taking a nip or two. Alcohol increases nasal congestion but improves the feeling of wellbeing, especially when the individual feels chilly or is too miserable to relax or sleep.

Another reader has something to say about alcohol.

"If you refer in your article to Dr. B.'s paper on cigarettes, alcohol, and longevity, note that the drinker who took just a couple a day was in better physical condition than the nondrinker and outlived him."

Look hard enough and you can find approval for anything you want to do. The article in question neither condemned nor praised the ordinary drinker. It told what happened to those who overindulged.

TOMORROW: Emotional maturity.

GERMAN MEASLES

Mrs. L. K. writes: Is there any vaccine that can be given a pregnant woman who has been exposed to German measles? She never had this disease.

REPLY

Gamma globulin or small amounts of pooled adult serum, given within the first seven or eight days after exposure, may offer complete protection or modify the disease should it develop.

CORONARY AND CHOLESTEROL

J. H. writes: Can a heart attack be induced deliberately by raising the cholesterol level of the blood?

REPLY

No. Many individuals who have had a coronary attack have an elevated cholesterol content of the blood. Other victims have had a normal level of this fatty substance. In this respect, cholesterol is not the answer to the coronary problem.

NAILS AND HEREDITY

C. S. Writes: My father had horny toenails and now I'm getting them. Are they inherited?

REPLY

The only horns that are inherited are those that develop on deer, goats, gnus, and allied animals. Thickened and horny toenails usually come with age, more so when the circulation to the lower extremities is not what it used to be. The condition can be controled with care.

OVARIAN CYST

F. D. writes: What is a chocolate tumor?

REPLY

BEST FOOT FORWARD

STAVELY, England (UP) — There's no telling what kind of a performance star soccer centerforward Arthur Griffiths would have given if he had been properly shod at a youth club soccer match here. Even wearing two left boots, which he brought by mistake to the locker room, he scored seven goals.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Tragic Mistake Narrowly Missed

Nora wants to know how to distinguish between mad infatuation and true love, since both give you heart throbs and butterflies in your stomach. So use the yardstick below. For true love is noble and angelic, whereas infatuation is selfish and demanding.

Case X-336: Nora N., aged 18, is now a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane, a year ago you helped me through a crisis," she began, as I met her following an address I had delivered before her college connocation.

"You saved my happiness by showing me the hazards of letting my high school boy friend persuade me into indulging in an illicit affair.

"Afterwards, he apologized and we became friends once more. I even had a few more dates with him before graduation.

"But since then our paths have parted, for I came on to this college and he went to another.

"Now I do not feel romantic about him at all. So I narrowly missed making a tragic mistake.

"But how can a person who is romantically intoxicated, as I was at that time, be sure whether it is true love or just a passing infatuation?"

True Love or Infatuation

Nora has asked a very good question, for you get palpitations and goose pimples and butterflies in your stomach with BOTH true love, as well as temporary infatuation.

"Dr. Crane, I just KNOW it is true love," many infatuated girls have protested to me, although their friends and parents could plainly see that it was NOT a matter of true love.

King David's son Amnon also vowed he loved Tamar, but it turned out to be nothing but a selfish sexual infatuation (II Samuel, Ch. 13).

When you are apparently head over heels in love, therefore, how can you test yourself and be sure?

Well, true love is basically unselfish. In it, the lovers are so concerned with the future happiness of the other party that they will actually step out of the picture if it definitely looks best for their sweetheart's ultimate good.

Dickens depicts such a case of true love in Sidney Carlton, who finally realized that his sweetheart was not in love with him. So Sidney Carlton even disguised himself and went to the guillotine to save the man whom his girl friend really wanted to marry.

True love thus has an element of nobility and self-sacrifice in it. To this degree, it partakes of God and is a divine emotion.

But infatuation is mainly a selfish and largely sexual attraction. It is a devilish emotion, and produces much of the tears and heart ache in the world.

Test Your Love

All the external yardsticks of human experience show that premarital sexual affairs are disastrous, for they definitely violate the inexorable yardstick of moral goodness, which states:

"That which does the most good for the most people for the longest period of time," is right and just.

Please remember that final "For the longest period of time." Russia decided in 1917 that looting the Czar's palace and taking all the possessions of the white collar classes, would do the most good for the most people.

But soon it was apparent that Russia couldn't be strong without doctors and engineers and scientists and business executives to direct the illiterate masses of the Soviet Union.

Belatedly, therefore, Russ a bribed American engineers and executives to come back into Russia to help rebuild her industry.

And so it is in love affairs. Under a romantic moon, and with some liquor in your stomach, you may foolishly confuse sex with love.

But look far ahead and avoid succumbing to selfish sexual infatuation that breaks the hearts of your doting parents and launches your baby into life with an unwed mother.

So send for my frank boklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return enveloped, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Rebellious Youth Real U.S. Issue

The real news of the day is our children. Jordan and Iraq, Nasser and Yeme. Khruschev and Zhukov may make the headlines, but the gang wars and the duck-tail hairdos for boys and the sloppy shoes for girls and other manifestations of rebellious youth are our immediate problem.

Why do young people organize into gangs? They always did, whether you call them gangs, groups, cliques, teams. The name does not change the fact that children do not like to be alone unless there is something wrong with them. There is warmth and security in group play and group associations. Also children like to do things. They dislike doing nothing. Organize a school band and there is a combination of being in a crowd and doing something. Organize a debating club, a glee club, any kind of group with something to do and youngsters will flock to it, particularly if they can run the show themselves. An adult adviser or consultant or moderator or whatever you call him has to be careful not to become a papa to the boys and girls; they have enough of papa at home.

The gangs of a city like New York are brilliantly organized. They are attempts at self-government. They are protected by self-imposed discipline and the boys and girls make an ideal of personal physical heroism. They could become socially useful organizations if properly directed. Children are lacking in restraints; they say more than they mean; they go too far, as the expression is. They could be diverted into fine play organizations if there were proper guidance and proper facilities. I say this from experience, because in my childhood we, on the East Side of New York, went through exactly the same situations that now face the Negro and Puerto Rican children of New York. Society has excluded them; they make their own society.

The public school is an insufficient agency to assimilate this new population into existent society. The public school cannot even recognize that it faces a racial problem without having all the bleeding-hearts and pressure groups fighting against acknowledging a racial discrimination which is real because it exists, just as religious discrimination is real wherever it exists.

The teen-age gangs that are discussed with so much fear in the large cities are mainly gangs of Negro and Puerto Rican children. However, the basic problem is not racial, but the broken home. The broken home presents a myriad of problems for the child who needs to build itself around some rallying post other than parents. Where there are two sets of parents, or three sets, where children are the products of multimarriages, so that three or four half sisters and half brothers or stepsisters and stepbrothers are living under one roof, no child quite understands all the complex relationships. This is particularly so when visiting time comes and the child has to spend a number of days, specified by a court, with another set of parents, a different environment. The child makes comparisons, most of which end up as unfavorable to all parents.

A child does not need to be poor to feel friendless. The poor, in fact, are better off than the rich because they gang up and if the gang does not go in for heroin or marijuana and does not get into murderous fights, they can have fun without going to jail. The rich kid is protected by artificial devices such as governesses, nurses, boarding schools, none of which answer the longing for love, to be wanted, to be included.

It is too easy to say that the kid is a rotten egg. Who made the child a rotten egg? What did it? What are the forces that turn an ordinary boy into a murderer? What are the disillusionments that make a girl a tough, mean-spoken gangster's moll? One does not need to be a bleeding-heart to recognize that the poison is in the loveless home, the quarrelsome home, the brutal home.

It is a problem which is not too easy to approach, almost impossible to solve. It involves more than education; it involves assimilation, an absorption of unwanted but not necessarily undesirable elements in a society which has set up barriers, no matter how disguised, against these elements.

Flood Of Gold

The federal government of the United States is getting ready to release a veritable flood of gold in order to turn the tide away from an economic recession that has been building up for a good many months. Both congress and the national administration are willing to go all out if necessary.

Here are some of the things that have already been set in motion or will be on their way soon:

The government has released up to three billion new dollars to U. S. banks to enable them to take steps necessary to uphold the economy.

Vast highway construction projects will be speeded up as much as possible.

Small businessmen in Louisiana, the lower Mississippi valley and throughout the nation will soon be in a position to receive "some effective financial assistance" through the Small Business administration.

More money for the farmers will be available, either through loans or soil bank payments.

Persons who have lost or will lose their jobs as a result of lay-offs caused by the recession and who, as a result, are unable to meet payments on loans at banks, will be able to work out arrangements with the banks whereby payment on the loans can be postponed until the workers have returned to their jobs or have found new employment.

The federal "tight money" policy has been abandoned and federal reserve requirements of the 6,400 member banks have been cut by $500 million.

The structure of the American banking system will permit the banks to multiply the dollars freed by the reserve board as many as six times in new loans. This means that up to three billion dollars in new money will be available by the end of February for businessmen who want to start new ventures or build new factories or for families who want to buy or build new homes.

Credit of all kinds will be far easier, thus making it easier to buy automobiles, farm equipment, household entertainment and musical facilities and home appliances of all kinds.

Bankers, with government support, are committed to a policy of easing the burdens of any borrower who falls into a financial trap because of sudden misfortune, through the loss of a job, staggering medical bills and other kinds of disasters. The bankers have emphasized that the era of quick repossessions when loan payments are overdue has been abandoned.

Financial burdens of all kinds suffered by reliable, responsible people who have met with misfortune for which they are not to blame will find their predicament less desperate than they expected.

Bankers, economists, congressmen, the national administration and businessmen believe the program will be effective and that within three months the economic swing will be upward and that another long period of prosperity will be assured.

Healthy Monroe Area

Unusually cold weather for almost two weeks has been accompanied by the usual number of cases of colds and various forms of influenza in the Monroe trade area but a weekly report issued by the Louisiana state department of public health showed the 16-parish area to be almost entirely free of new cases of the 19 diseases listed in the report. This is gratifying in that it indicates that northeast Louisiana may be one of the healthiest areas of the state.

In the whole state of Louisiana there were 78 new cases of cancer during the week, compared to 58 the week before and 464 for the year. There were 24 new cases of tuberculosis, compared with 26 the week before and 146 for the year. We have had Presidents, like Wilson and the two Roosevelts, who made foreign policy and then demanded that the rest of the nation fall in line with it. Mr. Eisenhower, although a military man, is not the kind of President that is admiringly called "strong" meaning bull-headed. He is going to try for "peace." He could very well bring off some sort of closely-supervised world - armistice. But if he does, he will find the Congressional leaders determined as never before to check the final decisions.

The Taft influence cannot be overlooked. Senator Taft's last speech of any consequence was written from a Cincinnati hospital bed and delivered for the Senator by his son to a home-town audience. It was the speech which many newspapers boiled down to three words — "Go it alone." The Senator did not use those words, but the idea of giving a priority of purpose to American sovereignty and of withdrawing our misplaced faith in "peace" through collective security was at the heart of it.

This same idea is at the heart of Congressional thinking today. And perhaps it can be said, in all respect to both the living and the dead, that if President Eisenhower does go to the Summit, his "prime minister" will be at his elbow to see that things do not go wholly wrong.

Revives Argument On Wearing Shoes

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

FEET AND ALCOHOL

A 65 YEAR OLD Palos Park, Ill., man has revived an old argument on shoes.

"We were a million years developing our feet before some jerk put his feet into those heeled, hard - soled abominations and now the rest of us think we have to imitate him and ruin our feet."

This man believes he has avoided corns, calluses, bunions, and fallen arches by buying shoes about two sizes larger, leaving his feet free to move around, and giving the muscles a chance to do some work. He can't wait to get out of his shoes at night and get into moccasins, or go barefooted.

He is a slight man accustomed to walking long distances, usually in the country. He has kept his feet strong and cannot be blamed for wanting to walk barefooted or in moccasins. But the majority of adults do not have such excellent feet and make no attempt to strengthen the arches. Many have worn shoes that fit too tightly and most of us need the protection of shoes against hard floors, not to mention cold weather.

A constant reader from Winnetka, Ill., read our question and answer about the use of brandy for a cold. "By a strange coincidence, I soon contracted a honey of a cold and thought at once of brandy. I must admit it did not effect a cure but I didn't mind the cold nearly as much."

For the record, I did not recommend brandy for colds but said some persons use the infection as an alibi for taking a nip or two. Alcohol increases nasal congestion but improves the feeling of well-being, especially when the individual feels chilly or is too miserable to relax or sleep.

Another reader has something to say about alcohol.

"If you refer in your article to Dr. B.'s paper on cigarettes, alcohol, and longevity, note that the drinker who took just a couple a day was in better physical condition than the nondrinker and outlived him."

Look hard enough and you can find approval for anything you want to do. The article in question neither condemned nor praised the ordinary drinker. It told what happened to those who overindulged.

TOMORROW: Emotional maturity.

GERMAN MEASLES

Mrs. L. K. writes: Is there any vaccine that can be given a pregnant woman who has been exposed to German measles? She never had this disease.

REPLY

Gamma globulin or small amounts of pooled adult serum, given within the first seven or eight days after exposure, may offer complete protection or modify the disease should it develop.

CORONARY AND CHOLESTEROL

J. H. writes: Can a heart attack be induced deliberately by raising the cholesterol level of the blood?

REPLY

No. Many individuals who have had a coronary attack have an elevated cholesterol content of the blood. Other victims have had a normal level of this fatty substance. In this respect, cholesterol is not the answer to the coronary problem.

NAILS AND HEREDITY

C. S. Writes: My father had horny toenails and now I'm getting them. Are they inherited?

REPLY

The only horns that are inherited are those that develop on deer, goats, gnus, and allied animals. Thickened and horny toenails usually come with age, more so when the circulation to the lower extremities is not what it used to be. The condition can be controled with care.

OVARIAN CYST

F. D. writes: What is a chocolate tumor?

REPLY

BEST FOOT FORWARD

STAVELY, England (UP) — There's no telling what kind of a performance star soccer centerforward Arthur Griffiths would have given if he had been properly shod at a youth club soccer match here. Even wearing two left boots, which he brought by mistake to the locker room, he scored seven goals.

DR. CRANE SAYS

Tragic Mistake Narrowly Missed

Nora wants to know how to distinguish between mad infatuation and true love, since both give you heart throbs and butterflies in your stomach. So use the yardstick below. For true love is noble and angelic, whereas infatuation is selfish and demanding.

Case X-336: Nora N., aged 18, is now a college freshman.

"Dr. Crane, a year ago you helped me through a crisis," she began, as I met her following an address I had delivered before her college connocation.

"You saved my happiness by showing me the hazards of letting my high school boy friend persuade me into indulging in an illicit affair.

"Afterwards, he apologized and we became friends once more. I even had a few more dates with him before graduation.

"But since then our paths have parted, for I came on to this college and he went to another.

"Now I do not feel romantic about him at all. So I narrowly missed making a tragic mistake.

"But how can a person who is romantically intoxicated, as I was at that time, be sure whether it is true love or just a passing infatuation?"

True Love or Infatuation

Nora has asked a very good question, for you get palpitations and goose pimples and butterflies in your stomach with BOTH true love, as well as temporary infatuation.

"Dr. Crane, I just KNOW it is true love," many infatuated girls have protested to me, although their friends and parents could plainly see that it was NOT a matter of true love.

King David's son Amnon also vowed he loved Tamar, but it turned out to be nothing but a selfish sexual infatuation (II Samuel, Ch. 13).

When you are apparently head over heels in love, therefore, how can you test yourself and be sure?

Well, true love is basically unselfish. In it, the lovers are so concerned with the future happiness of the other party that they will actually step out of the picture if it definitely looks best for their sweetheart's ultimate good.

Dickens depicts such a case of true love in Sidney Carlton, who finally realized that his sweetheart was not in love with him. So Sidney Carlton even disguised himself and went to the guillotine to save the man whom his girl friend really wanted to marry.

True love thus has an element of nobility and self-sacrifice in it. To this degree, it partakes of God and is a divine emotion.

But infatuation is mainly a selfish and largely sexual attraction. It is a devilish emotion, and produces much of the tears and heart ache in the world.

Test Your Love

All the external yardsticks of human experience show that premarital sexual affairs are disastrous, for they definitely violate the inexorable yardstick of moral goodness, which states:

"That which does the most good for the most people for the longest period of time," is right and just.

Please remember that final "For the longest period of time." Russia decided in 1917 that looting the Czar's palace and taking all the possessions of the white collar classes, would do the most good for the most people.

But soon it was apparent that Russia couldn't be strong without doctors and engineers and scientists and business executives to direct the illiterate masses of the Soviet Union.

Belatedly, therefore, Russia bribed American engineers and executives to come back into Russia to help rebuild her industry.

And so it is in love affairs. Under a romantic moon, and with some liquor in your stomach, you may foolishly confuse sex with love.

But look far ahead and avoid succumbing to selfish sexual infatuation that breaks the hearts of your doting parents and launches your baby into life with an unwed mother.

So send for my frank boklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a stamped return enveloped, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Rebellious Youth Real U.S. Issue

The real news of the day is our children. Jordan and Iraq, Nasser and Yeme. Khruschev and Zhukov may make the headlines, but the gang wars and the ducktail hairdos for boys and the sloppy shoes for girls and other manifestations of rebellious youth are our immediate problem.

Why do young people organize into gangs? They always did, whether you call them gangs, groups, cliques, teams. The name does not change the fact that children do not like to be alone unless there is something wrong with them. There is warmth and security in group play and group associations. Also children like to do things. They dislike doing nothing. Organize a school band and there is a combination of being in a crowd and doing something. Organize a debating club, a glee club, any kind of group with something to do and youngsters will flock to it, particularly if they can run the show themselves. An adult adviser or consultant or moderator or whatever you call him has to be careful not to become a papa to the boys and girls; they have enough of papa at home.

The gangs of a city like New York are brilliantly organized. They are attempts at self-government. They are protected by self-imposed discipline and the boys and girls make an ideal of personal physical heroism. They could become socially useful organizations if properly directed. Children are lacking in restraints; they say more than they mean; they go too far, as the expression is. They could be diverted into fine play organizations if there were proper guidance and proper facilities. I say this from experience, because in my childhood we, on the East Side of New York, went through exactly the same situations that now face the Negro and Puerto Rican children of New York. Society has excluded them; they make their own society.

The public school is an insufficient agency to assimilate this new population into existent society. The public school cannot even recognize that it faces a racial problem without having all the bleeding-hearts and pressure groups fighting against acknowledging a racial discrimination which is real because it exists, just as religious discrimination is real wherever it exists.

The teen-age gangs that are discussed with so much fear in the large cities are mainly gangs of Negro and Puerto Rican children. However, the basic problem is not racial, but the broken home. The broken home presents a myriad of problems for the child who needs to build itself around some rallying post other than parents. Where there are two sets of parents, or three sets, where children are the products of multimarriages, so that three or four half sisters and half brothers or stepsisters and stepbrothers are living under one roof, no child quite understands all the complex relationships. This is particularly so when visiting time comes and the child has to spend a number of days, specified by a court, with another set of parents, a different environment. The child makes comparisons, most of which end up as unfavorable to all parents.

A child does not need to be poor to feel friendless. The poor, in fact, are better off than the rich because they gang up and if the gang does not go in for heroin or marijuana and does not get into murderous fights, they can have fun without going to jail. The rich kid is protected by artificial devices such as governesses, nurses, boarding schools, none of which answer the longing for love, to be wanted, to be included.

It is too easy to say that the kid is a rotten egg. Who made the child a rotten egg? What did it? What are the forces that turn an ordinary boy into a murderer? What are the disillusionments that make a girl a tough, mean-spoken gangster's moll? One does not need to be a bleeding-heart to recognize that the poison is in the loveless home, the quarrelsome home, the brutal home.

It is a problem which is not too easy to approach, almost impossible to solve. It involves more than education; it involves assimilation, an absorption of unwanted but not necessarily undesirable elements in a society which has set up barriers, no matter how disguised, against these elements.

Garden Of Dreams

TONIGHT I met you at a dance . . . And yet, my dear, it seems . . . I first beheld your beauty in . . . The garden of my dreams . . . And that was many years ago . . . When I was just a child . . . And I was so in love with all . . . The flowers that grew wild . . . I whispered all my secrets in . . . A very special place . . . And that is where one day I saw . . . Your sweet, enchanting face . . . And now I know that you are real . . . I hold you in my arms . . . And, darling, I am overwhelmed . . . By all your many charms . . . Dear one, you are the only one . . . In all my thoughts and schemes . . . You are the fairest flower in . . . The garden of my dreams.

CALLED 'HOOVER-LIKE'

Ike's Economy Approach Hit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Democrats whipped up an attack today on what they called President Eisenhower's "Hoover-like approach" to unemployment and other recession problems.

With former President Truman assailing Eisenhower in two speeches elsewhere in Washington, the Democratic National Committee unanimously adopted a resolution condemning what it called the administration's delay in moving to combat "the depression now gripping the country."

"We condemn the Hoover-like approach of the President to this problem," the resolution said. "It is a disgrace to a free society to follow a policy which tells the five million involuntary recruits in the Eisenhower-Nixon army of the unemployed to wait six months and things may be better —and that prosperity is just around the corner.

First-Hand Knowledge

"We members of the Democratic National Committee can testify from first-hand knowledge to the depressed economic conditions in our states. And we herewith assure our elected Democratic officials in the states and in the Congress of our wholehearted support in their fearless efforts to relieve the suffering of our unemployed, our farmers, our consumers and our small businessmen."

Truman, warming up for a "give 'em hell" speech at a party rally here tomorrow night, unloosed several shafts at Eisenhower in two appearances.

He told a luncheon of the Reserve Officers Assn. there isn't room in the Defense Department for rivalry which permits the individual armed services to "cut each other's throats."

"They'll cooperate to a certain extent when they have a commander in chief who will make them do it," he said.

Truman said he favors a unified command under a central authority in the Pentagon one of the proposals before Eisenhower in his current study of Defense Department reorganization plans.

Truman told the Electric Consumers Information Committee that he could talk for hours "about the things that haven't been done" by his GOP successor in the White House. Recalling that he had predicted in 1952 that Montana's Hungry Horse Dam would be "the last one you'll see" if the Republicans won control of the government, he said that prophecy "absolutely came true."

OFF TO THE HUNT—President Eisenhower and his host, George Humphrey, left, look out back of hunting surrey as they head into the field yesterday morning. This was the second time out for the President because of the cold weather since he arrived in the south eight days ago. (AP Wirephoto)

UNDER CONDITIONS

Leopold Gets Set To Leave

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 21 (AP)—Nathan Leopold will end 33 years of prison life in a few weeks to face this future: He will come into an inheritance, receive annual income from a trust fund and possibly royalties from a book about his life. But he will be bound by stiff parole conditions.

Leopold's relatives set up a $50,000 trust fund for him in 1953. It was created from insurance payments on the death of an older brother. The income, running about $2,000 a year, is to be used for his "general welfare." However, his attorney, Elmer Gertz, says Leopold has no control over the principal or interest.

Leopold, the paroled thrill slayer of young Bobby Franks, also has a legacy from an aunt who died in 1948. It totals between $10,000 and $11,000.

His own story of his life, "Life Plus Ninety-Nine Years" is to be published soon in book form.

No Marriage

But under terms of his five-year parole, Leopold can't get married or own or drive a car, without permission of the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board.

He will be forbidden to drink liquor, carry weapons or associate with persons with criminal records.

He cannot remain away from his home later than 10:30 p.m. without permission.

He also will be required to submit written monthly reports, stating the number of days he worked and the amount of money earned.

Leopold was granted a five-year parole yesterday from original sentences of life and 99 years for his part in the 1924 kidnaping and slaying of the 14-year-old Franks boy.

Five Job Offers

Leopold has five offers of employment. He has expressed preference for a job offered as laboratory technician in a rural hospital operated by the Church of the Brethern in Castaper, Puerto Rico. The job pays $10 a month, plus room and board.

The other offers came from a Chicago book store, a clothing manufacturing firm in New York City and medical laboratories in California and Honolulu. Parole Board members did not identify the prospective employers further.

Members of the five-man parole board will make the choice of his job, after investigation. He will be released when this is done.

Illinois has a parole agreement with Puerto Rico. If he is permitted to take the hospital job there, he will be under direct supervision of Puerto Rican parole authorities, who in turn would keep th Illinois board informed.

Leopold worked without pay as a prison teacher and administrative clerk during his 33 years in the state penitentiary. He passed up a prison industrial job that would have paid him a small salary.

Leopold has expressed a desire to devote his remaining years to "a life of service" to his fellow man.

City Court

WEST MONROE

Two persons forfeited bond yesterday when West Monroe City Court met.

One person forfeited $5.50 on a charge of running a red light, and the other forfeited $20.50 on a speeding charge.

MONROE

The following cases were heard in Monroe City Court here yesterday with Judge W. M. Harper, presiding.

Jimmie Goodjoint, 38, of 509 N. 12th St. was fined $350 for illegal use of weapons, records showed.

In other action five persons paid $172.50 in fines on charges of reckless driving, drunkenness, or disregarding stop signs. Six persons drew sentences of $25 or 25 days on charges of drunkenness or reckless driving.

Heart Drive Will Climax Here Sunday

Climaxing the 1958 Heart Fund campaign, more than 700 men and women volunteers in Ouachita parish will call on their neighbors tomorrow for contributions to advance the state and nationwide fight against diseases of the heart and circulation.

Dean William Smith, Heart Fund chairman, and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, in charge of Heart Sunday, said that Heart Fund volunteers wearing special identification badges will stop at homes between 2 and 4 p.m.

Each family will receive an envelope in which the contribution can be sealed. Envelopes will be left for those not at home, and may be mailed to the Ouachita Parish Heart Fund at 124 N. Grand St.

"We are asking the public on Heart Sunday to 'give for every heart you love'," Dean Smith and Mrs. Turpin stated.

More than fifteen thousand volunteers in Louisiana will be included in the million and a half persons throughout the nation who participate in the one-afternoon drive.

This is the fourth year for Monroe to observe Heart Sunday and the third in which the state has participated in the attack against the disease which recently has caused over 47 per cent of all deaths in Louisiana.

Fingerprints Trip Suspect Held Here

Fingerprints checked in Washington by the Federal Bureau of Investigation have revealed a man jailed here on Feb. 5, is wanted in Alabama for grand larceny, City Police said yesterday.

Chief of Police James C. Kelly Jr., identified the man as Kelly Moore Jr., 42, of Jasper, Ala. Kelly said Moore's fingerprints were sent to the FBI as a matter of usual procedure after he was booked here on a vagrancy charge.

The wanted man was lodged in the parish jail to await return to Birmingham.

Continued Rains Cause Flood And Disaster In Tex.

Several cars were abandoned in San Antonio when they stalled in the high water. The rain slackened Friday, however, after almost 2 inches had fallen in the previous 24 hours.

The international Falcon Dam, between Texas and Mexico, held back more water Friday than at any time since last sumer.

Storage had reached 1,983,000-acre feet and the depth at the dam was 115.15 feet. The Lake Falcon area covers 67,895 acres.

Torrential downpours in South Texas, which unleashed as much as five inches of rain, sent rivers on a rampage and posed flood threats Friday.

The U. S. weather bureau warned of flooding in low areas along the San Miguel and Atascosa Rivers through Saturday. Considerable flooding was expected on the Nueces River below Cotulla to Calallen and on the lower Frio below Derby, Tex.

Ranchers were advised to remove their livestock from lowlands.

Five inches of rain was reported to have fallen in 24 hours seven miles south of Los Angeles, near Cotulla in La Salle county.

Los Angeles itself had 3 inches; Cross 3; Charlotte 3.50; Utopia 1.40; Sabinal 1.22; and Concan 1.50. All are in South Texas.

Nine Are Held In Probe Here

Nine Negro men were arrested here yesterday and police said they recovered a deck of cards during an investigation at 606 Adam St., concerning suspicion of gambling.

All nine of the men were booked for disturbing the peace and placed under $150 bonds, authorities said.

Investigators said that the door to the house was locked and said when the men realized a raid was in process, all tried to escape. Some were routed from under beds and from behind doors, police said.

Seven Negroes were booked for gambling here Sunday night but reported released because of insufficient evidence.

Identified in the 5:25 p.m. arrests were Joseph Loud, 52, 405 Magnolia St.; Alf Meadows, 50, of 207 N. 21st St.; Grant Brackens, 42, of 700 Adams St.; Jay Goldsmith, 59, of 701 Pine St. Mack Hatten, 59, of 505 N. 11th St.; Willie Jackson, 48, of 515 N. 18th St.; Ruben Jenkins, 37, of 716 Breard St.; Percy Lewis, 62, of 606 Adams St. and Floyd York, 36, of 603 Adams St.

Miss. Woman Is Free Of Charges

HAZLEHURST, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—Circuit Judge Tom Brady today dismissed charges of murder against Mrs. Theresa Daisy, accused of talking her 11-year-old son into shooting his father to death last summer.

Brady dismissed the charge after defense attorneys objected to testimony by the boy, Leo Daisy.

Defense Atty. W. M. Broome of Crystal Springs objected to Leo's testifying, saying he wanted the boy to plead the fifth amendment.

Last summer, Leo told officers he and his mother waited for Alex Daisy to return home one night.

When Daisy opened the front door to his Crystal Spring home, Leo said, his mother told him to shoot. He did, he said, killing his father.

Junior Hi-Y Council Sets Spring Plans

The Junior Hi-Y Council of the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. has announced plans for special events to be held during the spring season.

A total of seven Junior Hi-Y clubs with a total enrollment of 109 throughout Ouachita Parish were represented at the meeting.

Plans formulated included a trip to Shreveport March 1 to participate in the Louisiana - Mississippi Y. M. C. A. sports festival.

March 22 will mark the annual athletic achievement testing day to be held at Forsythe Park. March 28-29 a camping trip is to be held at Camp Alabama and the Junior Hi-Y clubs are planning a "clean speech" campaign in the schools for the week of April 21-25.

Baton Rouge Fire

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 21 (AP)—A fire in the linen room caused extensive damage at the Alamo Motel early today. Firemen had the blaze under control 18 minutes after it was discovered.

The fire was confined to the linen room and adjoining carport. The cause was undetermined. No injuries were reported.

Negro Sentenced On Charge

T. J. Franklin, 31 - year - old Negro was sentenced to a year in city jail here yesterday for illegal use of weapons after being acquitted by jury trial of attempted murder here Monday.

Franklin, of 1011½ Rear Washington St., appeared in Fourth District Court here for the alleged shooting of Levi Gilliam here on last November 9, but was acquitted. City authorities booked Franklin Monday on the weapon charge shortly after the jury found him not guilty.

Services Set For Victim Of Auto Accident

Services for a 47-year-old Fairbanks mother of five who died in an auto crash near here yesterday, are scheduled to be held in the Sterlington Baptist Church tomorrow.

Mrs. Esca Lee Colvin apparently died instantly when her car collided with a vehicle carrying four members of a Negro family, at the intersection of U.S. 165 and State Route 134.

Elbert Stevens, Negro of 911 S. 14th Street Monroe was driving the other car, State Police who investigated said. Stevens was hospitalized here but described his injuries as "minor, just bruises," at St. Francis Hospital last night. He said that his three children were not injured.

Allen Colvin, 18, found the lifeless form of his mother some 40 feet from the point of impact when he arrived on the scene at 7:30 a.m. yesterday. He was returning from an all night job and recognized his mother's car as one he had recently bought, before he noticed his mother.

Enroute to Station

Mrs. Colvin was enroute to United Gas Company's compressor station near Sterlington to inform the men there that her husband was ill and would not be able to report for work. The family had just moved into their present home and telephone service had not been installed.

Mrs. Colvin was a native of Dubach and a member of the Sterlington Baptist Church. For the last five years she was a mem-monstration Club.

ber of the Sterlington Home De-

The Rev. Nelson will officiate at services at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Sterlington Baptist Church, with interment following in the Hamilton Memorial Cemetery at Dubach under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Mrs. Colvin is survived by her husband, Rome Colvin, Sterlington; five children, Roger, with the Air Force in Minnesota; Mrs. Bonnie Kasin, Moorehouse, Minn.; Miss Laree Colvin, Sterlington; Mrs. Letha Cooper, Monroe; Allen Colvin, Sterlington; two sisters, Mrs. Elsie Hardwich, Rayville; Mrs. Eva Green, Shreveport; her mother, Mrs. Essie Horton, Dubach; two brothers, Robert Horton, Dubach; Felix Horton, Shreveport, and two grandchildren.

And we herewith assure our elected Democratic officials in the states and in the Congress of our wholehearted support in their fearless efforts to relieve the suffering of our unemployed, our farmers, our consumers and our small businessmen."

He told a luncheon of the Reserve Officers Assn. there isn't room in the Defense Department for rivalry which permits the individual armed services to "cut each other's throats."

"They'll cooperate to a certain extent when they have a commander in chief who will make them do it," he said.

Truman said he favors a unified command under a central authority in the Pentagon one of the proposals before Eisenhower in his current study of Defense Department reorganization plans.

Truman told the Electric Consumers Information Committee that he could talk for hours "about the things that haven't been done" by his GOP successor in the White House. Recalling that he had predicted in 1952 that Montana's Hungry Horse Dam would be "the last one you'll see" if the Republicans won control of the government, he said that prophecy "absolutely came true."

Leopold Gets Set To Leave

JOLIET, Ill., Feb. 21 (AP)—Nathan Leopold will end 33 years of prison life in a few weeks to face this future: He will come into an inheritance, receive annual income from a trust fund and possibly royalties from a book about his life. But he will be bound by stiff parole conditions.

Leopold's relatives set up a $50,000 trust fund for him in 1953. It was created from insurance payments on the death of an older brother. The income, running about $2,000 a year, is to be used for his "general welfare." However, his attorney, Elmer Gertz, says Leopold has no control over the principal or interest.

Leopold, the paroled thrill slayer of young Bobby Franks, also has a legacy from an aunt who died in 1948. It totals between $10,000 and $11,000.

His own story of his life, "Life Plus Ninety-Nine Years" is to be published soon in book form.

No Marriage

But under terms of his five-year parole, Leopold can't get married or own or drive a car, without permission of the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board.

He will be forbidden to drink liquor, carry weapons or associate with persons with criminal records.

He cannot remain away from his home later than 10:30 p.m. without permission.

He also will be required to submit written monthly reports, stating the number of days he worked and the amount of money earned.

Leopold was granted a five-year parole yesterday from original sentences of life and 99 years for his part in the 1924 kidnaping and slaying of the 14-year-old Franks boy.

Five Job Offers

Leopold has five offers of employment. He has expressed preference for a job offered as laboratory technician in a rural hospital operated by the Church of the Brethern in Castaper, Puerto Rico. The job pays $10 a month, plus room and board.

The other offers came from a Chicago book store, a clothing manufacturing firm in New York City and medical laboratories in Clifornia and Honolulu. Parole Board members did not identify the prospective employers further.

Members of the five-man parole board will make the choice of his job, after investigation. He will be released when this is done.

Illinois has a parole agreement with Puerto Rico. If he is permitted to take the hospital job there, he will be under direct supervision of Puerto Rican parole authorities, who in turn would keep th Illinois board informed.

Leopold worked without pay as a prison teacher and administrative clerk during his 33 years in the state penitentiary. He passed up a prison industrial job that would have paid him a small salary.

Leopold has expressed a desire to devote his remaining years to "a life of service" to his fellow man.

City Court

WEST MONROE

Two persons forfeited bond yesterday when West Monroe City Court met.

One person forfeited $5.50 on a charge of running a red light, and the other forfeited $20.50 on a speeding charge.

MONROE

The following cases were heard in Monroe City Court here yesterday with Judge W. M. Harper, presiding.

Jimmie Goodjoint, 38, of 509 N. 12th St. was fined $350 for illegal use of weapons, records showed.

In other action five persons paid $172.50 in fines on charges of reckless driving, drunkenness, or disregarding stop signs: Six persons drew sentences of $25 or 25 days on charges of drunkenness or reckless driving.

Whaling is Antarctica's only industry, the National Geographic Magazine says. Whales and a few species of seals abound in the polar waters. The fur seal, however, is practically extinct due to man's relentless slaughter.

Heart Drive Will Climax Here Sunday

Climaxing the 1958 Heart Fund campaign, more than 700 men and women volunteers in Ouachita parish will call on their neighbors tomorrow for contributions to advance the state and nationwide fight against diseases of the heart and circulation.

Dean William Smith, Heart Fund chairman, and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, in charge of Heart Sunday, said that Heart Fund volunteers wearing special identification badges will stop at homes between 2 and 4 p.m.

Each family will receive an envelope in which the contribution can be sealed. Envelopes will be left for those not at home, and may be mailed to the Ouachita Parish Heart Fund at 124 N. Grand St.

"We are asking the public on Heart Sunday to 'give for every heart you love'," Dean Smith and Mrs. Turpin stated.

More than fifteen thousand volunteers in Louisiana will be included in the million and a half persons throughout the nation who participate in the one-afternoon drive.

This is the fourth year for Monroe to observe Heart Sunday and the third in which the state has participated in the attack against the disease which recently has caused over 47 per cent of all deaths in Louisiana.

Fingerprints Trip Suspect Held Here

Fingerprints checked in Washington by the Federal Bureau of Investigation have revealed a man jailed here on Feb. 5, is wanted in Alabama for grand larceny, City Police said yesterday.

Chief of Police James C. Kelly Jr., identified the man as Kelly Moore Jr., 42, of Jasper, Ala. Kelly said Moore's fingerprints were sent to the FBI as a matter of usual procedure after he was booked here on a vagrancy charge.

The wanted man was lodged in the parish jail to await return to Birmingham.

Continued Rains Cause Flood And Disaster In Tex.

Several cars were abandoned in San Antonio when they stalled in the high water. The rain slackened Friday, however, after almost 2 inches had fallen in the previous 24 hours.

The international Falcon Dam, between Texas and Mexico, held back more water Friday than at any time since last sumer.

Storage had reached 1,983,000-acre feet and the depth at the dam was 115.15 feet. The Lake Falcon area covers 67,895 acres.

Torrential downpours in South Texas, which unleashed as much as five inches of rain, sent rivers on a rampage and posed flood threats Friday.

The U. S. weather bureau warned of flooding in low areas along the San Miguel and Atascosa Rivers through Saturday. Considerable flooding was expected on the Nueces River below Cotulla to Calallen and on the lower Frio below Derby, Tex.

Ranchers were advised to remove their livestock from lowlands.

Five inches of rain was reported to have fallen in 24 hours seven miles south of Los Angeles, near Cotulla in La Salle county.

Los Angeles itself had 3 inches; Cross 3; Charlotte 3.50; Utopia 1.40; Sabinal 1.22; and Concan 1.50. All are in South Texas.

Nine Are Held In Probe Here

Nine Negro men were arrested here yesterday and police said they recovered a deck of cards during an investigation at 606 Adam St., concerning suspicion of gambling.

All nine of the men were booked for disturbing the peace and placed under $150 bonds, authorities said.

Investigators said that the door to the house was locked and said when the men realized a raid was in process, all tried to escape. Some were routed from under beds and from behind doors, police said.

Seven Negroes were booked for gambling here Sunday night but reported released because of insufficient evidence.

Identified in the 5:25 p.m. arrests were Joseph Loud, 52, 405 Magnolia St.; Alf Meadows, 50, of 207 N. 21st St.; Grant Brackens, 42, of 700 Adams St.; Jay Goldsmith, 59, of 701 Pine St. Mack Hatten, 59, of 505 N. 11th St.; Willie Jackson, 48, of 515 N. 18th St.; Ruben Jenkins, 37, of 716 Breard St.; Percy Lewis, 62, of 606 Adams St. and Floyd York, 36, of 603 Adams St.

Miss. Woman Is Free Of Charges

HAZLEHURST, Miss., Feb. 21 (AP)—Circuit Judge Tom Brady today dismissed charges of murder against Mrs. Theresa Daisy, accused of talking her 11-year-old son into shooting his father to death last summer.

Brady dismissed the charge after defense attorneys objected to testimony by the boy, Leo Daisy.

Defense Atty. W. M. Broome of Crystal Springs objected to Leo's testifying, saying he wanted the boy to plead the fifth amendment.

Last summer, Leo told officers he and his mother waited for Alex Daisy to return home one night.

When Daisy opened the front door to his Crystal Spring home, Leo said, his mother told him to shoot. He did, he said, killing his father.

Junior Hi-Y Council Sets Spring Plans

The Junior Hi-Y Council of the Twin Cities Y. M. C. A. has announced plans for special events to be held during the spring season.

A total of seven Junior Hi-Y clubs with a total enrollment of 109 throughout Ouachita Parish were represented at the meeting.

Plans formulated included a trip to Shreveport March 1 to participate in the Louisiana - Mississippi Y. M. C. A. sports festival.

March 22 will mark the annual athletic achievement testing day to be held at Forsythe Park. March 28-29 a camping trip is to be held at Camp Alabama and the Junior Hi-Y clubs are planning a "clean speech" campaign in the schools for the week of April 21-25.

Baton Rouge Fire

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 21 (AP)—A fire in the linen room caused extensive damage at the Alamo Motel early today. Firemen had the blaze under control 18 minutes after it was discovered.

The fire was confined to the linen room and adjoining carport. The cause was undetermined. No injuries were reported.

Negro Sentenced On Charge

T. J. Franklin, 31 - year - old Negro was sentenced to a year in city jail here yesterday for illegal use of weapons after being acquitted by jury trial of attempted murder here Monday.

Franklin, of 1011½ Rear Washington St., appeared in Fourth District Court here for the alleged shooting of Levi Gilliam here on last November 9, but was acquitted. City authorities booked Franklin Monday on the weapon charge shortly after the jury found him not guilty.

Services Set For Victim Of Auto Accident

Services for a 47-year-old Fairbanks mother of five who died in an auto crash near here yesterday, are scheduled to be held in the Sterlington Baptist Church tomorrow.

Mrs. Esca Lee Colvin apparently died instantly when her car collided with a vehicle carrying four members of a Negro family, at the intersection of U.S. 165 and State Route 134.

Elbert Stevens, Negro of 911 S. 14th Street Monroe was driving the other car, State Police who investigated said. Stevens was hospitalized here but described his injuries as "minor, just bruises," at St. Francis Hospital last night. He said that his three children were not injured.

Allen Colvin, 18, found the lifeless form of his mother some 40 feet from the point of impact when he arrived on the scene at 7:30 a.m. yesterday. He was returning from an all night job and recognized his mother's car as one he had recently bought, before he noticed his mother.

Enroute to Station

Mrs. Colvin was enroute to United Gas Company's compressor station near Sterlington to inform the men there that her husband was ill and would not be able to report for work. The family had just moved into their present home and telephone service had not been installed.

Mrs. Colvin was a native of Dubach and a member of the Sterlington Baptist Church. For the last five years she was a memmonstration Club.

ber of the Sterlington Home De-

The Rev. Nelson will officiate at services at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Sterlington Baptist Church, with interment following in the Hamilton Memorial Cemetery at Dubach under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

Northeast Closes Home Season Against Demons

Surprising Northwestern, still very much in the running for the Gulf States Conference basketball championship, meets Northeast's Indians at Ouachita tonight in the Tribe's final home game of the season.

Northeast's next - to - last contest of the season, tonight's game will start at 8 o'clock. The Redskins close against Louisiana Tech at Ruston Friday night.

Northeast, its championship ambitions long ago shelved until next year, will be looking for its second conference win against seven losses. The Indians lost 69-54 decision to Northwestern in their first meeting on Jan. 18.

Led by little Jimmy Leach, Northwestern is currently 5-1 in league play and, if it wins its four remaining conference games, can do no worse than tie for first in the GSC. The Demons suffered their first loop loss at the hands of the defending champion McNeese, 64-54, at Natchitoches Saturday night.

Leach, the leading GSC scorer for most of the season, will be trying to score the 1,000th point of his college career tonight and Lenny Fant's Indians will be trying to see that he waits awhile before getting it. Leach, a 5-9 guard, has 983 points for three years of competition and the junior has another year to add to the total. For this season, Leach has 376 points and 140 in conference games.

Leach scored 25 points in the Demons' last game, a 90-75 victory over SLI Tuesday night, and had a great night against Northeast in January, scoring 27 points.

After opening with three straight losses, Northwestern came back with nine - game winning streak before losing in the finals of the Louisiana Invitational Tournament in Shreveport. They won their first four GSC games, one of them a 56-47 win over McNeese at Lake Charles, before falling to McNeese at Natchitoches and dropping to second in the conference. The Demons are 16-7 for the season.

Northeast is 8-13 for the season with two tilts remaining. Not figured to be very strong, the Indians have had their moments, winning the championship in the J. C. Tournament at Marshall, Texas and defeating strong Arkansas State 76 - 61, but they haven't had much luck in the GSC. They beat Southeastern by one point, 63 - 62, here for their only loop win and the closest they came to another was 66 - 63 loss to Southwestern here on Feb. 10.

Northwestern will probably start Leach, Mickey Crnkovic, Bob Wicker, Jimmie Adkins, and Phil Haley with Elvin McCann, Larry Skinner and Larry Fontenot probably to see action.

Fant will lead off with Northeast's usual starting five, Bob Patterson and John Freeman at the guards, Bob Groves and Billy May at the forwards and Vernon Cottrell at center. Slated for reserve duty are Larry Stegall, Lyle Dorsey and Bill Phillips.

6 WAY TIE BROKEN

Mazur Employs Hot Putter To Forge Lead At Houston

By LLOYD LARRABEE

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Quiet-spoken Pete Mazur combined a steady putter with sparkling wedge shots Friday to take the undisputed lead in the $30,000 Houston Invitational golf tournament with 139 at the 36-hole mark.

Mazur, 42, a former driving range instructor from Buffalo, N.Y., fired a 1-under-par 71 in the face of a chilling wind and occasional light drizzle to move a stroke out in front of the field.

Two old pros—Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.—were tied at 140 with Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City.

Dave Ragan, 22, Orlando, Fla., shot the best round of the day, a 69, to carve a 141 at the halfway mark of the tourney, and stood tied with three others, Milon Marusic, Webster Groves, Mo., Ed (Porky) Oliver, Mid Pines, N.C., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, St. Louis.

Mazur broke a first-round six-way tie with a smooth performance which included three birdies offsetting two bogeys.

"I putted better today than I ever have," he said. His putts included a 15-footer for a birdie 2 on the 15th hole.

"I've always had a reputation of being a good wedge player," Mazur said, who became known as golf's biggest money loser of 1957 when $10,000 was stolen from him at Chicago last summer.

Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., winner of the 1957 Houston Open, was a casualty of the second round as he skyrocketed to a 79 for a 36-hole score of 152, eliminating him from the tournament.

The field was trimmed to 73 pros and 6 amateurs from the 133 starters, as professionals with scores above 140 were eliminated.

Palmer, who three-putted four holes, had a cyst removed from his ear earlier in the day, but he didn't offer any excuses.

"I was just playing bad," he said.

Mazur's only money winnings in professional tournament play was $100 in the Western Open last year. He said the drizzle, which fell on the 6,200 yard Memorial Park course during part of Friday's round, didn't bother him.

"I love the rain," Mazur said.

The colorful Demaret fired his second straight round of 70 as did de Vicenzo, while Furgol, one of six leaders Thursday with a 68, shot an even-par 72 Friday.

Marusic and Oliver, who had 68s Thursday, both posted 73s Friday while Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., soared to a 75 and Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B. C., skyrocketed to a 77. Both shot 68s Thursday.

Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., stayed in the running with cards of 142 for the two rounds, while a stroke behind at 143 were Kroll, Frank Stranhan of Toledo, Ohio, and Bob Goalby, Darien, Conn.

John McMullin of Fair Oaks, Calif., provided the freak card of the day when he shot an 8 on the par 4 fifth hole, but birdied five of the other eight holes on the first nine and went on to stroke a 71 and qualify at 148.

The 36 - hole leaders:

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., 68-72—140.

Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., 70-70—140.

Roberto Divicenzo, Mexico City, Mexico, 70-70—140.

Ed Oliver, Canton, Mass., 68-73—141.

E. J. Harrison, St. Louis, Mo., 69-72—141.

Bo Wininger, Odessa, Tex., 71-71—142.

Ted Kroll, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 68-75—143.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, 72-71—143.

Bob Goalsby, Darien, Conn., 69-74—143.

J. C. Goosie, Knoxville, Tenn., 71-73—144.

Mike Krak, Morgantown, W. Va., 72-72—144.

Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif., 74-70—144.

Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich. 73-71—144.

Jay Riviere, Houston, 74-70—144.

Ernie Vossler, Midland, Tex., 72-72—144.

INJURED LEG

Bold Ruler Out Of Widener 'Cap

HIALEAH, Fla. (UP) — With Bold Ruler out with an injured leg, eight horse owners decided Friday to take a crack at Calumet Farm's one-two punch of Iron Liege and Pintor Lea in the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Saturday.

Iron Liege, the 1957 Kentucky Derby champion who is coming off a convincing victory in the $50,000-added McLennan Handicap here two weeks ago, was rated a 50 cents on the dollar favorite before the race.

The mile and one-quarter event, first of the four $100,000 features of the Florida racing season, is expected to attract a crowd of more than 25,000. A forecast of mild temperatures after a week of cold weather also is expected to help the turnout.

The race will be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC). Post time is 3:50 p.m. (CST)

The star of the Widener was to have been Bold Ruler. But Wheatley Stable withdrew its 1957 "horse of the year" Thursday because of a minor leg injury.

This brought into the Widener field at least four others who had not been counted in the running against both Bold Ruler and Iron Liege. With Eddie Arcaro freed of his commitment on Bold Ruler, Hasty House Farm quickly engaged him and entered its grass-running star, Mahan, in the race.

Other surprise entries included Kingmaker, winner over Iron Liege at seven furlongs recently, Rockcastle and Beau Diable, a pair of outsiders.

MITEFF GETS NOD

Valdes' Corner Crying Robbery

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight contender Alex Miteff fought through a mask of blood Friday night to win a split decision over big Nino Valdes in a bout which the defeated Cuban's manager charged was "in the bag."

While the beaten Valdes cried and screamed hysterically in Spanish, manager Bobby Gleason charged, "I heard rumors this morning that the fight was in the bag. And this decision proves it."

Miteff suffered a three-quarter-inch gash on the bridge of his nose in the second round of the television fight at Madison Square Garden and it spouted blood in every round thereafter as he came on to win.

But Valdes' manager charged loudly in the dressing room that his man had been "jobbed."

Went to Commission

"I went to the commission this morning and told them that by the way the betting was going, we would have to win by a knock-out," Gleason said. "Even in the ring tonight, the referee (Teddy Martin) said that "nothing could help us."

William Thomas, chief counsel for the New York Boxing Commission, admitted on his way out of the Garden that Gleason had been to see him Friday morning, but said there was no reason for any investigation at that point.

"We certainly will call him right in," Thomas said.

"These are serious charges and should get our immediate attention. And if they are unfounded, Gleason should be reprimanded."

Two days ago Miteff was favored at 8-5 because of his youth. But Friday night he entered the ring at even money despite Valdes' much greater experience, six straight victories and number five rating among heavyweight contenders against Miteff's No. 9 ranking.

Gleason, practically incoherent in the dressing room, asserted that the fight should have been stopped after several rounds because of the way Miteff was bleeding.

But, despite his charges, there was no question that Miteff, "the new wild bull of the pampas" had fought a game and gallant fight in the first heavyweight main event staged at the Garden in more than a year, and the goriest fight in the Garden in more than a decade.

Miteff, weighing 205 pounds to Valdes' 209½, suffered a deep cut on the bridge of his nose—slicing down sideways for three-fourths of an inch in the left side in the second round. And that gash spouted blood for the rest of the fight.

Referee Martin favored Miteff on a round basis, 6-4, as did Judge Harold Barnes, 5-4-1; but Judge Nick Gamboli had Valdes ahead, 6-3-1. The United Press favored Miteff, 5-4-1.

High School Basketball

FORT STOPS SUMMERFIELD

The big three of "The Fort's" attack, Grady Jones, A. J. Burlew, and Milton Linder, headed the victorious assault. Jones hooped 22 points, with Burlew right on his heels with 21. Linder bagged 15, Norris Moss, with 17, and Joe Bailey, with 15, led Summerfield.

FOREST GAINS GROUND

FOREST, La. (Special) — The Forest High School quintet advanced to the state championship Class B quarter - finals last night as they conquered a strong Ringgold team, 55-51, for Forest's 25th victory against 12 losses this season.

Glen and Harold Kelly led Forest with 19 points apiece, while Fowler and Blake paced Ringgold with 14 and 13 respectively.

Forest's sectional opponent Tuesday night will be the Dry Prong - Simmesport winner.

OGDEN STEPS UP

LIDDIEVILLE, La. (Special) — The Ogden High School basketball girls, bidding for a state championship, climbed to the state Class C quarter-finals last night by eliminating Weston High, 66-58, in their regional playoff contest here.

Shelby Fain went on a 33-point romp to lead the Ogden girls, but Alice Peel, Weston, was the game's high scorer with 35 points. Miss Fain was supported by Linda Thompson and Linda Hatten with 16 and 13 points respectively. Also hitting in double figures for Weston were Avery and Chiles with 11 and 10 respectively.

Ogden next week faced the winner of the Bienville-Standley playoff in a sectional game that will determine a state semi-finalist.

WINNSBORO IN FINALS

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) — The Winnsboro High girls defeated Oak Grove, 51-39, in a district 2-A playoff game here last night. The victory eliminated Oak Grove from title contention and sends Winnsboro against Lake Providence here this evening at 6:30 o'clock to settle the district champion and runner-up, both of which advance to bi-district playoffs.

Claudine Watson led Winnsboro with 28 points, and Barbara Thompson was high scorer for Oak Grove with 21.

Oak Grove led until the third quarter when the Winnsboro girls began taking up the slack.

CENTRAL WINS, 56-52

DELHI, La. (Special)—Margaret Loftin's 37 points led Central of Delhi girls over the regional playoff hurdle here last night as they topped Lisbon, 56-52.

Central, district 7-C champions will meet the winner of the Shongaloo-Negreet contest in their next playoff Tuesday night. If Negreet won, the game will be played at Central. If Shongaloo won, they will be the host team.

WINNSBORO VS. OAK GROVE

OAK GROVE, La. (Special)—The Winnsboro Wildcats and Oak Grove Tigers fight it out here tonight at 8 o'clock for the district 2-A basketball championship. They gained the title round last night after Winnsboro walloped Tallulah 56-52, and Oak Grove blasted Ferriday, 66-29, in the four-team district tournament here.

Simon led the Winnsboro quintet last night with 18 points, but Querry of Tallulah was the game's high scorer with 23, and French of Tallulah also tallied 17 points.

Gene Gammill, Larry Bradley, and John Hurley fired the Oak Grove assault on Ferriday with 19 points for Gammill and 16 each for Bradley and Hurley. Big gun for Ferriday was Graves with 10 points.

ENTERPRISE CLIMBS

ENTERPRISE, La. (Special) — The boys of Enterprise High School defeated Marion of Union parish, 55-51, in a thrilling overtime scramble here last night to advance to the sectional playoffs in the state Class C basketball title chase.

Mickey McGuffey hooped 24 points in leading Enterprise's district 8-C runners-up to victory over the 5-C district champion Marion club. Bob Cassels supported McGuffey with 15 points.

Andrews and Gilmore were leading scorers for Marion with 21 and 14 points respectively.

SIMSBORO TRIUMPHS

SIMSBORO, La. (Special) —The defending state champion Simsboro High Tigers toppled Doyline, 53 to 37, here last night in a regional Class B state title playoff battle. Simsboro was comfortable ahead, 34-13, at the half.

Max Lewis and J. R. Edmonson led Simsboro with 17 and 14 points respectively. Roach of Doyline also had 17 points.

3 FOR COLUMBIA

COLUMBIA, La. (Special) — The Columbia High boys' basketball teams notched three victories here yesterday as the varsity, liberally spiced with "B" squadmen, socked Southside of Monroe, 62-36, in an afternoon game and then came back in a night fracas with Chatham to win 70-46 after the Columbia "B" team had beaten its Chatham compliment, 36-21, in the curtain-raiser of the night show.

S. B. Harrelson, with 20 points, led the defeat of the Chatham varsity, and Malone led the invaders with 24. In the "B" game, Spikes led Columbia with 12, and Fenn was tops for Chatham with nine.

NASCAR MODIFIED

Ed Matthews Leads 125-Mile Stock Run

By MERCER BAILEY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Edwin (Banjo) Matthews roared into the lead on the first lap and outsped a bulky field in the 125-mile NASCAR Sportsman modified stock car race today.

The Asheville, N.C., garage operator, driving a 1955 Ford with a 1958 Lincoln engine, crossed the finish line 29 seconds ahead of a fellow Tar Heel stater, Jimmy Thompson of Monroe.

Thompson drove a modified Ford.

Some clutch and oil pressure troubles, plus near disaster going into a turn after about 90 miles prevented the bespectacled 26-year old Matthews from setting a new record.

He covered the 31 laps around the 4.1-mile beach and road course in 1 hour 17 minutes and 1 second for an average speed of 97.381 miles an hour.

The record was set at 99.097 by Speedy Thompson of Charlotte, N.C., last year.

Glen Wood of Stuart, Va., who posted the fastest qualifying speed of 139.697 M.P.H., was third in a Ford Sportsman, Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach was fourth in a modified Ford and Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich., fifth in a modified Oldsmobile.

Getting tremendous speed out of his jazzed up car on the 2-mile straightaways, Matthews steadily pulled away from his rivals until after 20 laps he had built a margin of about two minutes over Thompson.

Then, coming into the north turn off the beach stretch, cars in front of Matthews splashed a coat of sand across his windshield. Unable to see momentarily, Matthews missed the turn. His car shot over a small embankment but he whipped it into a tight circle and returned to the track.

The next time around, with nine laps to go, he was only 12 seconds ahead of Thompson. Matthews padded the margin before the checkered flag fell.

Swede Gains TKO In 13th Over Erskine

GOTHENBURG Sweden (UP)—Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's undefeated European heavyweight champion, blasted Welshman Joe Erskine's dream of a shot at the world title Friday night by giving the British Empire champ such a beating he quit in his corner after the 13th round.

Johansson, weighing 197¼ pounds to Erskine's 192¾, was making his second defense of the European title before a sell-out 6,200 in Gothenburg's Fair Hall.

The 13th-round technical knockout was Johansson's 19th straight professional victory and it could earn him consideration as challenger for Floyd Patterson's world crown.

But Johansson said after the fight, "I have no intention of challenging Patterson until late in the year. If I do then."

(In New York, Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, refused to state whether he would have any objection to Johansson as challenger.).

NEVILLE GIRLS WIN

Neville Catches Ouachita In Final Quarter, 55-52

A 19 - point uprising in the fourth quarter gave Neville a 55-52 triumph over Ouachita last night, its fourth straight of the year over the Lions.

Behind at one time by as much as 16 points, Neville's boys were behind, 43-36, entering the fateful fourth but they completely dominated that period with 19 points to only 9 for Ouachita, district 1-AAA champions.

The victory was number 29 for George Davis' Tigers against only six defeats. Second place in 2-AA, Neville is scheduled to close its season on the 25th at Tallulah.

The game was Ouachita's final tilt of the season and their 12th loss against 24 victories.

Fred Southerland and Francis Genusa starred for the winners with 22 and 19 points, respectively. Lanny Johnson paced Ouachita with 18 points, 10 of them in the first quarter, while Buddy Norred contributed 13 and Eddie McGowan 10.

Ouachita gained the lead for the last time with 5:40 remaining in the first quarter and kept it until the final quarter. By the end of the initial quarter, they had 15-10 advantage and ran wild in the first half of the second period, building up a 27-11 lead with 4:34 left.

Southerland almost singlehanded put Neville back in the ball game in the last four minutes, scoring four straight field goals and three free throws before Ouachita could put in another point. With 1:30 to go in the quarter, Southerland's last field goal made it, 27-22, but Norred broke the ice for Ouachita with 1:03 left to make it 29-22. At the halftime intermission, it was 29-22.

Ouachita had a two - point edge in the third quarter scoring, 14-12, and still lead at the start of the fourth, 43-36. The Lions began to topple with 4:05 left in the game when Genusa put in the first of his two straight field goals to make it 50-45. With 3:34 left, he made the other and then Southerland put in two charity tosses with 2:11 left to close the gap to one point, 50-49.

Neville's girls took their 22nd victory of the year with ease in the night's first game. They limited Ouachita to only five points in the third quarter and had a 53-30 lead at the end of that frame.

McDonald's 39 points dominated the scoring with Cecile Menuet's 11 being the next best for the winners. Carol Shipp led Ouachita with 16 points and Janis Holloway had 14.

Northeast Closes Home Season Against Demons

Surprising Northwestern, still very much in the running for the Gulf States Conference basketball championship, meets Northeast's Indians at Ouachita tonight in the Tribe's final home game of the season.

Northeast's next - to - last contest of the season, tonight's game will start at 8 o'clock. The Redskins close against Louisiana Tech at Ruston Friday night.

Northeast, its championship ambitions long ago shelved until next year, will be looking for its second conference win against seven losses. The Indians lost 69-54 decision to Northwestern in their first meeting on Jan. 18.

Led by little Jimmy Leach, Northwestern is currently 5-1 in league play and, if it wins its four remaining conference games, can do no worse than tie for first in the GSC. The Demons suffered their first loop loss at the hands of the defending champion McNeese, 64-54, at Natchitoches Saturday night.

Leach, the leading GSC scorer for most of the season, will be trying to score the 1,000th point of his college career tonight and Lenny Fant's Indians will be trying to see that he waits awhile before getting it. Leach, a 5-9 guard, has 983 points for three years of competition and the junior has another year to add to the total. For this season, Leach has 376 points and 140 in conference games.

Leach scored 25 points in the Demons' last game, a 90-75 victory over SLI Tuesday night, and had a great night against Northeast in January, scoring 27 points.

After opening with three straight losses, Northwestern came back with nine - game winning streak before losing in the finals of the Louisiana Invitational Tournament in Shreveport. They won their first four GSC games, one of them a 56-47 win over McNeese at Lake Charles, before falling to McNeese at Natchitoches and dropping to second in the conference. The Demons are 16-7 for the season.

Northeast is 8-13 for the season with two tilts remaining. Not figured to be very strong, the Indians have had their moments, winning the championship in the J. C. Tournament at Marshall, Texas and defeating strong Arkansas State 76 - 61, but they haven't had much luck in the GSC. They beat Southeastern by one point, 63 - 62, here for their only loop win and the closest they came to another was 66 - 63 loss to Southwestern here on Feb. 10.

Northwestern will probably start Leach, Mickey Crnkovic, Bob Wicker, Jimmie Adkins, and Phil Haley with Elvin McCann, Larry Skinner and Larry Fontenot probably to see action.

Fant will lead off with Northeast's usual starting five, Bob Patterson and John Freeman at the guards, Bob Groves and Billy May at the forwards and Vernon Cottrell at center. Slated for reserve duty are Larry Stegall, Lyle Dorsey and Bill Phillips.

6 WAY TIE BROKEN

Mazur Employs Hot Putter To Forge Lead At Houston

By LLOYD LARRABEE

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — Quiet-spoken Pete Mazur combined a steady putter with sparkling wedge shots Friday to take the undisputed lead in the $30,000 Houston Invitational golf tournament with 139 at the 36-hole mark.

Mazur, 42, a former driving range instructor from Buffalo, N.Y., fired a 1-under-par 71 in the face of a chilling wind and occasional light drizzle to move a stroke out in front of the field.

Two old pros—Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.—were tied at 140 with Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City.

Dave Ragan, 22, Orlando, Fla., shot the best round of the day, a 69, to carve a 141 at the halfway mark of the tourney, and stood tied with three others, Milon Marusic, Webster Groves, Mo., Ed (Porky) Oliver, Mid Pines, N.C., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, St. Louis.

Mazur broke a first-round six-way tie with a smooth performance which included three birdies offsetting two bogeys.

"I putted better today than I ever have," he said. His putts included a 15-footer for a birdie 2 on the 15th hole.

"I've always had a reputation of being a good wedge player," Mazur said, who became known as golf's biggest money loser of 1957 when $10,000 was stolen from him at Chicago last summer.

Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., winner of the 1957 Houston Open, was a casualty of the second round as he skyrocketed to a 79 for a 36-hole score of 152, eliminating him from the tournament.

The field was trimmed to 73 pros and 6 amateurs from the 133 starters, as professionals with scores above 140 were eliminated.

Palmer, who three-putted four holes, had a cyst removed from his ear earlier in the day, but he didn't offer any excuses.

"I was just playing bad," he said.

Mazur's only money winnings in professional tournament play was $100 in the Western Open last year. He said the drizzle, which fell on the 6,200 yard Memorial Park course during part of Friday's round, didn't bother him.

"I love the rain," Mazur said.

The colorful Demaret fired his second straight round of 70 as did de Vicenzo, while Furgol, one of six leaders Thursday with a 68, shot an even-par 72 Friday.

Marusic and Oliver, who had 68s Thursday, both posted 73s Friday while Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., soared to a 75 and Stan Leonard of Vancouver, B. C., skyrocketed to a 77. Both shot 68s Thursday.

Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla. stayed in the running with cards of 142 for the two rounds, while a stroke behind at 143 were Kroll Frank Stranhan of Toledo, Ohio, and Bob Goalby, Darien, Conn.

John McMullin of Fair Oaks, Calif., provided the freak card of the day when he shot an 8 on the par 4 fifth hole, but birdied five of the other eight holes on the first nine and went on to stroke a 71 and qualify at 148.

The 36 - hole leaders:

Pete Mazur, Buffalo, N. Y., 68-71—139.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., 68-72—140.

Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., 70-70—140.

Roberto Divicenzo, Mexico City, Mexico, 70-70—140.

Dave Ragan, Orlando, Fla., 72-69—141.

Ed Oliver, Canton, Mass., 68-73—141.

E. J. Harrison, St. Louis, Mo., 69-72—141.

Bo Wininger, Odessa, Tex., 71-71—142.

Ted Kroll, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 68-75—143.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, 72-71—143.

Bob Goalsby, Darien, Conn., 69-74—143.

J. C. Goosie, Knoxville, Tenn., 71-73—144.

Mike Krak, Morgantown, W. Va., 72-72—144.

Bob Rosburg, Napa, Calif., 74-70—144.

Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich. 73-71—144.

Jay Riviere, Houston, 74-70—144.

Ken Venturi, San Francisco, Calif., 71-73—144.

Ernie Vossler, Midland, Tex., 72-72—144.

FORT STOPS SUMMERFIELD

The big three of "The Fort's" attack, Grady Jones, A. J. Burlew, and Milton Linder, headed the victorious assault. Jones hooped 22 points, with Burlew right on his heels with 21. Linder bagged 15. Norris Moss, with 17, and Joe Bailey, with 15, led Summerfield.

FOREST GAINS GROUND

FOREST, La. (Special) — The Forest High School quintet advanced to the state championship Class B quarter - finals last night as they conquered a strong Ringgold team, 55-51, for Forest's 25th victory against 12 losses this season.

Glen and Harold Kelly led Forest with 19 points apiece, while Fowler and Blake paced Ringgold with 14 and 13 respectively.

Forest's sectional opponent Tuesday night will be the Dry Prong - Simmesport winner.

OGDEN STEPS UP

LIDDIEVILLE, La. (Special) — The Ogden High School basketball girls, bidding for a state championship, climbed to the state Class C quarter-finals last night by eliminating Weston High, 66-58, in their regional playoff contest here.

Shelby Fain went on a 33-point romp to lead the Ogden girls, but Alice Peel, Weston, was the game's high scorer with 35 points. Miss Fain was supported by Linda Thompson and Linda Hatten with 16 and 13 points respectively. Also hitting in double figures for Weston were Avery and Chiles with 11 and 10 respectively.

Ogden next week faced the winner of the Bienville-Standley playoff in a sectional game that will determine a state semi-finalist.

WINNSBORO IN FINALS

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) — The Winnsboro High girls defeated Oak Grove, 51-39, in a district 2-A playoff game here last night. The victory eliminated Oak Grove from title contention and sends Winnsboro against Lake Providence here this evening at 6:30 o'clock to settle the district champion and runner-up, both of which advance to bi-district playoffs.

Claudine Watson led Winnsboro with 28 points, and Barbara Thompson was high scorer for Oak Grove with 21.

Oak Grove led until the third quarter when the Winnsboro girls began taking up the slack.

CENTRAL WINS, 56-52

DELHI, La. (Special)—Margaret Loftin's 37 points led Central of Delhi girls over the regional playoff hurdle here last night as they topped Lisbon, 56-52.

Central, district 7-C champions will meet the winner of the Shongaloo-Negreet contest in their next playoff Tuesday night. If Negreet won, the game will be played at Central. If Shongaloo won, they will be the host team.

WINNSBORO VS. OAK GROVE

OAK GROVE, La. (Special)—The Winnsboro Wildcats and Oak Grove Tigers fight it out here tonight at 8 o'clock for the district 2-A basketball championship. They gained the title round last night after Winnsboro walloped Tallulah 56-52, and Oak Grove blasted Ferriday, 66-20, in the four-team district tournament here.

Simon led the Winnsboro quintet last night with 18 points, but Querry of Tallulah was the game's high scorer with 23, and French of Tallulah also tallied 17 points.

Gene Gammill, Larry Bradley, and John Hurley fired the Oak Grove assault on Ferriday with 19 points for Gammill and 16 each for Bradley and Hurley. Big gun for Ferriday was Graves with 10 points.

ENTERPRISE CLIMBS

ENTERPRISE, La. (Special) — The boys of Enterprise High School defeated Marion of Union parish, 55-51, in a thrilling overtime scramble here last night to advance to the sectional playoffs in the state Class C basketball title chase.

Mickey McGuffey hooped 24 points in leading Enterprise's district 8-C runners-up to victory over the 5-C district champion Marion club. Bob Cassels supported McGuffey with 15 points.

Andrews and Gilmore were leading scorers for Marion with 21 and 14 points respectively.

SIMSBORO TRIUMPHS

SIMSBORO, La. (Special) —The defending state champion Simsboro High Tigers toppled Doyline, 53 to 37, here last night in a regional Class B state title playoff battle. Simsboro was comfortable ahead, 34-13, at the half.

Max Lewis and J. R. Edmonson led Simsboro with 17 and 14 points respectively. Roach of Doyline also had 17 points.

3 FOR COLUMBIA

COLUMBIA, La. (Special) — The Columbia High boys' basketball teams notched three victories here yesterday as the varsity, liberally spiced with "B" squadmen, socked Southside of Monroe, 62-36, in an afternoon game and then came back in a night fracas with Chatham to win 70-46 after the Columbia "B" team had beaten its Chatham compliment, 36-21, in the curtain-raiser of the night show.

Gary Mobley, Arthur Spikes, and Jerry Parker led the rout of Southside with 11 points apiece, and Jacquillon paced the Monroe boys with nine.

S. B. Harrelson, with 20 points, led the defeat of the Chatham varsity, and Malone led the invaders with 24. In the "B" game, Spikes led Columbia with 12, and Fenn was tops for Chatham with nine.

Norvell Gains Semis In Club Champs Meet

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UP — William Norvell, 56 - year - old seniors player from Chattanooga, Tenn., advanced to the semi-finals of the National Golf Club champions tournament Friday.

Norvell started off by upsetting George Toms, 27-year-old medalist and defending champion from Durham, N.C., 1-up. In the afternoon quarter-final match, he won 1-up over G. E. (Skip) Stigger, 19-year-old University of Florida Sophomore from Henderson, Ky.

The Signal Mountain Country Club champion plays Joseph Bonfilio, Andover, Mass., in the 36-hole semi-finals Saturday. Bonfilio won his afternoon match 2 and 1 from John Blesi, Dayton, Ohio.

The other match pits Paul Kelly Ossining, N. Y., against John Eisinger, Washington, D.C. Kelly gained the semis with a 1-up win over Dr. J. D. McKey, Orlando, Fla., while Eisinger downed Tom Jones, Poland Village, Ohio, 4 and 3.

INJURED LEG

Bold Ruler Out Of Widener 'Cap

HIALEAH, Fla. (UP) — With Bold Ruler out with an injured leg, eight horse owners decided Friday to take a crack at Calumet Farm's one-two punch of Iron Liege and Pintor Lea in the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Saturday.

Iron Liege, the 1957 Kentucky Derby champion who is coming off a convincing victory in the $50,000-added McLennan Handicap here two weeks ago, was rated a 50 cents on the dollar favorite before the race.

The mile and one-quarter event, first of the four $100,000 features of the Florida racing season, is expected to attract a crowd of more than 25,000. A forecast of mild temperatures after a week of cold weather also is expected to help the turnout.

The race will be televised and broadcast nationally (NBC). Post time is 3:50 p.m. (CST)

The star of the Widener was to have been Bold Ruler. But Wheatley Stable withdrew its 1957 "horse of the year" Thursday because of a minor leg injury.

This brought into the Widener field at least four others who had not been counted in the running against both Bold Ruler and Iron Liege. With Eddie Arcaro freed of his commitment on Bold Ruler, Hasty House Farm quickly engaged him and entered its grass-running star, Mahan, in the race.

Other surprise entries included Kingmaker, winner over Iron Liege at seven furlongs recently, Rockcastle and Beau Diable, a pair of outsiders.

Neville Boys In Semifinals At Spearsville

SPEARSVILLE, La. (Special)—Hico and Spearsville girls and Bernice and Farmerville boys won victories here last night to gain semi-final berths in the Spearsville Undergraduate Tournament.

Hico mastered Farmerville girls, 35-27, Spearsville routed Dubach, 40-18, Bernice boys whipped Junction City, 42-27, and Farmerville boys edged Dubach, 38-37.

Today Hico meets Spearsville at 12:30 and Junction City faces Lisbon at 1:40 in the girls semi-finals and Neville plays Spearsville at 2:50 and Bernice meets Farmerville at 4:00 in the boys semis. The girls finals will be at 7:15 and the boys at 8:30.

Broughton scored 16 points to pace Hico's girls to victory with White leading Farmerville with 14. Harris got 17 and Barron 13 for Spearsville girls and Colvin had 8 for Dubach.

Smith's 14 points was tops for Bernice boys and Tucker got 12 for Junction City. Redder led Farmerville with 11 points and Watts got 13 for Dubach boys.

Swede Gains TKO In 13th Over Erskine

GOTHENBURG Sweden (UP)—Ingemar Johansson, Sweden's undefeated European heavyweight champion, blasted Welshman Joe Erskine's dream of a shot at the world title Friday night by giving the British Empire champ such a beating he quit in his corner after the 13th round.

Johansson, weighing 197¼ pounds to Erskine's 192¾, was making his second defense of the European title before a sell-out 6,200 in Gothenburg's Fair Hall.

The 13th-round technical knockout was Johansson's 19th straight professional victory and it could earn him consideration as challenger for Floyd Patterson's world crown.

But Johansson said after the fight, "I have no intention of challenging Patterson until late in the year. If I do then."

(In New York, Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, refused to state whether he would have any objection to Johansson as challenger.).

Ed Matthews Leads 125-Mile Stock Run

By MERCER BAILEY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 21 (AP)—Edwin (Banjo) Matthews roared into the lead on the first lap and outsped a bulky field in the 125-mile NASCAR Sportsman modified stock car race today.

The Asheville, N.C., garage operator, driving a 1955 Ford with a 1958 Lincoln engine, crossed the finish line 29 seconds ahead of a fellow Tar Heel stater, Jimmy Thompson of Monroe.

Thompson drove a modified Ford.

Some clutch and oil pressure troubles, plus near disaster going into a turn after about 90 miles prevented the bespectacled 26-year old Matthews from setting a new record.

He covered the 31 laps around the 4.1-mile beach and road course in 1 hour 17 minutes and 1 second for an average speed of 97.381 miles an hour.

The record was set at 99.097 by Speedy Thompson of Charlotte, N.C., last year.

Glen Wood of Stuart, Va., who posted the fastest qualifying speed of 139.697 M.P.H., was third in a Ford Sportsman, Glenn (Fireball) Roberts of Daytona Beach was fourth in a modified Ford and Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich., fifth in a modified Oldsmobile.

Getting tremendous speed out of his jazzed up car on the 2-mile straightaways, Matthews steadily pulled away from his rivals until after 20 laps he had built a margin of about two minutes over Thompson.

Then, coming into the north turn off the beach stretch, cars in front of Matthews splashed a coat of sand across his windshield. Unable to see momentarily, Matthews missed the turn. His car shot over a small embankment but he whipped it into a tight circle and returned to the track.

The next time around, with nine laps to go, he was only 12 seconds ahead of Thompson. Matthews padded the margin before the checkered flag fell.

MITEFF GETS NOD

Valdes' Corner Crying Robbery

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight contender Alex Miteff fought through a mask of blood Friday night to win a split decision over big Nino Valdes in a bout which the defeated Cuban's manager charged was "in the bag."

While the beaten Valdes cried and screamed hysterically in Spanish, manager Bobby Gleason charged, "I heard rumors this morning that the fight was in the bag. And this decision proves it."

Miteff suffered a three-quarter-inch gash on the bridge of his nose in the second round of the television fight at Madison Square Garden and it spouted blood in every round thereafter as he came on to win.

But Valdes' manager charged loudly in the dressing room that his man had been "jobbed."

Went to Commission

"I went to the commission this morning and told them that by the way the betting was going, we would have to win by a knock-out," Gleason said. "Even in the ring tonight, the referee (Teddy Martin) said that "nothing could help us."

William Thomas, chief counsel for the New York Boxing Commission, admitted on his way out of the Garden that Gleason had been to see him Friday morning, but said there was no reason for any investigation at that point.

"We certainly will call him right in," Thomas said.

"These are serious charges and should get our immediate attention. And if they are unfounded, Gleason should be reprimanded."

Two days ago Miteff was favored at 8-5 because of his youth. But Friday night he entered the ring at even money despite Valdes' much greater experience, six straight victories and number five rating among heavyweight contenders against Miteff's No. 9 ranking.

Gleason, practically incoherent in the dressing room, asserted that the fight should have been stopped after several rounds because of the way Miteff was bleeding.

But, despite his charges, there was no question that Miteff, "the new wild bull of the pampas" had fought a game and gallant fight in the first heavyweight main event staged at the Garden in more than a year, and the goriest fight in the Garden in more than a decade.

Miteff, weighing 205 pounds to Valdes' 209½, suffered a deep cut on the bridge of his nose—slicing down sideways for three-fourths of an inch in the left side in the second round. And that gash spouted blood for the rest of the fight.

Referee Martin favored Miteff on a round basis, 6-4, as did Judge Harold Barnes, 5-4-1; but Judge Nick Gamboli had Valdes ahead, 6-3-1. The United Press favored Miteff, 5-4-1.

NEVILLE GIRLS WIN

Neville Catches Ouachita In Final Quarter, 55-52

A 19 - point uprising in the fourth quarter gave Neville a 55-52 triumph over Ouachita last night, its fourth straight of the year over the Lions.

Behind at one time by as much as 16 points, Neville's boys were behind, 43-36, entering the fateful fourth but they completely dominated that period with 19 points to only 9 for Ouachita, district 1-AAA champions.

The victory was number 29 for George Davis' Tigers against only six defeats. Second place in 2-AA, Neville is scheduled to close its season on the 25th at Tallulah.

The game was Ouachita's final tilt of the season and their 12th loss against 24 victories.

Fred Southerland and Francis Genusa starred for the winners with 22 and 19 points, respectively. Lanny Johnson paced Ouachita with 18 points, 10 of them in the first quarter, while Buddy Norred contributed 13 and Eddie McGowan 10.

Ouachita gained the lead for the last time with 5:40 remaining in the first quarter and kept it until the final quarter. By the end of the initial quarter, they had 15-10 advantage and ran wild in the first half of the second period, building up a 27-11 lead with 4:34 left.

Southerland almost singlehanded put Neville back in the ball game in the last four minutes, scoring four straight field goals and three free throws before Ouachita could put in another point. With 1:30 to go in the quarter, Southerland's last field goal made it, 27-22, but Norred broke the ice for Ouachita with 1:03 left to make it 29-22. At the halftime intermission, it was 29-22.

Ouachita had a two - point edge in the third quarter scoring, 14-12, and still lead at the start of the fourth, 43-36. The Lions began to topple with 4:05 left in the game when Genusa put in the first of his two straight field goals to make it 50-45. With 3:34 left, he made the other and then Southerland put in two charity tosses with 2:11 left to close the gap to one point, 50-49.

Neville's girls took their 22nd victory of the year with ease in the night's first game. They limited Ouachita to only five points in the third quarter and had a 53-30 lead at the end of that frame.

McDonald's 39 points dominated the scoring with Cecile Menuet's 11 being the next best for the winners. Carol Shipp led Ouachita with 16 points and Janis Holloway had 14.

MARCH 4 CARD

McKoin Meets Champion Of Maine In Match Here

Irish Johnny McKoin of Bastrop, who says Al Boudreaux, the Louisiana welterweight champ, has dodged a challenge for a title match here, will get an opponent "just as good and maybe better" when he faces Bobby Poller, Maine's welterweight state champion from Portland, in a ten-rounder here Tuesday night, March 4.

Promoter Gus Kallio yesterday announced the match is on and declared:

"Johnny wanted mighty bad to get Boudreaux in the ring again for this match, but Al wouldn't give a definite answer before leaving here earlier this week, and later communications with him at Westwego have been unsuccessful in the attempt to line him up as McKoin's opponent.

"Boudreaux barely squeezed through to the decision by one poin on the judges' cards in his title fight with Johnny, and it looks like he is none to anxious to swap punches with McKoin again.

"But this boy Poller, moving into this territory for some fight dates in Texas, became available about the same time and readily accepted the spot opposite McKoin. Poller is a 142-pounder with a good reputation up east. McKoin, eager to face any good fighters in his weight, has already started training for the match.

"Poller is just as good or maybe better than Boudreaux and will certainly offer a good opportunity match for McKoin."

Promoter Kallio said he is also seeking a suitable opponent for Dewayne Garris, a KO winner in his last two fights, who stopped Jerry Parker, Shreveport, in the first round last Monday. Garris, always tall, has begun filling out and is a much stronger fighter than the youngster who came out of Farmerville a few years ago to launch his boxing career.

Ruhl Brumley, Oak Grove, challenged Paul Estrada, Austin, Tex., Spaniard who beat Jimmy Rankin, Shreveport, here Monday, but may accept a bout with J. D. Laird, 126-pounder of Houston, Tex., instead. Laird fought at the ball park here a year and a half ago and was a very impressive little man

Jesse Goins, Monroe's Negro welterweight who is looking better with each match, also is due for a bout on the next card. He knocked out James Singleton, Shreveport, in his last outing.

"Jesse is ready for some stronger opposition," Kallio said. "If he continues his steady improvement he'll really go places."

Southeastern At La. Tech Tonight

RUSTON, Feb. 20 (Special) — Already assured of a winning season, Louisiana Tech's basketball team has an opportunity to rack up its best won-loss record since the 1954-55 campaign.

Currently holding a 13-9 mark in all games played, the Tech Bulldogs will clash with Southeastern Louisiana at Ruston Saturday night in the first of three final Gulf States Conference battles on the home court. Tip-off time at Tech's Memorial Gymnasium will come at 8 p.m.

Following the SLC encounter the Techmen will play host to Northeast State on Feb. 28 and to Northwestern State on March 3. clean sweep of this trio of GSC contests will give the Bulldogs a 5-5 loop mark and a 16-9 season record for 1957-58.

Tech and Southeastern, each with 2-5 conference marks, are currently sharing the fourth place position in the Gulf States race. Coach Luther Marlar's Southeasterners defeated the Canine five in a 59-50 tussle at Hammond on Jan. 14. That was Tech's first league tilt of the season and started the Canines on a six-game losing streak.

However, since turning back Tech at Hammond the Lions have had their trouble, too. Only last week was SLC able to stop a seven-game losing string. Southeastern will bring a 9-13 season record into Saturday night's contest. Tech has now won 13 and dropped nine.

Starters for the Lions Saturday will probably be Harvey Theriot and David Glisson at forwards, Bradley McPherson at center, and James Casabat and Paul Pietri at guards. Tech's starting unit the last several games has been Gary Richardson and J. W. Mercer at forwards, Jack Moreland at center, and Charles Frye and Ron Woodward at guards.

Glisson is currently leading the Southeastern scoring with this total of 328 points and a 16 per game average. The Lone Oak, Ky., senior is the fourth highest point-maker in GSC competition with a 15.1 average in seven tilts this winter.

Big guns in the 59-50 victory for SLC when the Lions met Tech on Jan. 14 were Theriot with 14 points, Glisson with 13, and Casabat with 12. Leading the Techmen were center Moreland with 24 and guard Frye with 12. Coach Cecil Crowley's Bulldogs dropped in 20 field goals to 18 for Southeastern but the Lions won the tussle when they made good on 23 out of 34 free throws. Tech cashed in on 10 of 17 charity tosses.

Southeastern has not been able to win over the Bulldogs at Ruston the past three seasons. SLC's last victory at Memorial Gym was a 68-79 win during the 1953-54 campaign.

U.S. Amateurs Beaten On Ice By Canadians

OSLO, Norway (UP) — The Whitby Dunlops of Canada trimmed the United States team, 9-2, Friday in an amateur ice hockey game marred by a free for all.

A violent fight broke out between Billy Christian of Warroad, Minn., and Bus Gagnon of the Canadian team at the start of the second period. Players from both teams rushed into the brawl and it took more than five minutes for the two Russian referees to restore order. They handed two minute penalties to Christian and Gagnon.

Forward Johnny Mayasich of Eveleth, Minn., was the offensive standout for the U. S. squad. He set up a first period goal for Wendell Olson of Marquette, Mich. and scored himself with nine minutes gone by in the last period.

Bobby Attersley and Connie Broden each scored two goals for the Dunlops, who rank among the favorites for the world amateur championships here next week. The U.S. squad also will play in the tournament.

Wright Is Top Small College Cage Scorer

NEW YORK (UP) — Teddy Wright of South Carolina State remained on top Friday in small college basketball's individual scoring race, while Ed Kazakavich of Scranton moved into second place.

Wright averaged more than 30 points a game in January but tapered off last week and his average now stands at 28.0 per game. South Carolina State has completed its regular schedule but is in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference tournament at Tuskegee, Ala., and Wright's showing there also will count in the scoring race. The latest NCAA figures include games of Feb. 15.

Kazakavich, who has averaged 32 points a game in his last eight starts, ends his regular season Saturday night against King's (Pa.) College. He has a 26.9 average.

Rudy Finderson of Brandeis (Mass.) University, third with a 26.6 average, has four more regular season games. Bennie Swain of Texas Southern, college basketball's most accurate field goal shooter this year, is fourth with a 26.4 mark.

Swain has made .652 per cent of his field goal attempts, 217 out of 333. His teammate, Wellie Taylor, rates second in accuracy with a .634 mark.

Texas Southern, led by these two 6-8 deadeyes, hopes to become the first small college team to sink 50 per cent of its field goal tries. The team now has a .535 average. However, South Carolina State and Tennessee State also are over the .500 mark with .506 and .505, respectively.

West Virginia Tech is closing in on its fourth straight offense title. It leads with a 106.4-point average for 22 games. Grambling (La.) was second with 934.

McNeese (La.) State led in team defense, allowing only 46.1 points per game. S.F. Austin (Tex.) was second with a 48.3 average. The team offense and defense figures includes games of Feb. 20.

Area Beauties 'Sweethearts' Of Gentlemen

SICILY ISLAND, La. (Special)— Miss Doris Lynn Knotts and Miss Bettye Will Larche were crowned basketball sweethearts of the Centenary Gents in halftime ceremonies Thursday evening at the Hirsch Memorial Youth Center in Shreveport.

The two co-eds were elected by members of the team and were crowned between halves. Although the Gents normally elect one sweetheart, a tie resulted in the naming of two sweethearts for the 1957-58 season.

Frosh Athletes Honor Students At Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — (UP) — Four freshman athletes have qualified for Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honor society, at Texas A&M and five others also made the dean's list of distinguished students.

The four top students were Robert May of Highland Park, football; Don Isett, Garland, track; Elliott Craig, Beaumont, basketball and Charles Martell, Orange, football. May and Isett owned straight "A" with 3.0 grade points, Craig had 2.94 and Martell 2.62.

Others on the dean's list were freshmen track athletes Harvey Cash of Pelhm, N. Y., Charles Rollins of Mobile, Ala., and Ray Vance of McAllen; gridder Jerry Hendrix of Commerce and basketball-baseball star Joe Brooks Thompson of Bryan.

Burns Opposes Bell In South Atlantic Final

Miss Bell, state champion from Wichita, Kan., beat Mrs. Phillip Cudone, West Caldwell, N.J., 1-up in 19 holes. Miss Burns defeated Mrs. Barbara Romack Porter, Sacramento, Calif., 2-up.

Judy was two down at the end of the front nine, but it was a different story on the back side. Still two down going to the par-three 14th hole, Judy's tee shot landed six feet from the pin and she sank the putt. She evened the match on the par five 16th hole.

The two golfers halved the next two holes and went into a sudden death playoff.

Miss Burns, Greensboro, N.C., also was two down after the front nine. But she won hands down by taking five of the next nine holes.

Miss Burns and Miss Bell meet in the 36-hole finals over the Ellinor Village Country Club course Saturday.

Badgers Can Scramble Big 10 Cage Race

By GENE BLUDEAU
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP) — Last place Wisconsin gets a chance to give the Big Ten basketball lead a new bounce when it meets league leading Michigan State Saturday night.

The leadership in the closest race in 50 years has been relatively stable of late. The Spartans grabbed it last Saturday afternoon and successfully defended it Monday night. Earlier the race had a different pace-setter or pace-setters after every round of play.

If the Badgers can overcome the formidable home team advantage and the best bunch of rebounders in the conference, they will knock the Spartans out of sole possession and give Purdue a chance to move in for a share.

All the Boilermakers have to do is defeat Minnesota, their Saturday night visitor. A Boilermaker win and a Michigan State defeat would give each team a 7-4 record. The two leaders could fight it out Monday night when they clash on the Purdue court.

It was more likely, however, that the Spartans would retain their half-game lead over Purdue by beating Wisconsin. The Badgers tagged the Spartans, 66-52, for one of their three victories and one of the Spartans three losses early in the campaign at Madison, Wis.

The Purdue-Minnesota clash is also a return engagement. The Gophers as hosts trimmed the Boilermakers, 83-70, in a conference opener.

A third Saturday night may also hold the key to the championship. In this contest third place Ohio State meets Indiana for the second time this season.

The Buckeyes, winning their first game on the road, trimmed the Hoosiers, 93-83, Monday night. Playing on the home floor, the Buckeyes were favored to win again and improve their current 7-5 mark in league competition.

The Bucks may have more trouble this time with the top conference marksman, Archie Dees, whom they held to a mere 19 points. The towering Hoosier center isn't accustomed to being throttled for such a meager total twice in succession.

Dodgers Flying Colors Of Los Angeles At Last

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers died and the Los Angeles Dodgers were officially born Friday when the trans-planted team took the field for the first time in spring training.

Junior College Texas Tourney Opens Monday

BRENHAM, Tex. (UP) — Pairings for the State Junior College Conference basketball tournament opening in San Antonio Monday were announced Friday.

First-round games Monday include:

2 p. m.—South Texas (Houston) vs. Navarro (Corsicana).

4 p. m.—Odessa vs. Lon Morris (Jacksonville).

7 p. m.—Frank Phillips (Borger) vs. Paris.

9 p. m.—Robert E. Lee (Baytown) vs. Decatur.

The first and second place teams in each of four zones of the Texas Junior College Conference will compete for the state title.

Semifinal and championship games are scheduled Tuesday.

AT LAKE PROVIDENCE

'Shot' Myers Wins McCurdy Memorial

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) — George "Shot" Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee S. Myers, received the Buddy McCurdy Award at the annual football banquet honoring the members of the Lake Providence Panther team. The award is made to the best senior football player, in memory of the late Buddy McCurdy, who was a member of the Panther team prior to his death.

Drew Blackstock, Bill Burton, Thomas Corley, Ned Edmonson, Tommy Ellis, Wayne Frith, Donald Wayne Greer, David Haggard, Dick Muirhead, George Myers, J. O. Nelson Jr., Leon Overby, Walter Parker, Thomas Ragland, Billy Regenold, Robert Rentz Jr., Bill Richardson, Purvis Thomas, Donald Whitehead, Jimmy Wilson and Donald Lee. Those who lettered for the first time recived jackets, the two year lettermen were presented with gold footballs and the three year lettermen recived belt buckles.

The McCurdy Award was presented to Myers, who played guard for the Panthers, by Coach Jimmy Herrington. This coveted award, given by the family of McCurdy, is a large trophy, which remains at the school. Each boy who is the recipient of the award has the honor of having his name placed on the name plate of the trophy. Last year's winner (which was the first time the award was given) went to Dickie Landrem.

St. John's Joins NIT Entry List

By UNITED PRESS

St. John's was added to the National Invitation Tournament and Temple said it is pondering a berth in the NCAA tournament Friday in the latest developments in college basketball's post-season picture.

St. John's (12-6) was the sixth team picked for the 12-team NIT at Madison Square Garden, March 13-22. The Redmen, coached by Joe Lapchick, are the only school to win the NIT two straight years, in 1943 and '44.

Previously picked for the NIT were Dayton, St. Bonaventure, Niagara, St. Peter's, and Fordham.

Temple Athletic Director Josh Cody said he still has "misgivings" about whether the Owls, the nation's sixth-ranked team, should play in the NCAA tournament. Temple almost certainly will be named as the Middle Atlantic Conference representative for that tourney when the conference meets next Monday.

Doubt has been expressed as to the reception Temple, with several Negro players, would get in the first-round regional competition at Charlotte, N.C. However, Owl Coach Harry Litwack said "I can't conceive the NCAA selecting a site at which everything wouldn't be all right." Charlotte officials ve assured Temple of an unrehave assured Temple of an unrestricted welcome.

The University of Buffalo (14-3) became the 10th team added to the 32-team NCAA small college tournament.

Previously in the field were Wheaton, Southwest Missouri, Adelphi, Evansville of Indiana, Chapman, Hope, Austin Peay, Regis, and Arkansas State.

The small college tournament will include 14 conference champions and 18 "at large entrants." Eight regional tournaments, March 7-8, will cut the field to eight regional champions who will meet in the championship flight at Evansville, Ind., March 12-14.

HOME COURTS HELP?

Porkers, Raiders Battle To Hold Southwest Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Apprehensive Texas Tech and Arkansas take to the high road Saturday with their Southwest Conference basketball co- leadership hanging perilously in the balance in the face of the home court advantage that has ruled much of the action this tempestuous campaign.

Texas Tech faces perhaps the most formidable task — that of tying into Southern Methodist at Dallas where Coach Doc Hayes' defending champs haven't lost a regular season game at home in more than four years.

Arkansas must visit Aggieland, where Texas A&M has proved extremely troublesome for all invaders.

Both Arkansas and Tech are the only clubs that have managed to win more than they lost on the road, each having won three of five starts away from home in addition to 4-1 records on their own floors.

That combination gives each a 7-3 record as compared to 6-4 for runners-up SMU and Rice, which incidentally, also will have the familiar confines of its own court against Texas Christian as the owls bid to stay in contention.

The race could well have a four way tie for the lead after Saturday's activity. A combination of victories by SMU, Rice and Texas A&M would leave Arkansas, Tech, SMU and Rice with identical 7-4 records.

The Tech team will pack more than a touch of home with it when it seeks to shatter SMU's 44-game home victory string. A crowd of 1,300 Tech fans, including 400 on a special train and the Tech band, will help pack the sold-out SMU Coliseum to its 9,000 capacity.

But, the same won't be true for Arkansas, which also must worry about still another road game — at Rice Monday— before it can get back to its home base in the Ozarks for the final two games of the race.

Texas and Baylor also will get together Saturday at Waco, but there will be nothing at stake except Baylor's pride in its recent two - game victory streak that stunned both Rice and TCU.

Sally Elects Wolfson As Loop Leader

He succeeds Bill Terry, who resigned last month and now heads a group of Jacksonville businessmen who bought the Jacksonville club from Wolfson. Wolfson was elected unanimously by the directors on the second ballot.

Others considered for the post were Jimmy Gaston of Augusta and a former owner of the Greenville, S. C. Sally Franchis; Clark Sandlin of Knoxville, Tenn., and James Loring of Muskegon, Mich.

Wolfson's baseball background goes back to 1930 when he played at the University of Georgia. He brought the Jacksonville club five seasons ago and three of his teams won Sally pennants.

Wolfson said he hopes he will be able to do as good a job in the position as his immediate predecessor, Terry, and Dick Butler, whom Terry succeeded.

"I am proud the fellows have selected me and I will do everything I can to keep the league going. I hope we will be able to return to an eight-club status and feel sure this can be accomplished."

Wolfson is secretary and treasurer of wolfson Enterprises. The 47-year-old investment executive said he plans to be extremely active and frequently visit all clubs in the league. The league provides a president's salary of $4,800 a year but Wolfson will serve without pay, office rent or travel expenses.

MARCH 4 CARD

McKoin Meets Champion Of Maine In Match Here

Irish Johnny McKoin of Bastrop, who says Al Boudreaux, the Louisiana welterweight champ, has dodged a challenge for a title match here, will get an opponent "just as good and maybe better" when he faces Bobby Poller, Maine's welterweight state champion from Portland, in a ten-rounder here Tuesday night, March 4.

Promoter Gus Kallio yesterady announced the match is on and declared:

"Johnny wanted mighty bad to get Boudreaux in the ring again for this match, but Al wouldn't give a definite answer before leaving here earlier this week, and later communications with him at Westwego have been unsuccessful in the attempt to line him up as McKoin's opponent.

"Boudreaux barely squeezed through to the decision by one poin on the judges' cards in his title fight with Johnny, and it looks like he's none to anxious to swap punches with McKoin again.

"But this boy Poller, moving into this territory for some fight dates in Texas, became available about the same time and readily accepted the spot opposite McKoin. Poller is a 142-pounder with a good reputation up east. McKoin, eager to face any good fighters in his weight, has already started training for the match.

"Poller is just as good or maybe better than Boudreaux and will certainly offer a good opportunity match for McKoin."

Promoter Kallio said he is also seeking a suitable opponent for Dewayne Garris, a KO winner in his last two fights, who stopped Jerry Parker, Shreveport, in the first round last Monday. Garris, always tall, has begun filling out and is a much stronger fighter than the youngster who came out of Farmerville a few years ago to launch his boxing career.

Ruhl Brumley, Oak Grove, challenged Paul Estrada, Austin, Tex., Spaniard who beat Jimmy Rankin, Shreveport, here Monday, but may accept a bout with J. D. Laird, 126-pounder of Houston, Tex., instead. Laird fought at the ball park here a year and a half ago and was a very impressive little man

Jesse Goins, Monroe's Negro welterweight who is looking better with each match, also is due for a bout on the next card. He knocked out James Singleton, Shreveport, in his last outing.

"Jesse is ready for some stronger opposition," Kallio said. "If he continues his steady improvement he'll really go places."

Southeastern At La. Tech Tonight

RUSTON, Feb. 20 (Special) — Already assured of a winning season, Louisiana Tech's basketball team has an opportunity to rack up its best won-loss record since the 1954-55 campaign.

Currently holding a 13-9 mark in all games played, the Tech Bulldogs will clash with Southeastern Louisiana at Ruston Saturday night in the first of three final Gulf States Conference battles on the home court. Tip-off time at Tech's Memorial Gymnasium will come at 8 p.m.

Following the SLC encounter the Techmen will play host to Northeast State on Feb. 28 and to Northwestern State on March 3. clean sweep of this trio of GSC contests will give the Bulldogs a 5-5 loop mark and a 16-9 season record for 1957-58.

Tech and Southeastern, each with 2-5 conference marks, are currently sharing the fourth place position in the Gulf States race. Coach Luther Marlar's Southeasterners defeated the Canine five in a 59-50 tussle at Hammond on Jan. 14. That was Tech's first league tilt of the season and started the Canines on a six-game losing streak.

However, since turning back Tech at Hammond the Lions have had their trouble, too. Only last week was SLC able to stop a seven-game losing string. Southeastern will bring a 9-13 season record into Saturday night's contest. Tech has now won 13 and dropped nine.

Starters for the Lions Saturday will probably be Harvey Theriot and David Glisson at forwards, Bradley McPherson at center, and James Casabat and Paul Pietri at guards. Tech's starting unit the last several games has been Gary Richardson and J. W. Mercer at forwards, Jack Moreland at center, and Charles Frye and Ron Woodward at guards.

Glisson is currently leading the Southeastern scoring with this total of 328 points and a 16 per game average. The Lone Oak, Ky., senior is the fourth highest point-maker in GSC competition with a 15.1 average in seven tilts this winter.

Big guns in the 59-50 victory for SLC when the Lions met Tech on Jan. 14 were Theriot with 14 points, Glisson with 13, and Casabat with 12. Leading the Techmen were center Moreland with 24 and guard Frye with 12. Coach Cecil Crowley's Bulldogs dropped in 20 field goals to 18 for Southeastern but the Lions won the tussle when they made good on 23 out of 34 free throws. Tech cashed in on 10 of 17 charity tosses.

Southeastern has not been able to win over the Bulldogs at Ruston the past three seasons. SLC's last victory at Memorial Gym was a 68-79 win during the 1953-54 campaign.

Drew Blackstock, Bill Burton, Thomas Corley, Ned Edmonson, Tommy Ellis, Wayne Frith, Donald Wayne Greer, David Haggard, Dick Muirhead, George Myers, J. O. Nelson Jr., Leon Overby, Walter Parker, Thomas Ragland, Billy Regenold, Robert Rentz Jr., Bill Richardson, Purvis Thomas, Donald Whitehead, Jimmy Wilson and Donald Lee. Those who lettered for the first time recived jackets, the two year lettermen were presented with gold footballs and the three year lettermen recived belt buckles.

The McCurdy Award was presented to Myers, who played guard for the Panthers, by Coach Jimmy Herrington. This coveted award, given by the family of McCurdy, is a large trophy, which remains at the school. Each boy who is the recipient of the award has the honor of having his name placed on the name plate of the trophy. Last year's winner (which was the first time the award was given) went to Dickie Landrem.

Burns Opposes Bell In South Atlantic Final

Miss Bell, state champion from Wichita, Kan., beat Mrs. Phillip Cudone, West Caldwell, N.J., 1-up in 19 holes. Miss Burns defeated Mrs. Barbara Romack Porter, Sacramento, Calif., 2-up.

Judy was two down at the end of the front nine, but it was a different story on the back side. Still two down going to the par-three 14th hole, Judy's tee shot landed six feet from the pin and she sank the putt. She evened the match on the par five 16th hole.

The two golfers halved the next two holes and went into a sudden death playoff.

Miss Burns, Greensboro, N.C., also was two down after the front nine. But she won hands down by taking five of the next nine holes.

Miss Burns and Miss Bell meet in the 36-hole finals over the Ellinor Village Country Club course Saturday.

Badgers Can Scramble Big 10 Cage Race

By GENE BLUDEAU
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP) — Last place Wisconsin gets a chance to give the Big Ten basketball lead a new bounce when it meets league leading Michigan State Saturday night.

The leadership in the closest race in 50 years has been relatively stable of late. The Spartans grabbed it last Saturday afternoon and successfully defended it Monday night. Earlier the race had a different pace-setter or pace-setters after every round of play.

If the Badgers can overcome the formidable home team advantage and the best bunch of rebounders in the conference, they will knock the Spartans out of sole possession and give Purdue a chance to move in for a share.

All the Boilermakers have to do is defeat Minnesota, their Saturday night visitor. A Boilermaker win and a Michigan State defeat would give each team a 7-4 record. The two leaders could fight it out Monday night when they clash on the Purdue court.

It was more likely, however, that the Spartans would retain their half-game lead over Purdue by beating Wisconsin. The Badgers tagged the Spartans, 66-52, for one of their three victories and one of the Spartans three losses early in the campaign at Madison, Wis.

The Purdue-Minnesota clash is also a return engagement. The Gophers as hosts trimmed the Boilermakers, 83-70, in a conference opener.

A third Saturday night may also hold the key to the championship. In this contest third place Ohio State meets Indiana for the second time this season.

The Buckeyes, winning their first game on the road, trimmed the Hoosiers, 93-83, Monday night. Playing on the home floor, the Buckeyes were favored to win again and improve their current 7-5 mark in league competition.

The Bucks may have more trouble this time with the top conference marksman, Archie Dees, whom they held to a mere 19 points. The towering Hoosier center isn't accustomed to being throttled for such a meager total twice in succession.

Junior College Texas Tourney Opens Monday

BRENHAM, Tex. (UP) — Pairings for the State Junior College Conference basketball tournament opening in San Antonio Monday were announced Friday.

First-round games Monday include:

2 p. m.—South Texas (Houston) vs. Navarro (Corsicana).

4 p. m.—Odessa vs. Lon Morris (Jacksonville).

7 p. m.—Frank Phillips (Borger) vs. Paris.

9 p. m.—Robert E. Lee (Baytown) vs. Decatur.

The first and second place teams in each of four zones of the Texas Junior College Conference will compete for the state title.

Semifinal and championship games are scheduled Tuesday.

St. John's Joins NIT Entry List

By UNITED PRESS

St. John's was added to the National Invitation Tournament and Temple said it is pondering a berth in the NCAA tournament Friday in the latest developments in college basketball's post-season picture.

St. John's (12-6) was the sixth team picked for the 12-team NIT at Madison Square Garden, March 13-22. The Redmen, coached by Joe Lapchick, are the only school to win the NIT two straight years, in 1943 and '44.

Previously picked for the NIT were Dayton, St. Bonaventure, Niagara, St. Peter's, and Fordham.

Temple Athletic Director Josh Cody said he still has "misgivings" about whether the Owls, the nation's sixth-ranked team, should play in the NCAA tournament. Temple almost certainly will be named as the Middle Atlantic Conference representative for that tourney when the conference meets next Monday.

Doubt has been expressed as to the reception Temple, with several Negro players, would get in the first-round regional competition at Charlotte, N.C. However, Owl Coach Harry Litwack said "I can't conceive the NCAA selecting a site at which everything wouldn't be all right." Charlotte officials ve assured Temple of an unrehave assured Temple of an unrestricted welcome.

The University of Buffalo (14-3) became the 10th team added to the 32-team NCAA small college tournament.

Previously in the field were Wheaton, Southwest Missouri, Adelphi, Evansville of Indiana, Chapman, Hope, Austin Peay, Regis, and Arkansas State.

The small college tournament will include 14 conference champions and 18 "at large entrants." Eight regional tournaments, March 7-8, will cut the field to eight regional champions who will meet in the championship flight at Evansville, Ind., March 12-14.

Brocato Named On Magazine's All-Star Team

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Coach J. G. "Red" Robertson said today that Ferriday's all-state fullback Tony Brocato received honorable mention on the high school All-American team, as published by the Scholastic Coach magazine.

Brocato was twice all-state at end, and was named all-state at his new position of fullback, before making the honorable mention on the All-American team.

HOME COURTS HELP?

By UNITED PRESS

Apprehensive Texas Tech and Arkansas take to the high road Saturday with their Southwest Conference basketball co- leadership hanging perilously in the balance in the face of the home court advantage that has ruled much of the action this tempestuous campaign.

Texas Tech faces perhaps the most formidable task — that of tying into Southern Methodist at Dallas where Coach Doc Hayes' defending champs haven't lost a regular season game at home in more than four years.

Arkansas must visit Aggieland, where Texas A&M has proved extremely troublesome for all invaders.

Both Arkansas and Tech are the only clubs that have managed to win more than they lost on the road, each having won three of five starts away from home in addition to 4-1 records on their own floors.

That combination gives each a 7-3 record as compared to 6-4 for runners-up SMU and Rice, which incidentally, also will have the familiar confines of its own court against Texas Christian as the owls bid to stay in contention.

The race could well have a four way tie for the lead after Saturday's activity. A combination of victories by SMU, Rice and Texas A&M would leave Arkansas, Tech, SMU and Rice with identical 7-4 records.

The Tech team will pack more than a touch of home with it when it seeks to shatter SMU's 44-game home victory string. A crowd of 1,300 Tech fans, including 400 on a special train and the Tech band, will help pack the sold-out SMU Coliseum to its 9,000 capacity.

But, the same won't be true for Arkansas, which also must worry about still another road game — at Rice Monday— before it can get back to its home base in the Ozarks for the final two games of the race.

Texas and Baylor also will get together Saturday at Waco, but there will be nothing at stake except Baylor's pride in its recent two - game victory streak that stunned both Rice and TCU.

Antonelli Takes Terms Of Giants For '58 Season

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Pitcher Johnny Antonelli, considered the key to whatever success the Giants hope to have in their first pennant race in San Francisco, agreed to terms Friday—for an estimated $25,000 per year.

Giant Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney said that with Antonelli's agreement and the signing of infielder Jim Finigan earlier in the day that the San Francisco roster now was complete for the 1958 campaign.

Sally Elects Wolfson As Loop Leader

He succeeds Bill Terry, who resigned last month and now heads a group of Jacksonville businessmen who bought the Jacksonville club from Wolfson. Wolfson was elected unanimously by the directors on the second ballot.

Others considered for the post were Jimmy Gaston of Augusta and a former owner of the Greenville, S. C. Sally Franchis; Clark Sandlin of Knoxville, Tenn., and James Loring of Muskegon, Mich.

Wolfson's baseball background goes back to 1930 when he played at the University of Georgia. He brought the Jacksonville club five seasons ago and three of his teams won Sally pennants.

Wolfson said he hopes he will be able to do as good a job in the position as his immediate predecessor, Terry, and Dick Butler, whom Terry succeeded.

"I am proud the fellows have selected me and I will do everything I can to keep the league going. I hope we will be able to return to an eight-club status and feel sure this can be accomplished."

Wolfson is secretary and treasurer of wolfson Enterprises. The 47-year-old investment executive said he plans to be extremely active and frequently visit all clubs in the league. The league provides a president's salary of $4,800 a year but Wolfson will serve without pay, office rent or travel expenses.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Answers To Child's Reading Problems

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are two letters of divergent opinions which came in response to one which dealt with a child's poor reading.

Mrs. N. C. writes, "A child's adjustment and learning problems in school are more often traceable to his relations with his parents, especially his mother, than to purely physical causes. Schools offer physical examinations to every child and most conditions are caught and the parents notified. A child who feels neglected or unloved is, on the contrary, unable to produce to his full capacity in school.

"I am a former teacher staying home caring for my family. We do not have as much materially as if I worked, but neither do we have the feeding, training or nervous problems many working mothers are having with their children.

"My Camp Fire activities satisfy my need for an outside interest and let me continue to work with children. Perhaps some working mothers with problem children would do well to consider staying home and providing them a relaxed home atmosphere with a loving, interested mother. It is too easy at times to neglect our primary duties and take for granted the privileges of family living."

Second Letter

Mr. K. H. writes, "The woman who asks for suggestions about her boy's poor reading, should know that in the last decade or so schools have thrown away the old style method of teaching reading by phonics and have substituted the word method. With this word method they have gone backward 1500 years. The continent is the only place where this method is used and the only place in the world where they have trouble teaching children to read.

"The immediate answer to this mother is to get someone to teach her child phonics — she'll get no help from the teachers as they have had other training."

Author's Comment

This seems to me unnecessarily harsh because most schools, in my home town, at least, teach a combination of word method and phonics. The word method is at least 40 years old — not just a decade.

Why children can't read is a very complex subject and cannot be answered by any one way of teaching. It may be due to defective vision, "emotional blocks" home situations, physical handicaps and on and on. Let's be fair —even if most older parents are truly dedicated to phonics as opposed to the word method. Thank you both for writing.

Kicks Come In Many Forms, Even Hurricanes

By DOROTHY ROE

Some women raise double-ruffled petunias. Joanne Malkus gets her kicks by flying into hurricanes.

This rather wispy, timid-looking blonde is in fact one of the five top meteorologists in the world, and besides her hurricane research runs a big home in Woods Hole, Mass., does all the cooking for her husband and two sons, and is an expert at most sports, particularly skiing and sailing.

Joanne is head of the meteorology department at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, and in addition teaches the subject at MIT. Her specialty is tropical storms, and she's never happier than when flying over a Pacific typhoon or an Atlantic hurricane.

"The clouds are beautiful," says she, with the expression of a mother admiring her first-born. "There's nothing more majestic than a tropical storm, seen from the air."

Last summer Mrs. Malkus made three round trips across the Pacific photographing the breeding grounds of typhoons, collecting data on why and how storms develop.

Most of her work is done for the Office of Naval Research, in a special DC3 assigned to her by the Navy, complete with pilot, crew and camera man.

WHY GROW OLD?

Include Eyeglasses In Daily Grooming

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It is surprising how many women who are beautifully groomed in all other ways are careless about keeping the glass in their eye glasses clear and shining. One such friend of mine went to have her eyes examined and receivd the following reprimand from the oculist. He said, "Anyone who can see as well as you can through glasses as dirty as these must have near perfect vision."

Glasses should be cleaned several times a day since they become clouded very easily. This places a strain on your eyes and certainly detracts from your appearance.

Poor Lighting

Poor lighting accounts for a great deal of eye strain. We all know this and yet we all are thoughtless about it at times. Reading light should come from behind us, either from the left or the right. The reading light should not be the only one in the room. There also should be general lighting. When you look at television, have one light on. This decreases eye strain.

It has been estimated that four hours a day of close eyework is really all we should do. If you use your eyes for six or more hours a day you should also give your eyes little rest periods. The act of taking your eyes from close focus (looking at the end of your finger, for instance) and then looking at the far horizon is a restful procedure.

Hard on Eyes

Reading in bed is hard on the eyes because of the position of the book in relation to your eyes. For this reason many people use a backrest when reading before going to sleep at night.

Nutrition has a direct effect on the eyes just as it does on the rest of the body. Malnutrition accounts for some eye difficulties while good nutrition and general health habits are beneficial to these important orbs.

When there is unexplained chronic fatigue, or eye irritation, then eye strain should be suspected. Folks also should have periodic eye examinations to check their glasses. As the years pass, the requirements of eye glasses often increase.

If you would like to have my eye exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 8. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Try Patterned Draperies For Bright Change

BETTY LENAHAN

Q.—We have just moved into a new home and I have a problem concerning draperies. The living room and den are separated by an archway. The walls of both rooms are beige, the woodwork is white and the rugs are also beige. The sofa in the living room is lime, one chair is upholstered in brown and the other in tangerine. There is a fireplace in the den and the furniture consists of a mahogany desk, a gold tweed lounge chair and a tapistry-covered barrel chair. Should I use the same draperies in both rooms, and should they be a solid color or a pattern and what colors would be best?

A.—Since there is no pattern in either your living room or den I advise using patterned draperies. A pattern in gold, green and tangerine on a copper background would be nice for both rooms.

Q.—I would like some help in selecting accessories for my bathroom. The wall tile is cinnamon with Persian tan trim and the floor tile and fixtures are tan. What colors would you suggest for the shower curtain, rug, hamper and towels?

A.—Accessories such as a gold and coral striped shower curtain, a turquoise rug, brass hamper and gold and aqua towels would add bright color notes to your bathroom.

Q.—I have a problem. We live in an old house and there is an exposed steam pipe from floor to ceiling in one corner of the living room. Is there anything that I can do to make it less obvious?

A.—The pipe can be hidden behind a straight or concave plywood panel painted to match walls.

Q.—What is your opinion of a leather sofa in a living room? I know they are often used in dens, but would one look too "cold" in a family living room? We recently moved into an apartment and naturally, having limited space, our living room gets hard use. The rest of the furniture is Early American and we would like the leather sofa because of its practicality. The walls of the room are an ivory tone and we plan to get a vari-colored oval braided rug and slipcovers for a pair of chairs. If we should get the sofa upholstered in green leather what colors would you advise for the slipcovers?

A.—Today leather is being used decoratively in any room in the house and is definitely not too "cold" for the living room sofa. If you get the sofa in green you could get the slipcovers for the pair of chairs in an allover provincial print in gold, red, green and ivory.

Q. — We are remodeling our home and have a small room which we are converting into a den. Would you suggest a color for the walls that would make the room appear larger?

A.—To make your small den appear larger I advise painting the walls and woodwork a light shade of lemon yellow.

Sandra Roberts Feted On Her Birthday Here

Sandra Kay Roberts was honored recently on her eighth birthday with a party in her home. Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Roberts, West Monroe.

A selection of games were played before the traditional cake was served with ice cream to Alicia Albritton, Debbie Butler, Cleve Brooks, John Ellen Brown, Mike Albritton, Ronnie Freeman, Cathy Head, Pamela Rich, Donald Cummins, Annette Head, Bill Cooper, Mary Kathryn Rainey, Donna Whitehead, Billye June Barrey, Deborah Albritton, Betty Roberts and Tuck Roberts.

Luncheon And Bridge Hosted For Y'Ves

A bridge luncheon, in addition to the regular meeting, was held on Wednesday for Y'ves and their guests. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. J. R. Hood, Mrs. E. S. Heller, Mrs. Paul H. Johnson Jr., and Mrs. Carl Davis.

Spring flowers in bright colors were noted in lovely arrangements throughout the reception rooms.

The head table in the dining room bore blossoms interspersed with fruits. The smaller tables held corresponding arrangements.

Following the luncheon, members and their guests adjourned to the card tables for an afternoon of bridge.

Tennessee Gas Women Hold Home Meeting

A delightful time was had by the members of the Tennessee Gas Transmission group who met in the home of Mrs. James T. Smith for a conversation hour.

Ladies present were Mrs. B. J. Walker, Mrs. Walter Moses, Mrs. Cotten Smith, Mrs. Russell Blackman, Mrs. Buddy Clegg, Mrs. Thelma Chambers with the members mentioned above.

Cerebral Palsy PTA Holds Its Monthly Meet

The regular meeting of the Cerebral Palsy P-T.A. was held in commemoration of Founder's Day. Guest speaker for the program was Mrs. Courtland McCoy, Fifth District President, who spoke on the Parent Teacher Association, first named National Congress of Mothers. The organization now has over ten million members.

Mrs. C. D. Maulding Jr., president, conducted the business session. Named for the Nominating Committee were Mrs. U. B. Smith, Mrs. W. M. Rasberry and Mrs. K. Adams. A slate of officers to be elected will be submitted at the next meeting.

Mrs. S. E. Morris was selected as delegate to the Spring Conference, March 4, in Linnville.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Walter Dunn and Mrs. Irvin McDaniel.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Many Dates Help To Find 'Perfect Mate'

Dear Ann: I'm deeply in love with a young man. We went steady all through high school and there wasn't a day in three years that we didn't see each other or talk on the phone.

When he left for college I missed him terribly. We wrote to each other almost every day. Then I noticed his letters began to cool off. When he came home for vacation I knew his feelings for me had changed. I heard he'd been dating some darling girls at college and I was hurt that he hadn't mentioned it.

When I asked him, he admitted it was true and suggested I date others because he wanted to be free to do the same.

I'm so heart - broken I don't care to go on living. I once heard it said that there's a perfect mate for every woman in the world. I'm sure he was mine. Now that he's gone what shall I do?—RITA

That "perfect mate" routine is a lot of eye-wash. Nothing in this life is perfect, and surely no human being. So forget this sick idea and go on from there.

The boy probably outgrew you — it's as simple as that. When he went to college and met other girls he decided it was a mistake to tie himself up forever to his first and only sweetheart.

His advice to you was excellent. I can't improve on it. Go with others and develop your intellect, your personality and your interests. I can't imagine anything more boring that the steady company of the same fellow starting at age 15.

Perhaps you two will wind up together, but for heaven's sake you owe it to yourselves to look around and base your decision on something that makes sense.

Dear Ann: In answer to B.H.'s letter who said being in the United States Army was like being in a prison camp, I say the guy is squirrely. Furthermore he has all the making of a dead man if he ever gets into a combat patrol. I've seen the results of the guys who resent authority and won't pay any attention to their squad leaders. They wind up in rows, commonly known as graves.

The service has a real problem teaching some of those pink-cheeked, pigheaded guys how to be fighting men. When they have the attitude that no jerk, former gasoline station - attendant is going to tell them what to do, because this is a "free - country" — that's where the trouble begins.

I hope I never wind up in the same unit with B. H. If I do, and he makes his presence known I'll flatten him for sure. —J.L.G.

Dear Ann: Will you p'ease tell me who is right — my husband or me: Our son is 43 and has made a mess of his life. He was in real estate but liquor ruined his business and his marriage. His wife left him three months ago and took their four children to live with her folks.

About a year ago this son borrowed $350 from us. He never did pay it back. My husband says he doesn't want to see the boy again because he's a dead-beat.

Now our son has realized what a mess he's made of things. He has joined A.A. and is trying hard to get back on his feet. I want to help him and make him feel welcome in the house. I hate to think that $350 would make this much difference. My husband says it's the "principle." Who is right?—MRS. F.P.

You're right, Mother, and I hope you can break Pa down and make him see it your way.

Of course your son should have repaid the debt. But perhaps now that he's trying to pull himself together, he will be able to return the money and get his life straightened around.

Give him all the encouragement and support you can. The Battle Of The Bottle is one of the toughest fights of all. Tell Dad now is the time to open his heart, not close the door.

CONFIDENTIALLY: RUSTY: you both lose. There is no federal law which requires a blood test and waiting period before marriage. And not all 48 states require it. Those which do not, are Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nevada, So. Carolina and Washington.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped self - addressed envelope.)

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Answers To Child's Reading Problems

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are two letters of divergent opinions which came in response to one which dealt with a child's poor reading.

Mrs. N. C. writes, "A child's adjustment and learning problems in school are more often traceable to his relations with his parents, especially his mother, than to purely physical causes. Schools offer physical eximinations to every child and most conditions are caught and the parents notified. A child who feels neglected or unloved is, on the contrary, unable to produce to his full capacity in school.

"I am a former teacher staying home caring for my family. We do not have as much materially as if I worked, but neither do we have the feeding, training or nervous problems many working mothers are having with their children.

"My Camp Fire activities satisfy my need for an outside interest and let me continue to work with children. Perhaps some working mothers with problem children would do well to consider staying home and providing them a relaxed home atmosphere with a loving, interested mother. It is too easy at times to neglect our primary duties and take for granted the privileges of family living."

Second Letter

Mr. K. H. writes, "The woman who asks for suggestions about her boy's poor reading, should know that in the last decade or so schools have thrown away the old style method of teaching reading by phonics and have substituted the word method. With this word method they have gone backward 1500 years. The continent is the only place where this method is used and the only place in the world where they have trouble teaching children to read.

"The immediate answer to this mother is to get someone to teach her child phonics — she'll get no help from the teachers as they have had other training."

Author's Comment

This seems to me unnecessarily harsh because most schools, in my home town, at least, teach a combination of word method and phonics. The word method is at least 40 years old — not just a decade.

Why children can't read is a very complex subject and cannot be answered by any one way of teaching. It may be due to defective vision, "emotional blocks" home situations, physical handicaps and on and on. Let's be fair —even if most older parents are truly dedicated to phonics as opposed to the word method. Thank you both for writing.

Mrs. Ratcliff Dies Suddenly Rites Pending

NEWELLTON (Special) —Sudden death yesterday claimed Mrs. Clyde V. Ratcliff, widow of the late state senator, and a resident of Newellton.

Mrs. Ratcliff was in a Vicksburg business estalishment when she was stricken. She had been very active in civic organizations and had attended both the Christ Episcopal church in St. Joseph and the Newellton Union church. She was the former Miss Carrie Lou Muir.

Senator Ratcliff, who died several years ago, was a prominent planter and civic leader.

Mrs. Ratcliff is survived by two sons, Clyde V. Ratcliff Jr. and Douglas H. Ratcliff, both of Newellton; two daughters, Mrs. J. C. Wilkerson of Newellton and Mrs. G. E. Thomas of New Orleans; two sisters, Mrs. P. C. Buford of St. Soseph and Miss Bessie Muir of Baton Rouge; several grandchildren and great - grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements last night were incomplete but will be under direction of the Crouthers Funeral home in Tallulah.

Blacktopping Project Under Consideration

An area bounded by the Arkansas Road, Jersey Street, Wellerman Road and Warren Drive in West Monroe is now under consideration for blacktopping.

Officials explained that property owners would pay for the project, which was termed "purely voluntary."

As the laying of new sewer lines through the area is virtually complete, the streets could now be blacktopped without having to be cut again for water or sewer lines, a spokesman pointed out.

Cost would be $1.50 per running foot for each property owner, it was announced.

WHILE THE COURT DEBATES — M/Sgt. Roy A. Rhodes, accused of espionage, is flanked by his wife and sister, Mrs. Arleen Brown, right, as he leaves the headquarters building at Ft. Leslie J. McNair, Washington, D. C. for lunch. The case against the 40-year-old Army sergeant, charged with plotting to sell out his country to Soviet Russia, has been turned over to a military court of 10 officers for determination of his guilt or innocence. He faces a possible sentence of dishonorable discharge and life imprisonment. (AP Wirephoto)

Benson Plans Price Supports

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson announced today that support prices for 1958 crops of such livestock feed grains as oats, barley, sorghum grain and rye will be maintained close to last year's levels.

He announced no rate for corn, the major feed grain.

The five feed grains will be supported at 70 per cent of their respective parity prices, the same as last year. But dollars-and-cents rates on some differ slightly from those of 1957 to reflect changes in parity.

Parity prices are standards for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

The 1958 rates, compared with 1957, include:

To Be Announced

Officials said the support price for corn will be announced soon. Last year's base rate was $1.40 a bushel or 77 per cent of parity.

Benson also announced that this year's crop of soybeans will be supported at last year's rate of $2.09 a bushel; flaxseed at $2.78 a bushel compared with $2.92 last year; cottonseed at $45 a ton for seed stored on farms under loans and $41 for seed purchased from producers compared with $46 and $42 respectively last year; dry beans at $6.18 a hundred pounds compared with $6.31 last year, and honey at 9.6 cents a pound compared with 9.7 last year.

The decision to hold the feed grain supports near last year's level came as a surprise. The administration's price support policies call for reductions in supports when supplies increase. Feed grain supplies have climbed above last year's levels to record size.

A factor which may have influenced Benson in holding the line on these supports was the possibility that lower feed prices might encourage an overexpansion in production of hogs, cattle, poultry and dairy products with resulting depressed prices for them. Prices for most of these commodities have risen from low levels of 1955, 1956 and early 1957.

The support rates for soybeans and honey were designed to reflect 70 per cent of parity, those for flaxseed and cottonseed 65 per cent, and for dry beans 68 per cent, all the same percentagewise as last year.

As in the past, all these commodities will be supported by means of loans on supplies withheld from the market or on supplies sold to the government for its surplus stocks.

Students Asked To Participate In Prayer Day

Miss Dottie Dawson, president of the United Christian Youth Association of the Twin Cities, is asking all young people of high school age to participate in the World Day of Prayer service scheduled for tomorrow at 5 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe.

This youth service will be the last of a series in which adults, college students, and children have taken part.

Five adult services and four services for children were well-attended in the Twin Cities yesterday, Miss Dawson said.

Leaders Told

Leaders for tomorrow's meeting will be Gerald Dean, George Forman, Tommy Caldwell, Jackie Masur and Miss Dawson. Speaking parts will be given by Lori Harris, Bill Broussard, Lucy Turpin and Lea Hale.

An offering for home and world projects will be taken by Terry White, Gay Demmary, Alice Smith and Bobby Gill.

Other officers of the group besides Miss Dawson are Miss Marie Nelson, vice president; Terry White, second vice president, and Miss Alice Smith, secretary.

Buford C. Hand was found guilty of theft of $20.00 yesterday in Fourth District Court, with Judge Jesse Heard Heard presiding.

Hand was tried before a 12-man jury which brought in the verdict. He was remanded for sentencing.

'GENERALIST' BETTER

Pressmen Name Best Reporter

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press, called Friday for development of the "generalist," rather than the specialist, as the ideal news reporter.

Bartholomew spoke at the 11th final All-Coast Press Clinic, sponsored by Pacific Slope School Press and University of Washington School of Communications.

Since the Russians fired their first satellite, he said, there has been more and more talk of a need for science specialists and for developing science teams to track down the professor in his laboratory and explain his work to the country.

"We in the U.P. do have to try to anticipate trends in national life and national thought, and to try to build a staff which will cope with these trends by the time they are fully established," he said.

"People outside the organization who try to help us with these things urge us to lay on scientific talent. There is merit in this thought, but also a drawback."

It Is True

While it is true that no one can talk to a scientist the way another scientist can, Bartholomew said, the material gathered for a news story must be written so the public will understand it. The expert may not be aware of what the reader does or does not already know, he said, and he may not recognize the real news in the development.

"What is it, then, that we, all of us, are looking for and hoping to find?" he asked.

"I don't think it's the specialist, except in a limited way, and even then, perhaps the specialty should be in a field apart from the man's primary training.

"I do think it's the generalist, the man who has dipped into most of the broad streams of knowledge, and who has an abiding interest in them."

Would Not Be As Good

Bartholomew said that even if it were possible for every news gathering organization to maintain a staff of specialists in every scientific sub - category, it would not be as satisfactory as maintaining one able generalist who could handle any story.

"If I seem to dwell on this," he said, "it is that with the age of space upon us, we—and I fear the schools — are being urged to make every man a missilist.

"Ignoring science is perilous in these dangerous days. Ignoring the arts likewise imperils our whole culture. The times cry for balance. And balance is at the very core of the mature man, the man we are looking for."

Bartholomew called for development of newsmen who have been schooled in the broad fields of knowledge and at the same time are equipped with a firm grounding both in the fundamentals of the journalistic craft and in moral values.

List Characteristics

The ideal news reporter has the following characteristics, Bartholomew said:

—An inquiring mind that looks into and beyond the evident facts, leaving no questions remaining to be asked.

—A full measure of skepticism or discernment that enables him to have a challenging mind without being obnoxious about it.

—Diligence and perseverance.

—"Bone deep" integrity that leads him to follow a story wherever it may go and standing behind it, even at professional and personal peril.

—The ability to reject a "cute angle" on a story if the angle is not quite there and the willingness to rectify and amplify if the job has not been well done.

—A sense of responsibility, the characteristic that mantles the entire profession, from copy boy to editor, demanding that news be sought out wherever it is, whomever it affects, without the influence "for personal, political, religious, regional, or national prejudice or pride."

Bartholomew said he has some fears that the press release, or "handout," and the "spokesman" threaten journalistic diligence, ingenuity, skepticism and zeal.

"For," he added, "zealots we must be. Not for a cause. For facts and for the truth — and all of the truth."

Youth Held In Robbery At Crossett

CROSSETT (Special) — Nineteen -year-old Larry Dahling was apprehended here yesterday 15 minutes after he was reported to have walked out of a South Crossett store with $180 in a daring daylight robbery, police said.

Mrs. W. R. Blankenship, who with her husband runs the Ashley Chain Saw Co., had stepped out the door of the establishment to talk to a neighbor. She heard the ring of the cash register bell and looked toward the shop just in time to see Dahling stuffing money into his pckets as he hurried out, she told police.

Mrs. Blankenship called Crossett city police and patrolman Gray Edwards intercepted the Dahling, indentifying the youth from the description of the car called in by the proprietor.

Dahling was turned over to Ashley County deputy Wade Parrott and upon questioning confessed to the robbery. He showed authorities where he had hidden the money under the hood of the car, police said.

Recently returned from the Army, Dahling had been in Crossett about a month and had been stopped for questioning on several minor offenses during the past several weeks, officers said. He was unemployed.

Dahling was being held in the county jail in Hamburg on charges of grand larcency. Bond was set at $1,000. Officials said his case will come up in circuit court March 17.

Retirement Plan Assets Reported

The Parochial Employees Retirement system of Louisiana had assets of $1,420,653.82 at the end of 1957, according to facts in the current annual report.

W. A. Breedlove, secretary to the retirement system, yesterday announced the progress made during the first five years of operation. The summary of all assets, based on a recent audit by the supervisor of public funds, was included in the Fifth Annual Report of the Board of Trustees of the retirement system.

The report was compiled by Breedlove's office in Monroe. Copies have been mailed to each member of the Legislature, all state officials, each parish police jury and each special board which has members enrolled in the retirement system.

Total membership is now 3,500 with 84 persons retired. Seventy - four of these are men.

ROMANCE RANCH

by Anne Allison

Chapter 11

THE STORY THIS FAR: LIZA TRENT, young New York socialite, is vacationing at her father's ranch in Arizona. Although engaged to BLAKE MONTGOMERY of New York she finds herself falling in love with AL NICHOLS, the ranch manager. A few weeks after her arrival, as she is riding in the desert, she is shot in the shoulder by a mysterious rider. Later she receives a surprise caller—her father's secretary, PAT BRADBURY, who is a paying guest at a neighboring ranch. Pat, formerly Liza's father's fiancee says she isn't giving up Liza's father without a fight. But Liza forgets all other thoughts as Al declares his love for her.

It seemed like a good idea at the time. She knew that Al planned to pick up her tickets at the air line office just before five. If she hurried she could just make it. They would have dinner in town for a change. It would be fun. She realized now that she had never seen Al away from the Flying A, except at the airport when she arrived in Arizona.

She dressed carefully in a black dress she had not worn since she left New York. Chunky gold earrings and bracelet and high heeled black suede shoes completed her costume. She wound her long blonde hair in a knot high on her head. Al had never seen her at her most sophisticated best. Liza's heart beat faster as she recalled his words of love and his caress only a few hours before.

All the way into Phoenix, her foot pressed on the accelerator, Liza happily contemplated the future. For once she did not notice the magnificence of the desert, the sweep of color drawn across the western sky as the sun sank into a golden horizon.

Her father would be agreeable—anyway. Blake would accept his fate with resignation. As for Pat Bradbury, her parent's mercenary secretary, she would conveniently disappear from the picture.

The mysterious shot that had wounded Liza as she rode alone one morning? There would be some perfectly logical explanation—eventually. Liza did not examine her thoughts too closely on this subject. With the supreme confidence of youth she refused to see any upsetting factors on the pink cloud she had painted for herself and Al.

She parked the station wagon in downtown Phoenix, walking a block to the air lines office.

The clerk eyed her with appreciation. "Mr. Nichols? Oh yes, he left only five minutes ago."

"Do you know where he went? Where I could reach him?"

"He didn't say, Miss, but I saw him walk into the hotel just across the street."

Liza hurried across the street. The hotel lobby was crowded with tourists. Liza elowed her way to the bar. Perhaps Al was having a cocktail efore beginning the long drive back to the ranch.

The bar, announcing in neon letters that it was known as the Branding Room, was in semi-darkness. Liza waited a moment to adjust her eyes. A pain tinkled music from one corner. And then she saw him. Al, in a dark blue suit, was far better looking than he ever had been in his western clothes. Liza's heart contracted as she saw the familiar shoulders, the sleek dark head. She walked toward the booth where he was sitting. "Surprise, darling . . ." and then she saw that he was not alone.

"Hello, Liza," Pat said coolly. "The surprise, it seems, is all on your side."

Al's eyes were guarded now. Obviously he had no intention of explaining. "Won't you join us?" he asked as Liza stood by his side, sick with suspicion.

"No, thank you. I wondered if you had my plane ticket?"

In silence he handed her the envelope. The flight was for tomorrow at 10 a.m.

"Give my best to your father," Pat said with a smile. "Tell him I'll be home myself the end of the week."

The smile of triumph on the secretary's face could not be denied. Was this her revenge on Mitchell Trent's daughter? Liza forced a smile to her lips. "I have to go," she lied. "I'm meeting some friends for dinner."

Somehow she managed to get out of the hotel, back into the station wagon, onto the highway where, with unseeing eyes, she drve like a robot back to the Flying A.

It was almost three o'clock the next morning when Al returned to the ranch. Liza knew because she had waited all night in the living room.

They faced each other warily. She still loved him. She longed for his explanation which would banquish the terrible suspicions mounting in her mind.

But her eyes were cold. "I'm leaving in a few hours . . . I won't be back."

"Oh? So that's how it stands. You see me having a drink with another girl and you're through."

"Perhaps there's a reason," Liza said weakly, praying there would be.

"Perhaps there is," Al said. "But I'm not going to get down on my knees and hand it to you on a silver platter. You either trust me or you don't. Obviously you don't."

"What can I think?" Liza cried in desperation, realizing too late she had used the wrong approach. "Someone tries to kill me. Pat arrives from New York. You pretend to be in love with me. Then I find you and Pat together . . ."

"If you really loved me you wouldn't be suspicious," he insisted.

"How could I be anything else?"

Their eyes locked furiously. You would trust Blake Montgomery, I suppose!"

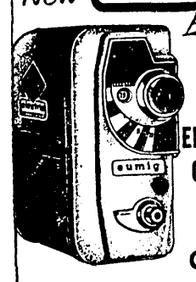

"Blake would explain!"

"Well, I'm not Blake, Baby. Get that straight for the record" He turned, and strode from the house like an angry giant.

Crime In Texas Is On Upswing

AUSTIN (UP)—Crime in Texas rose 9.2 per cent last year over 1956, the Department of Public Safety estimated Friday.

The biggest increase over 1956 was in murder and homicide, which shot up 25.5 per cent. Four major categories in addition to murder and homicide showed increases over the previous year, while two showed decreases.

Rape decreased 3.4 per cent and aggravated assault was down 4.1 per cent. Robbery was up 10.4 per cent, burglary 6.8 per cent, theft 10.3 per cent and auto theft 17.8 per cent.

Crime increased in the cities and decreased in rural areas, the DPS said.

In all cities over 2,500 population, crime was up 13 per cent in 1957 over 1956. The only decrease was rape, which was off 3.5 per cent. Murder and homicide was up 35.4 per cent.

In rural areas, all phases of crime showed decreases except for murder and homicide, which showed an increase of 13.4 per cent, the DPS said.

Rehabilitation Is Theme Of Session Here

"The Community and Rehabilitation" will be the theme of the annual meeting of Region II of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, slated for Tuesday at the Louisiana Training Institute here.

Kicking off at 10 a.m., the meeting will be held in the auditorium at the state school. After the noon hour the conference will go back into session from 1:30 until 4 p. m.

Scheduled to speak at the confab are Judge Mack Barham, city judge of Bastrop; S. W. Hendricks, director of the division of vocational rehabilitation, Baton Rouge, and Mickel J. Cousins, director of special education at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches.

Barham to Speak

Barham will speak on "Social Rehabilitation in Relation to Family Problems Caused by Alcoholism," and "Juveniles in Probation and Parole." Hendricks is to address the group on the subject of physical rehabilitation.

"Problems Within the Family Caused by Mental and Emotional Disturbances" will be Cousins' topic.

During the afternoon a panel discussion will be conducted, with the three speakers taking part along with Donn Kurtz, director of the United Givers Fund for Ouachita Parish.

Officers of Region II are Walter C. Bentrup, chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Jackson, first vice chairman; Mrs. Frances Bush, second vice chairman, and Mrs. Evelyn Curry, secretary treasurer. Mrs. Rubye Taylor is in charge of arrangements for the local meeting.

Region II of the Louisiana Conference of social welfare is composed of the following parishes: Caldwell, Ouachita, Lincoln, Jackson, Union, Morehouse, Madison, Franklin, Richland, Catahoula, Concordia, Tensas, East Carroll and West Carroll.

3 Persons Injured In Wreck Here

A Neville High School instructor and two of his students were slightly injured when their car was rammed by another at North Fourth and Pine streets yesterday.

Escaping with bruises were Leon L. Marx, 32, of 421 Howard St., driving the vehicle carrying Salley Moore, 17, of 1803 Emerson St., and Linda Bassett, 15, of Bon Air Drive. Miss Moore is a Neville senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Moore, Miss Bassett is a sophomore and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bassett.

Report

Officers reported that Marx's car was hit as it proceeded north on North Fourth. The Alverson car was headed east on Pine street, when the incident occurred at 3:05 p.m.

The two girls and their teacher were reported returning from a local business where they had been making commercial pictures for the high school yearbook.

A third automobile parked on Pine street just east of the intersection, was damaged when Marx' car was thrown against it. The vehicle was owned by Robert Gayle of 321 Egan St.

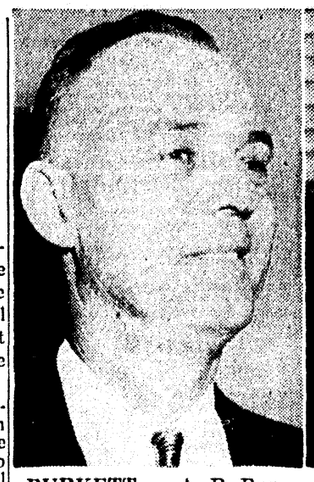

Fire Guts Home In West Monroe

A West Monroe lay in St. Francis Hospital last night as fire of undetermined origin gutted his two - story home at 3804 Cypress St. about 7 p.m.

Firemen who routed the blaze reported the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McLaughlin as "heavily damaged" by the fire. A passing motorist, Purvis Wolton, said he noticed the fire coming from an upstairs window and notified firemen. The outside structure of the frame building, valued by Mr. McLaughlin at near $20,000, was left standing. However firemen said the inside was "fairly well gutted."

McLaughlin said he had been hospitalized for the past four days for a kidney ailment. He is employed as a produce buyer for a local wholesale firm.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin occupy the 8 - room house. They have one son in the Air Force stationed in New Mexico.

BURKETT — A. P. Burkett, a West Monroe resident for 18 years, is seeking re-election to his post on the West Monroe City Council. He is ending his first term. Burkett is a salesman for the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

JOLISSAINT — Running for a second term on the West Monroe City Council is R. C. "Dick" Jolissaint, owner and operator of the Twin City Welding Company. Jolissaint served on the council from 1950-1954, and was acting mayor for a time after a previous mayor resigned. He has lived in West Monroe 23 years.

Writer Voted Recognition By Club Here

H. H. Brinsmade of the editorial staff of the Monroe News Star—World and writer of the 'Jes' Ramblin' column, was voted special recognition by the Pilot Club at a recent meeting.

The resolution, unanimously adopted by the club, read: "Be it resolved, that the Pilot Club of Monroe express its appreciation to Mr. Brinsmade for his editing of the recently published book, Sunset Gun, comprising addresses of Dr. E. K. Means, Methodist pastor, who served Monroe during World War I and returned to this city after his retirement to make his home.

"Be it further resolved, that the Pilot Club place in the library of each Methodist Church of Monroe a copy of "Sunset Gun."

"Be it finally resolved, that copies of this resolution be mailed to H. H. Brinsmade, the Civitan Club of Monroe, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, a fellow pilot, the Rev. George W. Pomeroy, the author's pastor, and Richard Hale, general manager, News Star — World Publishing Corporation."

Lively Game Of Politics Gains In WM

The election, which will choose a mayor and five aldermen, is set for April 8. Candidates who want to withdraw from the race have until Feb. 25 to notify the proper authorities of their intention. After that date, a candidate could still drop out, but his name would appear on the ballot anyway an official said.

Two For Mayor

Seeking the mayor's post are J. Allan Norris, incumbent, and Marlin Hattaway, while 12 men will vie for the 5-man council. Incumbent councilmen seeking reelection are Alton Burkett, C. E. Ponder, Amos Hood and Roy Cash.

The other eight men who are trying for aldermanic positions are B. H. Dyar, Loy K. Heard, H. H. McBroom, A. J. Lester, Ben Farmer, R. C. "Dick" Jolissaint, Jack Russell and George Cox.

The Morning World began running each candidate's picture yesterday, starting with the two candidates for mayor. Pictures of two council candidates will appear each day, appearing in alphabetical order, choosing from pictures available. However, several candidates have not furnished the World with a picture, and are asked to do so as soon as possible.

Trucker Asks For Talks Between Trainmen, Trucks

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Neil J. Curry, Los Angeles trucking leader, today called for a national conference between the nation's two feuding freight carriers, the truck and the train.

Curry, chairman of the American Trucking Assn.'s executive committee, said "There are many areas in which such a meeting could work to our mutual advantage."

Curry here for the annual convention of the Louisiana Motor Transport Assn., was interviewed by newsmen. He later spoke to the state group's board of directors.

Curry said the approach "has been too emotional and bitter" and now is the time for a meeting of minds "between thinking people."

A conference on transportation, he said, would not be completely effective unless it originated from the American Assn. of Railroads or the ATA.

Such a meeting, he said, could benefit its participants by discussing joint rates, the three per cent transportation tax; extension of piggy-back service; tightening of agricultural exemptions; and eliminating the unregulated trucker.

The ATA feels, Curry said, that joint rates would help the shipper who wants to send merchandise part of the way by rail and part by truck.

He said more piggy-back service, shipping of truck bodies on flat rail cars, would boost business for both forms of transportation.

The state organization passed a resolution opposing "in all respects the imposition of any new or additional tax burden."

Ward And Odom Attend Meeting

Odom and Ward will return Wednesday when the meeting ends. Panel discussions on current problems of school administrations will be held at the meeting.

Odom and Ward will attend the discussions.

Miss. Bill Makes Promise Of Paper

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20 (AP)—Mississippi's rural areas and small communities would be guaranteed delivery of their newspapers and other small articles under a bill approved in the Senate today.

The bill—which now goes to the governor for his signature—removes the 200-pound limit on weight of articles that may be delivered by passenger buses.

Sen. Hushel Moss of Raleigh told the Senate if buses were forbidden to carry newspapers, "many small communities would be deprived of their newspapers."

Sen. Mayes McGehee of Meadville observed that "most of these buses have been exceeding the 200-pound limit for years without being aware of it."

Sen. Frank Barlow of Crystal Springs said removal of the limit also would permit rapid bus shipment of auto parts, eliminating the necessary delay of several days through the U.S. mail.

KOUNTZE, Tex. (UP)— Army Pvt. Donald McCollum, 24, was found guilty Friday of murdering his wife and sentenced to five years in prison.

The jury, after deliberating about four hours, returned a verdict of guilty of murder without malice. The state had asked that they sentence McCollum to life in prison for murder with malice.

Thursday, Dr. R. A. Tate, a surprise witness, testified that he thought McCollum was a "psycho-neurotic subject to hysterical seizures."

He said he thought McCollum was suffering from such a seizure and "lost contact with reality" when he killed his wife. He said he didn't think McCollum is insane now, but that he was when he killed his wife or he wouldn't have given police the circumstantial evidence that he did.

ROMANCE RANCH

by Anne Allison

Chapter 11

THE STORY THIS FAR: LIZA TRENT, young New York socialite, is vacationing at her father's ranch in Arizona. Although engaged to BLAKE MONTGOMERY of New York she finds herself falling in love with AL NICHOLS, the ranch manager. A few weeks after her arrival, as she is riding in the desert, she is shot in the shoulder by a mysterious rider. Later she receives a surprise caller—her father's secretary, PAT BRADBURY, who is a paying guest at a neighboring ranch. Pat, formerly Liza's father's fiancee says she isn't giving up Liza's father without a fight. But Liza forgets all other thoughts as Al declares his love for her.

It seemed like a good idea at the time. She knew that Al planned to pick up her tickets at the air line office just before five. If she hurried she could just make it. They would have dinner in town for a change. It would be fun. She realized now that she had never seen Al away from the Flying A, except at the airport when she arrived in Arizona.

She dressed carefully in a black dress she had not worn since she left New York. Chunky gold earrings and bracelet and high heeled black suede shoes completed her costume. She wound her long blonde hair in a knot high on her head. Al had never seen her at her most sophisticated best. Liza's heart beat faster as she recalled his words of love and his caress only a few hours before.

All the way into Phoenix, her foot pressed on the accelerator, Liza happily contemplated the future. For once she did not notice the magnificence of the desert, the sweep of color drawn across the western sky as the sun sank into a golden horizon.

Her father would be agreeable—anyway. Blake would accept his fate with resignation. As for Pat Bradbury, her parent's mercenary secretary, she would conveniently disappear from the picture.

The mysterious shot that had wounded Liza as she rode alone one morning? There would be some perfectly logical explanation—eventually. Liza did not examine her thoughts too closely on this subject. With the supreme confidence of youth she refused to see any upsetting factors on the pink cloud she had painted for herself and Al.

She parked the station wagon in downtown Phoenix, walking a block to the air lines office.

Jolissaint served on the council from 1950-1954, and was acting mayor for a time after a previous mayor resigned. He has lived in West Monroe 23 years.

Writer Voted Recognition By Club Here

H. H. Brinsmade of the editorial staff of the Monroe News Star—World and writer of the 'Jes' Ramblin' column, was voted special recognition by the Pilot Club at a recent meeting.

The resolution, unanimously adopted by the club, read: "Be it resolved, that the Pilot Club of Monroe express its appreciation to Mr. Brinsmade for his editing of the recently published book, Sunset Gun, comprising addresses of Dr. E. K. Means, Methodist pastor, who served Monroe during World War I and returned to this city after his retirement to make his home.

"Be it further resolved, that the Pilot Club place in the library of each Methodist Church of Monroe a copy of "Sunset Gun."

"Be it finally resolved, that copies of this resolution be mailed to H. H. Brinsmade, the Civitan Club of Monroe, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, a fellow pilot, the Rev. George W. Pomeroy, the author's pastor, and Richard Hale, general manager, News Star — World Publishing Corporation."

Concordia 4-H Sets Livestock Exhibit Today

FERRIDAY (Special) — Concordia Parish 4 -H Club members will exhibit their livestock at 10:30 today at the Parish Fair Livestock Barn in Ferriday.

Entered in the exhibit to show their livestock are Margaret and Helen Crump of the Clayton 4-H Club; Charles Ferguson, Shannon Webb, and Jimmy Wade of the Ferriday 4-H club; Frances Ann Storey, Susan Broussard and Charles Wiley of the Monterey 4-H club; and Bill Doyle and Hoyt Alexander of the Vidalia 4-H club.

Roger Davis, sheepman and owner of the Grove Plantation of Natchez, Miss., and his manager, Bob Siler, will judge the livestock. At the conclusion of the judging, a trophy will be presented to the 4-H member that exhibits the champion fat lamb of the show. The trophy will be donated by Davis.

GEOLOGIST DIES

HOUSTON (UP)—Perry Olcott, 61, internationally- known geologist and former chief reserve engineer for Humble Oil and Refining Co., died Friday. Olcott retired from Humble Oil five years ago and operated a private office since that time.

Lively Game Of Politics Gains In WM

The election, which will choose a mayor and five aldermen, is set for April 8. Candidates who want to withdraw from the race have until Feb. 25 to notify the proper authorities of their intention. After that date, a candidate could still drop out, but his name would appear on the ballot anyway an official said.

Two For Mayor

Seeking the mayor's post are J. Allan Norris, incumbent, and Marlin Hattaway, while 12 men will vie for the 5-man council. Incumbent councilmen seeking re-election are Alton Burkett, C. E. Ponder, Amos Hood and Roy Cash.

The other eight men who are trying for aldermanic positions are B. H. Dyar, Loy K. Heard, H. H. McBroom, A. J. Lester, Ben Farmer, R. C. "Dick" Jolissaint, Jack Russell and George Cox.

The Morning World began running each candidate's picture yesterday, starting with the two candidates for mayor. Pictures of two council candidates will appear each day, appearing in alphabetical order, choosing from pictures available. However, several candidates have not furnished the World with a picture, and are asked to do so as soon as possible.

Trucker Asks For Talks Between Trainmen, Trucks

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21 (AP)—Neil J. Curry, Los Angeles trucking leader, today called for a national conference between the nation's two feuding freight carriers, the truck and the train.

Curry, chairman of the American Trucking Assn.'s executive committee, said "There are many areas in which such a meeting could work to our mutual advantage."

Curry here for the annual convention of the Louisiana Motor Transport Assn., was interviewed by newsmen. He later spoke to the state group's board of directors.

Curry said the approach "has been too emotional and bitter" and now is the time for a meeting of minds "between thinking people."

A conference on transportation, he said, would not be completely effective unless it originated from the American Assn. of Railroads or the ATA.

Such a meeting, he said, could benefit its participants by discussing joint rates, the three per cent transportation tax; extension of piggy-back service; tightening of agricultural exemptions; and eliminating the unregulated trucker.

The ATA feels, Curry said, that joint rates would help the shipper who wants to send merchandise part of the way by rail and part by truck.

He said more piggy-back service, shipping of truck bodies on flat rail cars, would boost business for both forms of transportation.

The state organization passed a resolution opposing "in all respects the imposition of any new or additional tax burden."

Ward And Odom Attend Meeting

Odom and Ward will return Wednesday when the meeting ends. Panel discussions on current problems of school administrations will be held at the meeting.

Odom and Ward will attend the discussions.

C. H. Williams Dies

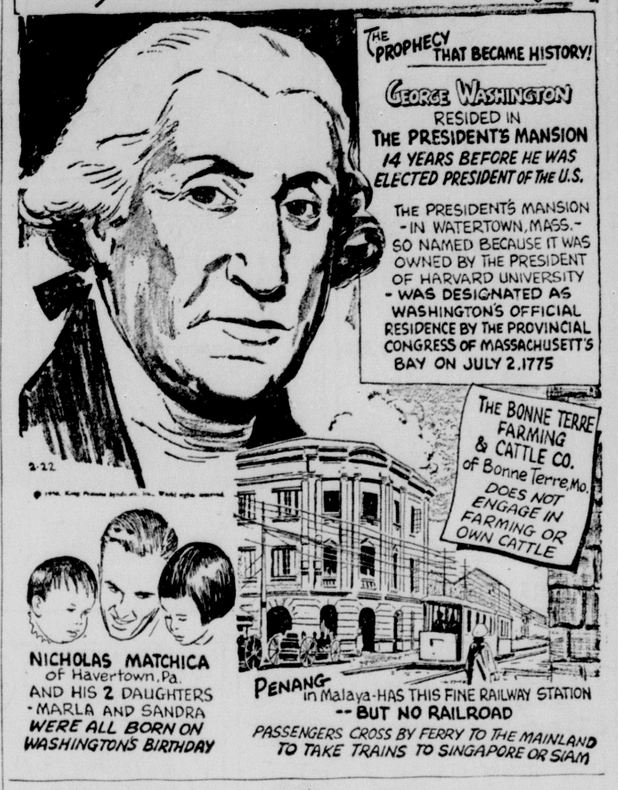

WINNSBORO (Special) — Charles H. Williams, 70, died yesterday morning at a Winnsboro clinic. He was a resident of Winsner.

Funeral services will be at the Crowville Baptist Church at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Joseph Silvio officiating.

Interment will be in Crowville Masonic Cemetery under direction of Gay's Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Pallbearers will be W. S. Reagan, Steve Ogden, Clay Anderson, Jesse Gordy, Cammie Gordy, James Andrews, Charlie Temple, and Jack Pearce.

Miss. Bill Makes Promise Of Paper

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 20 (AP)—Mississippi's rural areas and small communities would be guaranteed delivery of their newspapers and other small articles under a bill approved in the Senate today.

The bill—which now goes to the governor for his signature—removes the 200-pound limit on weight of articles that may be delivered by passenger buses.

Sen. Hushel Moss of Raleigh told the Senate if buses were forbidden to carry newspapers, "many small communities would be deprived of their newspapers."

Sen. Mayes McGehee of Meadville observed that "most of these buses have been exceeding the 200-pound limit for years without being aware of it."

Sen. Frank Barlow of Crystal Springs said removal of the limit also would permit rapid bus shipment of auto parts, eliminating the necessary delay of several days through the U.S. mail.

NAMED TO BOARD

AUSTIN (UP)— Gov. Price Daniel Friday announced three appointments to the state Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners. They were Mrs. Verliem Graham of Austin, Mrs. Marie S. French of Sinto and Mrs. Adele Cherry of Taylor.

BABY SUFFOCATES

TYLER, Tex. (UP) — Cynthia Wright, 6-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wright, was found suffocated in the bedcovers of her crib Friday.

Tex. Man Gets Five Year Sen.

KOUNTZE, Tex. (UP)— Army Pvt. Donald McCollum, 24, was found guilty Friday of murdering his wife and sentenced to five years in prison.

The jury, after deliberating about four hours, returned a verdict of guilty of murder without malice. The state had asked that they sentence McCollum to life in prison for murder with malice.

Thursday, Dr. R. A. Tate, a surprise witness, testified that he thought McCollum was a "psycho-neurotic subject to hysterical seizures."

He said he thought McCollum was suffering from such a seizure and "lost contact with reality" when he killed his wife. He said he didn't think McCollum is insane now, but that he was when he killed his wife or he wouldn't have given police the circumstantial evidence that he did.

Selection Of Delhi Queen To Open Show

DELHI (Special) — The 18th annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock is scheduled to open here tonight at 7:30, with the selection of a queen from 16 area beauties.

Master of ceremonies for the four - day occasion will be Justin Wilson, noted speaker and 'cajun dialect artist.

The grand parade is slated for 2 pm. Monday, and judging of livestock will begin Tuesday with junior dairy, all breeds. Junior poultry, swine, sheep breeding and showmanship, fat steers and beef will also take place Tuesday with a horse show during the evening hours.

Adult division Aberdeen Angus, Hereford, Shorthorn and Red Poll were set for Wednesday during the day with a second horse show in the evening.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Selection Of Delhi Queen To Open Show

DELHI (Special) — The 18th annual Northeast Louisiana Livestock is scheduled to open here tonight at 7:30, with the selection of a queen from 16 area beauties.

Master of ceremonies for the four - day occasion will be Justin Wilson, noted speaker and 'cajun dialect artist.

The grand parade is slated for 2 pm. Monday, and judging of livestock will begin Tuesday with junior dairy, all breeds. Junior poultry, swine, sheep breeding and showmanship, fat steers and beef will also take place Tuesday with a horse show during the evening hours.

Adult division Aberdeen Angus, Hereford, Shorthorn and Red Poll were set for Wednesday during the day with a second horse show in the evening.

Officers of the show in addition to Martin are Roy Snider, vice president; J. H. Martin, secretary - treasurer; Charles Brown, manager of adult division, and W. H. Farmer manager of junior division.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain and scattered thunderstorm activity is forecast for Texas, the western Gulf and lower Mississippi valley, with rain also expected over the northern Pacific coast area. Some snow flurries may fall over the northern and eastern Great Lakes and northern Appalachians. Drizzle or light rain is expected through the southern Lakes and central Appalachians. (AP Wirephoto Map)

THAW IS ON

Frigid Spell Appears Gone

By UNITED PRESS

The cold wave was gone and the thaw was on in the east Friday.

Snows finally began to melt in blizzard-swept areas from Indiana to Massachusetts. Weather forecasters warned that a fast warm-up accompanied by heavy rains could set serious floods in motion.

The tugs had fought for three days to smash out a channel in ice blocking the mighty river north of Cairo, Ill. The tugs beat the odds Friday when the Macleay, crunching its way downstream, met up with the Gene C. Hutchinson and the Missouri, proceeding upstream.

The three hardy boats turned for a triumphal procession downstream picking up three ice-locked barges as they went. Army engineers warned, however, that freezing weather moving in from the north could close the river again.

Danger Of Floods

Feed supplies were still airlifted to stranded Pennsylvania farmers. Helicopters from Fort Devens, Mass., flew to aid marooned upstate New York farmers, while in Indiana jeeps followed rotary snow plows in an attempt to bring in loads of vital supplies.

The governors of all three states had declared states of emergency, but heavy drifting had stopped and the worst appeared to be over except for the danger of floods.

Forecasters said moderate to heavy rains, along with a sudden thaw, would start floodwaters rolling. Although the danger was not immediate in the East, heavy rains in Texas were triggering major flooding along the Nueces River.

More Cold Air

On the brighter note, the United Press count of weather-caused deaths since the start of the cold wave Feb. 6 failed to rise appreciably. The only new fatalities were the frozen bodies of an elderly man and woman found in an Oyster Bay, N.Y., cottage. They brought the state's fatality total to 58—highest in the nation—and the national death count to 555.

Although temperatures approached the 60's in Kansas, it was still too early to say goodbye to cold weather.

Forecasters said Canada was sending another cold air mass across the Northern Plains border and temperatures would be back at 10 to 15 degrees below zero in Northern Minnesota by sunup Saturday. Snow was predicted from Michigan into New York and New England and drizzles were in store from northern Indiana to Pennsylvania.

DEATHS

MRS. DOROTHY PERKINS

FERRIDAY (Special) — Mrs. Dorothy Perkins, 60, of Clayton, died Thursday night at her home after a two week illness.

Mrs. Perkins moved to Clayton in 1924 from Illinois. She has been affiliated with the State Department of Welfare in Concordia parish for the past 16 years.

Mrs. Perkins was a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Natchez, Miss.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Young's Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Horace Carpenter, minister of Clayton Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will follow in Legion Memorial Cemetery of Newellton.

Survivors include two sons, Edmond F. Perkins of Clayton, and Lloyd H. Perkins II of Waterproof; a daughter, Mrs. James Ingram of Shreveport; five grandsons and several brothers and sisters.

Guess, of Shreveport, Leslie Guess of Bossier City and Norman Guess of Oak Grove; five daughters, Mrs. Madlin Miley of Bossier City, Mrs. Dorothy Mullinix, Mrs. Delores Mullinix, and Mrs. Faye Craig, all of Shreveport, and Mrs. Lucille Smith of Randles Pass, Tex.; two brothers, Burl Smith of Oak Grove and Arca Smith of Broad Bent, Ore.; a sister, Mrs. Floyd Daniels, of East Prairie, Mo.

Ford Announces Its Current Layoffs

DETROIT, Feb. 21 (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a layoff of 14,000 men for all of next week at its key River Rouge plant. In addition 4,000 assembly line workers will be laid off Thursday and Friday.

A company spokesman said the layoff is for the purpose of adjusting production schedules.

This week the assembly line at River Rouge has been down with 4,000 men idle. The assembly workers are to return to the job Monday but will be idle again next Thursday and Friday, the spokesman said. That will mean a two-day total idleness next week of 18,000. The 14,000 to be laid off starting Monday are scattered through various Rouge divisions.

Rouge recently has been employing 33,000 men.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain and scattered thunderstorm activity is forecast for Texas, the western Gulf and lower Mississippi valley, with rain also expected over the northern Pacific coast area. Some snow flurries may fall over the northern and eastern Great Lakes and northern Appalachians. Drizzle or light rain is expected through the southern Lakes and central Appalachians. (AP Wirephoto Map)

THAW IS ON

Frigid Spell Appears Gone

By UNITED PRESS

The cold wave was gone and the thaw was on in the east Friday.

Snows finally began to melt in blizzard-swept areas from Indiana to Massachusetts. Weather forecasters warned that a fast warm-up accompanied by heavy rains could set serious floods in motion.

The tugs had fought for three days to smash out a channel in ice blocking the mighty river north of Cairo, Ill. The tugs beat the odds Friday when the Macleay, crunching its way downstream, met up with the Gene C. Hutchinson and the Missouri, proceeding upstream.

The three hardy boats turned for a triumphal procession downstream picking up three ice-locked barges as they went. Army engineers warned, however, that freezing weather moving in from the north could close the river again.

Danger Of Floods

Elsewhere, rescue operations for snowbound families in Indiana, New York and Pennsylvania were in high gear.

Feed supplies were still airlifted to stranded Pennsylvania farmers. Helicopters from Fort Devens, Mass., flew to aid marooned upstate New York farmers, while in Indiana jeeps followed rotary snow plows in an attempt to bring in loads of vital supplies.

The governors of all three states had declared states of emergency, but heavy drifting had stopped and the worst appeared to be over except for the danger of floods.

Forecasters said moderate to heavy rains, along with a sudden thaw, would start floodwaters rolling. Although the danger was not immediate in the East, heavy rains in Texas were triggering major flooding along the Nueces River.

More Cold Air

On the brighter note, the United Press count of weather-caused deaths since the start of the cold wave Feb. 6 failed to rise appreciably. The only new fatalities were the frozen bodies of an elderly man and woman found in an Oyster Bay, N.Y., cottage. They brought the state's fatality total to 58—highest in the nation—and the national death count to 555.

Although temperatures approached the 60's in Kansas, it was still too early to say goodbye to cold weather.

Forecasters said Canada was sending another cold air mass across the Northern Plains border and temperatures would be back at 10 to 15 degrees below zero in Northern Minnesota by sunup Saturday. Snow was predicted from Michigan into New York and New England and drizzles were in store from northern Indiana to Pennsylvania.

DEATHS

MRS. DOROTHY PERKINS

FERRIDAY (Special) — Mrs. Dorothy Perkins, 60, of Clayton, died Thursday night at her home after a two week illness.

Mrs. Perkins moved to Clayton in 1924 from Illinois. She has been affiliated with the State Department of Welfare in Concordia parish for the past 16 years.

Mrs. Perkins was a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Natchez, Miss.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Young's Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Horace Carpenter, minister of Clayton Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will follow in Legion Memorial Cemetery of Newellton.

Survivors include two sons, Edmond F. Perkins of Clayton, and Lloyd H. Perkins II of Waterproof; a daughter, Mrs. James Ingram of Shreveport; five grandsons and several brothers and sisters.

Ford Announces Its Current Layoffs

DETROIT, Feb. 21 (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. today announced a layoff of 14,000 men for all of next week at its key River Rouge plant. In addition 4,000 assembly line workers will be laid off Thursday and Friday.

A company spokesman said the layoff is for the purpose of adjusting production schedules.

This week the assembly line at River Rouge has been down with 4,000 men idle. The assembly workers are to return to the job Monday but will be idle again next Thursday and Friday, the spokesman said. That will mean a two-day total idleness next week of 18,000. The 14,000 to be laid off starting Monday are scattered through various Rouge divisions.

Rouge recently has been employing 33,000 men.

MAN FREED

TYLER, Tex. (UP)—Fred Cox, one of five men charged in connection with a statewide cigaret theft ring, was freed on bond Friday. He put up $10,500 bond on charges at Tyler, Corpus Christi, Austin and Wichita Falls.

COTTON LETTER

Trading was turbulent throughout a large portion of the day with prices strong especially in new crop months. Latter established new life of contract highs under board buying.

Sizeable commission house estimated to be short a large number of new March and May was good buyer of July, October and December.

They were also heavy sellers in New Orleans of May despite liquidation of over 20,000 bales by Clayton. Old March continued to lag due to extremely slow spot demand and expectation of at least moderate tenders next week.

Unfixed call sales as of Feb. 14 totalled 360,400 bales vs. 439,900 year ago. July position showed significant increase. Washington rumors that the Senate Agriculture Committee may report out a modified Eastland bill next week. Sen. Eastland, on the other hand, stated congress would not go along with a price support decline in cotton for the coming year.

NEW FIRM

A new company which will specialize in the manufacture of compounds for solid rocket and missile fuels has been formed by Hooker Electrochemical Co. and Foote Mineral Co.

SALES DROP

Department store sales dropped six per cent in the week ended Feb. 15 from the preceding week, the Federal Reserve Board reported. For the year through Feb. 15, sales declined two per cent from 1957.

NEW MONEY

The Treasury said it will make an offering next Friday of a bond issue maturing in about nine years to raise $1,250,000,000 of new money.

CRUDE CUT

Crude oil production in Texas next month will be restricted to an unprecedented nine days flow. Regulatory authorities set permissible output in March at 2,517,249 barrels daily.

OPPOSE TAX CUT

Immediate tax cuts as an anti-recession step were opposed as premature in a report said to have been approved by the House-Senate Economic Committee.

SALES GAIN

General Electric's sales and earnings continued to gain over year earlier levels during the final quarter of 1957 and results for the full year set new highs. With volume up [illegible] per cent, net profits rose to $2.84 a share, compared with $2.46 earned in 1956

COTTON

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 10 cents a bale lower to $1.35 higher today. Only nearby March showed a decline on liquidation prior to first notice day Monday.

General buying pushed all new crop months to new seasonal months. The buying was attributed mainly to expectations that more cotton acreage will go into the soil bank and thus reduce the potential size of the 1958 crop. This view is predicated on additional funds voted by the House Appropriations Committee for the soil bank.

Nearby May futures were held in check by trade selling with a leading Houston spot firm selling an estimated 18,000 bales of that delivery.

FCC To Award Channel Grant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today advised UHF channel 20 station WJMF-TV, New Orleans, that the authority it holds to make temporary experimental use of VHF channel 12 there will not be considered a factor in deciding who is finally awarded regular use of channel 12.

WJMA-TV is applying for a permanent switch to channel 12 in competition with new station application filed by Coastal Television Co. and Oklahoma Television Corp.

The commission last summer granted a petition by WJMR-TV that it be allowed to make simultaneous broadcasts of its programs on channel 20 and channel 12, for the asserted purpose of obtaining new information on comparative UHF and VHF performace.

The commission said the experimental permit has been amended to stipulate that any expense incurred by WJMR-TV in its tests may not be introduced into the channel 12 contest.

"Nor," it said, "will any other preference rebound (to the station) by virtue of said experimental operation."

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices improved a bit late this afternoon but the market was generally lower. Trading was quiet.

Volume for the day was estimated at 1,700,000 shares compared with 2,060,000 yesterday.

Losses of around a point were shown by Youngstown Sheet, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft and Eastern Air Lines.

Oils were mixed as Sinclair and Royal Dutch remained firm. Texas Co. was off a bit.

Leading rails trended to the downside.

WOOL LETTER

Courtesy of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, & Beane

In moderate trading the market closed irregularly on late commission house buying of the middle distant months. Monday is first notice day for March wool and wool tops and the spot month was under fairly heavy pressure particularly during the afternoon.

Trade interests were generally evening up prior to the weekend. Over the past week or so the discounts for the more distant contracts has narrowed somewhat with some professional buying noted in far off months.

There were no auctions held in Australia yesterday, however, advices from New Zealand reported an easier tendency. London futures closed steady but irregular with their spot month under pressure. Fairly heavy tendering is expected against their March position At the London wool auction sale held yesterday prices were unchanged to a few pence lower.

PROGRESS REPORT

CONSTRUCTION IS UNDERWAY.

At the present time over 25 miles of cable is in the air; and we are proceeding rapidly. Service will be available in the Northern section of West Monroe and North of Louisville Avenue in Monroe the early part of March. Service will be available in other areas as soon as possible.

FIVE CHANNELS AVAILABLE ON THE VIDEO CABLE.

Five channels are available at the present time. They are: KNOE-TV Channel 8, Monroe; KRBB channel 10, El Dorado; KSLA-TV Channel 12, Shreveprot; KTBS-TV Channel 3, Shreveport; KALB-TV Channel 5, Alexandria.

TALL TOWER IN OPERATION IN WEST MONROE

Our big 500 ft. tower in Kiroli Woods is now completed and sets are in operation in our offices at 1215 Cypress St., West Monroe. We have completed our cable crossing of the Ouachita River and service is progressing rapidly.

SEE THE DIFFERENCE THE CABLE CAN MAKE

Sets are in operation in our offices at 1215 Cypress St. We invite you to drop in and see the difference and greater enjoyment in television viewing pleasure that await you when you join the Video Community Television Antenna System.

THE BIG QUESTION

WHEN CAN AN ORDER BE PLACED FOR SERVICE ON THE VIDEO COMMUNITY ANTENNA SYSTEM?

Our grand opening will be held on February 27 & 28 at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds. Local Dealers will display all makes and models of television sets at that time. The general public is invited to attend this grand opening. Our representatives will be available at that time to discuss the installation of the cable in your home and the date of installation can be set at that time.

OTHER QUESTIONS—OTHER ANSWERS

Drop by our offices at 1215 Cypress St. for a visit or call FA 5-4658 and we will be happy to answer your questions. We like to talk about this new industry because we know what it will mean to you the people of the Twin Cities.

COTTON LETTER

Trading was turbulent throughout a large portion of the day with prices strong especially in new crop months. Latter established new life of contract highs under board buying.

Sizeable commission house estimated to be short a large number of new March and May was good buyer of July, October and December.

They were also heavy sellers in New Orleans of May despite liquidation of over 20,000 bales by Clayton. Old March continued to lag due to extremely slow spot demand and expectation of at least moderate tenders next week.

Unfixed call sales as of Feb. 14 totalled 360,400 bales vs. 489,900 year ago. July position showed significant increase. Washington rumors that the Senate Agriculture Committee may report out a modified Eastland bill next week. Sen. Eastland, on the other hand, stated congress would not go along with a price support decline in cotton for the coming year.

COTTON

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 10 cents a bale lower to $1.35 higher today. Only nearby March showed a decline on liquidation prior to first notice day Monday.

General buying pushed all new crop months to new seasonal months. The buying was attributed mainly to expectations that more cotton acreage will go into the soil bank and thus reduce the potential size of the 1958 crop. This view is predicated on additional funds voted by the House Appropriations Committee for the soil bank.

Nearby May futures were held in check by trade selling with a leading Houston spot firm selling an estimated 18,000 bales of that delivery.

FCC To Award Channel Grant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission today advised UHF channel 20 station WJMF-TV, New Orleans, that the authority it holds to make temporary experimental use of VHF channel 12 there will not be considered a factor in deciding who is finally awarded regular use of channel 12.

WJMA-TV is applying for a permanent switch to channel 12 in competition with new station application filed by Coastal Television Co. and Oklahoma Television Corp.

The commission last summer granted a petition by WJMR-TV that it be allowed to make simultaneous broadcasts of its programs on channel 20 and channel 12, for the asserted purpose of obtaining new information on comparative UHF and VHF performace.

The commission said the experimental permit has been amended to stipulate that any expense incurred by WJMR-TV in its tests may not be introduced into the channel 12 contest.

"Nor," it said, "will any other preference rebound (to the station) by virtue of said experimental operation."

WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices improved a bit late this afternoon but the market was generally lower. Trading was quiet.

Volume for the day was estimated at 1,700,000 shares compared with 2,060,000 yesterday.

Losses ran from fractions to around a point. A minority of gainers were in the same range.

Scattered gains were present among tobaccos and chemicals.

Oils were mixed as Sinclair and Royal Dutch remained firm. Texas Co. was off a bit.

Leading rails trended to the downside.

Courtesy of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, & Beane

In moderate trading the market closed irregularly on late commission house buying of the middle distant months. Monday is first notice day for March wool and wool tops and the spot month was under fairly heavy pressure particularly during the afternoon.

Trade interests were generally evening up prior to the weekend. Over the past week or so the discounts for the more distant contracts has narrowed somewhat with some professional buying noted in far off months.

There were no auctions held in Australia yesterday, however, advices from New Zealand reported an easier tendency. London futures closed steady but irregular with their spot month under pressure. Fairly heavy tendering is expected against their March position At the London wool auction sale held yesterday prices were unchanged to a few pence lower.
